FRANCE WILL FIGHT TREATY REVISION CUTTING INDEMNITY

Willing to Aid Germany, but Not at the Cost of Her Own Prosperity.

OBJECTS TO ECONOMIC PLAN

Would Have German Loan Supervised by Reparations Commission, Not a Separate One.

COUNCIL APPROVES LOAN

But "Pertinax" Says Reparations Commission Will Arrange Conditions of Its Issue.

PARIS, March 4 (Associated Press).—The French Government will make determined opposition to any revision of the Treaty of Versailles that would modify French claims on Germany. The attitude of the Government, according to the official point of view, is in perfect accord with the sentiments of the new Chamber of Deputies. It is held that any further concessions by France to Germany would not be tolerated by Parliament, and that if they were made the Government would be overthrown.

The French official view of the economic situation, according to authoritative statements made today, is the same as that set forth in London: that is, that all Europe must be put on a prosperous basis. The French, however, it is pointed out, are beginning to think that their Allies have forgotten that France herself is not on a prosperous basis and not in a position to make concessions to any one that would affect her own economic interests—least of all to Germany.

Two Prime Objections by France.

PARIS, March 4.—The French Government has two objections to the program for the economic and political rehabilitation of Europe drafted in London. The first objection is to the plan to name a new commission to supervise and arrange a loan for Germany. The French Government contends that this matter should be managed by the Reparation Commission, which would doubtless more carefully conserve the interests of France in the indemnities due from Germany.

The second objection is to the recommendation to the States bordering on Russia to make peace with the Soviets. The French Government would adhere to the declaration of Jan. 24, which does not make such recommendation.

Outside of these two reservations, which by no means appear insurmountable, the French Government seems ready to give its aid to enabling Germany to get back on her feet. But France is very anxious to guarantee herself against the development of Germany in a manner to make her again dangerous to France. In other words, France is willing to help Germany reach a state in which she can pay what she owes to France and Belgium; but she is determined to use all her influence against Germany's regaining a position in which she can defy France.

The Matin today in a leading article says:

"We are at peace. We intend to remain at peace. Do we wish to have military peace and economic war?" What have we to gain from that?

"England will work,—will trade and will collaborate with Germany and Russia. Shall we refuse? We should be blocked in our development if we did.

"Do you think, then, with Mr. Lloyd George, that we must raise up Germany and Russia? That France ought to participate in the economic reconstruction of Germany?

"Certainly we ought, but on condition that such reconstruction prepares our reconstruction; that we have an interest in the affairs of Germany, and that her rebirth shall guarantee the repayment of our debts; that the conquered shall work to rebuild the ruins they caused. The victims of the war must come first.

"The disarmament of the Allies can come only after the disarmament of Germany, controlled by the League of Nations. The imposts which the League of Nations has the right to fix ought to bear upon German production more heavily than upon ours up to the point where the disasters caused by Germany shall have been repaired.

"To remove from Europe the last traces of war—yes. To put Germany again in condition to begin war—never in your life!"

LONDON, March 4.—"Pertinax" telephones to the Echo de Paris tonight:

"Prudent, witty and skillful as he is, Signor Nitti has gone strangely astray these days. Imagine that he has not gone back to Rome with laurels in his heart.

"Nitti has not been satisfied with taking the initiative in the proposed economic reconstitution of Germany, which would nullify the authority and powers of the Reparation Commission set up by the Treaty of Versailles. He went much further. He opposed the suggestion that it should be put on record that the re-establishment of the devastated regions was as important from the general European point of view as the re-establishment of German industry. He wanted to give to the international loan to Germany priority over an international loan which would assist France in rising from her ruins.

"'Once the German loan has been

Our Zurich Consulate Bombed, Suspect Deportation Protest

BERNE, March 4.—A heavily charged bomb was exploded last night before the street door of the American Consulate in Zurich.

The door was shattered, large holes were pierced in the wall and all the windows were broken. The ground floor, where the office of the Consulate is situated, was almost demolished. The Consul and his family, who lived on the upper floor, escaped uninjured.

The impression in Zurich official circles is that the attack was a Bolshevist protest against the deportation of Reds and arrest of other radicals in the United States.

According to another view, the bomb was exploded as an act of revenge by a foreigner to whom passports to the United States had been refused. The Consul said that many such refusals had been made lately.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—An official report on the bombing of the Consulate at Zurich was made to the State Department today by Consul General Keena, who said the police attributed the outrage "to anarchistic activities."

TURKEY TO RETAIN HER HOLY PLACES

But Virtually Nothing Else in Europe Will Be Left Her, Allies Decide.

SULTAN'S CABINET RESIGNS

Izzet Pasha Summoned—Lloyd George Says Decision Is Reached on Massacres.

LONDON, March 4.—Turkey is stripped of virtually all her territory in Europe, but retains her holy places by the treaty now being completed by the conference of Foreign Ministers and Ambassadors, which met today at the Foreign Office, Premier Lloyd George being in attendance for a time.

Thrace has been awarded to Greece by the Peace Conference, but the present conference is charged with the task of working out plans whereby the Turks shall keep control of the centres of pilgrimage.

Adrianople and Smyrna will be placed under Greek control.

Allied Decision on Massacres.

Replying to a question in the House of Commons today regarding the massacres of Armenians, Mr. Lloyd George said this had been the subject of very anxious consideration at the allied conference, and the conferees had reached a decision which had been communicated to their representatives at Constantinople.

It would not be advisable, the Premier added, to make public at the moment the character of that decision. What would be done regarding it would depend upon the advice to be received from the Turkish capital.

"We are awaiting that advice now," continued the Premier, "but I can assure the House that we are fully alive to the gravity of the position and to the need of taking very strong measures to protect minorities as far as can be done in a country of this kind. I hope to be able to make a statement in a very short time, but we are at the present moment awaiting the views of the representatives of all the Allies at Constantinople upon the suggestion which we put forward."

Lord Robert Cecil asked whether the Premier would make a fuller statement on Monday. Mr. Lloyd George replied: "That depends largely on the replies which come and on the action which is taken. It may be inadvisable, if action is being taken, to make any announcement until it becomes manifest to the whole world."

The Premier said that the protection of minorities in Cilicia was in charge of the French and all the Allies were prepared to give the French such support as might be within their power.

Mr. Lloyd George was asked on what date America had definitely refused to accept a mandate for Constantinople, and whether America had been consulted concerning the Turkish peace terms. The Premier replied that the United States did not definitely refuse to accept the mandate, but had withdrawn from the discussions. The peace terms with Turkey were still under discussion, he added, and the American Government had declined an invitation to be present at the conference.

Turkish Cabinet Resigns.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 3.—In view of the gravity of the situation the Cabinet resigned today. The Sultan has called upon Izzet Pasha to form a new Cabinet.

Izzet Pasha is a partisan of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the leader of the Turkish Nationalists. His designtion as head of the new Cabinet is regarded here as a distinct triumph for the Nationalists over the Sultan and the more Conservative leaders

GEN. C. VANDERBILT ILL WITH INFLUENZA

Stricken at His Home Wednesday, but No Signs of Danger Are Apparent, Doctor Says.

Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt has been ill in bed with influenza since Wednesday at his home, 640 Fifth Avenue. The news only became known yesterday and at first gave rise to exaggerated reports of the seriousness of the illness, which were denied last night by the family physician, Dr. Samuel A. Brown of 155 West Fifty-eighth Street, who said that the sickness was influenza without complications as yet, and that no signs of danger were apparent.

Neither Mrs. Vanderbilt nor Cornelius, Jr., could be communicated with last night. A servant at the house said that General Vanderbilt was only "slightly" ill. Mrs. Vanderbilt and her son only recently recovered from moderate attacks of influenza themselves.

SENATE IN TANGLE ON RESERVATIONS BUT ADOPTS TWO

Bi-Partisan Changes on Shantung and Treaty Agents Voted at Stormy Session.

REPUBLICAN LINEUP BREAKS

Walsh Substitute Passes—Democrats Anger Lodge, Who Says Treaty Falls by Wayside.

WILSON TO BE CONSULTED

Compromisers on Article X. Ask Glass to Submit Draft to President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Two more reservations to the Peace Treaty were disposed of today by the Senate, to an accompaniment of wrangling seldom equaled in that body.

At the same time, those Senators who have been trying to work out a compromise on the reservation on Article X. decided that the time had come to put it before President Wilson. They asked Senator Glass to go to the White House and learn whether the President would accept a modification such as they had in mind.

Senator Glass was at the White House today, but did not see the President, and so far as could be ascertained the President did not get the proposed compromise.

The proposed change in the Lodge reservation was reported to have been originated by Senator Kellogg, but he denied it. It was shown to Senator Lodge, who, according to custom, said that the first thing to be done was to learn how many votes it could get. It was then taken up with Senator Simmons, and by him was shown to Senator Hitchcock. He is said to have suggested that it be presented to the President.

The proposal is understood to involve the insertion in the Lodge reservations of specific mention of the means by which the United States will not bind itself to preserve the territory and independence of other nations, these to include military and naval forces, the economic boycott, and perhaps one or two others.

Lodge Says Treaty Has Fallen.

Mr. Lodge evidently did not expect it to get far, for in the debate in the Senate today he informed Senator Williams of Mississippi that the treaty had "fallen by the wayside." It was the first time the Republican leader had publicly expressed such a view.

Nothing is to be done about the proposed compromise, it is understood, until the President has passed upon it.

The reservations adopted today were those covering Shantung and the selection of American representatives upon organizations created by the treaty, such as the League of Nations and other commissions.

Senator Hitchcock opened the debate on Shantung by asserting that in proposing it the Republicans were supporting an idle thing, and were relinquishing the only hold upon Japan which the United States had in its efforts to help China.

"China would derive no benefit from this reservation," said Mr. Hitchcock. "It merely withholds the assent of the United States from the Shantung deal, but that has been consummated. Japan is in Shantung. This reservation does nothing to right a wrong. If Senators want to help China their proper course would be to vote for a declaration that we propose to hold Japan to her promises, made in Paris and elsewhere, to return Shantung to China."

Senator Lodge replied that the reservation would at least prevent the world from believing that the United States assented to "the infamy" heaped on China.

Nebraska Senators Dispute.

There was much debate about the necessity of striking from the Lodge reservation the names of China and Japan, an amendment which Senator Lodge proposed after it was suggested by Democratic Senators in the bi-partisan conferences. Senator Hitchcock's attack upon the reservation aroused Senator Norris.

"My colleague and others tried to get a secret agreement on reservations," said Senator Norris, "but now, having lost interest in that agreement, are not willing to carry it out. China has found a new friend in my colleague.

"China is praying to her gods that she be not tormented by having more such friends. This friendship for China, had it been manifested earlier, might have obtained some votes for the Shantung amendment to the treaty, which would have transferred this property to China."

Mr. Lodge's amendment, striking out the names of China and Japan from the reservation, was agreed to, 69 to 2, Senators Reed and Sutherland opposing it.

Senator Hitchcock proposed a substitute for the reservation, to the effect that the United States "understands that the German rights and interests * * * are to be returned by Japan to China at the termination of the present war by the adoption of this treaty."

In arguing for this, Senator Hitchcock said that "a lot of crocodile tears were shed in the Senate about China. You don't propose to do anything to help China. All you propose to do is

Britain and France to Ship Gold Soon, It Is Reported, as Sterling Goes to $3.60

A sensational rise of about 14 cents in sterling exchange yesterday, to the basis of $3.60 to the pound, was accompanied by reports that Great Britain and France are shortly to begin shipments of gold to this country which will not terminate until an amount variously estimated at between $50,000,000 and $250,000,000 has been received. This gold, it was said, is to be sent here as part of the operation of meeting the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan, which matures on Oct. 15 next.

At the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., fiscal agents in the United States for both the British and French Governments, it was said "no advices which might be made public" had been received. No further comment was forthcoming, but it was pointed out by bankers who have been concerned with international financing in the past that the two allied countries probably would begin making arrangements for meeting the maturity within a very short time. In this respect financial circles attached significance to the repeated declarations of bankers closely allied with British and French interests in this country that the Anglo-French loan would be paid "even if they have to send us gold."

The rumors that gold shipments were to be made to this country by England and France have been in circulation for some time, but never so definitely as within the last day or so. A month ago it was reported in banking circles that upward of $50,000,000 gold would be sent over here during April, and at that time the Bank of England had acquired about $60,000,000 gold since the first of the year. Within the last month the Bank has added another $50,000,000 to its holdings of the metal, so that at the present time it has approximately $110,000,000 more than it had on Jan. 1, when its stocks of gold amounted to about $430,000,000. Most of this increase, it is believed here, has been gained by drawing upon the great joint stock banks of England and Scotland, as the new gold received from South Africa and elsewhere has been mostly sold to foreign interests through the London open market.

Most bankers here would welcome a large consignment of gold from Europe, as it would do much to replenish the supplies here of the Federal Reserve Banks, which have been somewhat depleted recently by the heavy movement to South America. This movement, which amounts to something like $65,000,000 since the first of the year, is still in progress, $16,195,000 having been engaged for export yesterday, with an additional $10,000,000 tentatively engaged for shipment next week. Since Oct. 24 last, when the Federal Reserve system began to lose its gold holdings, the decline has amounted to $180,000,000, and the reserve ratio to notes and deposit liabilities has declined from 48.7 per cent. to 42.5 per cent.

Regarding the maturity of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan next October, opinion in banking circles has been that about half of the amount would be paid off in cash and the remainder refunded through the issuance of another loan. The bonds have been particularly strong for the last four weeks, having gone up from around 93⅓ to slightly above 98 in that time.

TALK OF IMPEACHING PALMER ON SUGAR

Republican Admits Plan as the House Votes on Party Lines for an Inquiry.

SHARP DEBATE PRECEDES

Democrats Challenge Opponents for Proof of Charges and Attack Motives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—By a strictly partisan vote, 162 to 142, the House today adopted a resolution offered by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts, authorizing the Judiciary Committee to investigate Attorney General Palmer's conduct in concurring in the proposal submitted by the United States District Attorney of New Orleans, which permitted the Louisiana sugar planters to fix a price of 17 and 18 cents for last year's sugar crop.

The resolution not only calls for an investigation into the facts surrounding this transaction but empowers the committee to inquire whether the Department of Justice gave the sugar growers immunity from prosecution against profiteering and demands under what authority of law the Department of Justice agreed upon the sugar prices that could be charged, which Mr. Tinkham avers caused retail sugar prices to soar 9 and 10 cents a pound.

During the debate the desire of the Republican leaders to lodge impeachment charges against the Attorney General if possible through the proposed inquiry was suggested. Representative Philip H. Campbell of Kansas, who reported the rule for the inquiry, in explaining the purposes of the investigation, hinted at such a move.

"The only action that can be taken at this time, if the rule is adopted," said Mr. Campbell, "is to call the Attorney General before the Judiciary Committee and let him explain there his action in the sugar case. Then let the Judiciary Committee make such report to Congress as the circumstances require and justify. Nothing short of this would be fulfillment of the duties of the Representatives of the American people."

In explanation of his speech Mr. Campbell said subsequently that he had in mind the impeachment of the Attorney General for "unlawful acts."

The suggestion in Mr. Campbell's speech was taken by Representative Garrett of Tennessee as a move for impeachment under the "overt and sinister move of an inquiry." Mr. Garrett, who made the chief speech for the opposition, charged the Republicans with cowardice and challenged them to take the "open, brave course and rise on the floor and impeach the Attorney General."

Representative Tinkham reviewed the moves made by the Department of Justice relative to the fixing of the price of Louisiana sugar and declared that the concurrence by the department in the proposal made by the United States District Attorney at New Orleans caused the public to pay many millions more for their sugar.

"There is no question," added Mr. Tinkham, "as subsequently will be proven, that the Attorney General had no legal authority to fix, agree to, assent to or concur in a fixed price for Louisiana sugar, nor had he legal authority to concur in a fixed price for sugar and use that fixed price as prima facie evidence in a criminal prosecution for profiteering.

"Under this investigation and what may flow from it is involved one of the great fundamental principles of American government, namely, the principle which asserts that the legislative department shall never exercise executive or judicial powers or either of them, to the

SUBWAYS SEIZURE THREATENED BY CITY

600 NEW CARS ORDERED

Surface Lines Lost $2,525 a Day for Three Months, Auditor Testifies.

Corporation Counsel Burr announced yesterday that unless the Interborough Rapid Transit Company improved its service greatly on the subway lines within ninety days steps would be taken for the seizure and operation of the property by the city. The announcement followed instructions to Mr. Burr by the Board of Estimate Wednesday to take action to deprive the New York Railways Company of its franchises for failing to furnish adequate service.

In reference to the subway lines, Mr. Burr said he would call upon the Public Service Commission and insist that the terms of the Interborough Company's contract with the city be lived up to. He explained that a clause in the dual subway contract provides that the Interborough Company shall furnish adequate service, and that if it fails to do so, and the warning of the city is disregarded for ninety days, the city could take over the lines and either operate them itself or turn them over to an operating agency.

On March 1 Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon issued an order directing the Interborough Company to add 600 more cars to its subway service not later than March 10. The order practically provides for a service equal to the present rush-hour periods during the entire day. Mr. Burr, in his statement, referred to this order by Mr. Nixon as follows:

"There is ample proof of the inadequacy of the present service and unless the 600 additional cars are provided the present serious congestion will continue. At present there appears to be no doubt that the contract with the city has been violated. Recent hearings have proved this beyond a doubt."

Hedges Has $638,950.

The total of cash which Job Hedges, receiver of the New York Railways Company, had on hand at the beginning of business Wednesday was $638,950. Just prior to the wage increases granted on Aug. 16 last $1,292,073 was in the company's treasury. The estimated amount which the receiver will have the first of next month is $240,138.

These figures were submitted yesterday to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by Frank Samuelson, auditor of the lines, at the continuation of the traction inquiry in City Hall. The witness testified the company was unable to meet interest charges aggregating $200,000 which fell due on the first of this month.

During the month of January, Mr. Samuelson said, the net income, excluding all charges outside of operating expenses and taxes, showed a deficit of $78,282. The two preceding months showed losses in excess of $120,000, he added. He placed the average daily loss at $2,525.

Studying a schedule of finances which the auditor had furnished the members of the board, Controller Craig wanted to know what the item "reserved maintenance, $112,392," meant. Mr. Samuelson explained that it represented a sum equal to 38 per cent. of the passenger revenue, which had been set aside with the approval of the Federal Court.

Increase of 18 Per Cent.

TAX CUT OF BILLION URGED BY M'ADOO TO HELP BUSINESS

Says $500,000,000 Could Be Saved in Two Years by Delaying Bond Retirement.

WOULD FUND EUROPE'S DEBT

And Also Discontinue the Purchase of Liberty Bonds for Retirement.

PROPOSALS ARE CRITICISED

Called Counter to Treasury Policy and Likely to Have Only Temporary Effect.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—An immediate billion dollar reduction in Federal taxes was suggested in a statement issued here today by William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury. The present tax burden is too great, he said, and is "having an injurious effect on business."

Mr. McAdoo proposed that collection of a tax to establish a sinking fund for retirement of the war debt, which was recommended by former Secretary Glass, to begin with the fiscal year 1920, be postponed for two years and that the deferred payments of European interest be funded until Europe is in a position to pay its interest charges.

"The financial policies of the nation as embodied in future Congressional legislation," said Mr. McAdoo, "should realize the utmost economy in expenditure and might well fund in long term bonds $1,000,000,000 per annum for two years of the amount now raised by taxation.

"Under the laws a tax to establish a 1 per cent. sinking fund to retire bonds now outstanding is to be collected beginning with the fiscal year 1920. This might well be postponed for at least two years and thus reduce the tax burden by $250,000,000 annually.

"There, too, is the debt which Europe owes us and which now amounts to about $10,000,000,000. If the economic restoration of Europe had proceeded far enough so that Europe could now pay interest on this debt (as she will be able to do within a few years) we should have an income of $500,000,000 from this source.

"But that is not now available. Why not fund that amount against the day when it will come back to us? By postponing for two years the establishment of a sinking fund and funding the deferred payments of European interest, we should cover $750,000,000 of the billion dollars by which our taxation might be reduced.

"By discontinuing purchases of Liberty Bonds for retirement under provisions of existing law, the Treasury would be relieved of a large burden now reflected in the floating debt and which otherwise will have to be made up by taxation. It would seem that reduction of our tax bill for the next two years in this manner could be accomplished and that it would involve the issuance of additional bonds to the extent of probably not more than one and a half billion dollars.

"I trust that the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, in which all tax measures must, of course, originate, will consider this question in its broad relations to our general economic welfare. The immediate burden of taxation is too great. It is having an injurious effect on business. It is a contributing factor of large proportions in the high cost of living. Its inevitable tendency is to stifle new enterprise and to throttle initiative. It is both unscientific and inequitable.

"In view of the approaching decline in our export trade, with the inevitable reduction in the volume of business in the country, it will become doubly important to revise and to reduce taxation in order that business may not have to carry an unnecessary tax burden throughout this period of readjustment."

Proposal Causes Much Surprise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The suggestions made by ex-Secretary McAdoo that taxation might be reduced in 1920 and 1921 by $1,000,000,000 a year through the sale of long-term bonds was received with considerable surprise tonight.

As some experts read his proposal it runs counter to the policy to which the Treasury had committed itself, that is, not to sell any more long-term bonds before the maturity of the present Victory notes, when there will have been such an interval in Government offerings as to improve the market price of the existing issues.

The Treasury is committed to obtaining by taxation funds to meet the interest on bonds and to buy up bonds, thereby reducing the principal of the debt.

It would appear to be Mr. McAdoo's idea that instead of reducing the debt principal in that way and depending upon taxes to pay interest, he favors providing for sale of long-term bonds, solely to ease up on the taxpayers for the coming two years.

Nothing that Mr. McAdoo suggested can be done without new legislation. In addition, Treasury officials have contended that it probably would be necessary to pay 5 to 6 per cent. interest on bonds, in order to float another bond issue. This would depress the value of the bonds now outstanding.

Before the McAdoo plan could be adopted it would be necessary to win the approval of Congress, which is not

$12,000,000 IN BONDS STOLEN LAST YEAR

A CLEARING HOUSE HERE

"Nicky" Arnstein Declared a Bankrupt—Report of Capture in Canada Doubted Here.

Approximately $12,000,000 worth of securities have been stolen from brokerage houses in this and other cities in the last year, according to figures received by Assistant District Attorney Dooling in the last few days. The reports, he said yesterday, indicated that organized bands of criminals had perfected arrangements for the theft and disposal of securities through representatives in nearly every large city in the United States, with the financial district in this city as the largest centre of activity.

Mr. Dooling said that in an effort to circumvent the criminals at the head of the scheme the New York police had joined with the Federal authorities and the police of all the principal cities of the country to exchange lists of securities stolen from brokerage houses and banks. In that manner, it is hoped, he said, to break up the "fences" purchasing and disposing of the loot and to obtain information about the criminals directing operations.

Mr. Dooling intimated that detectives had information that a clearing house had been established in the financial district where stolen securities were exchanged and their disposal in "fences" in other cities arranged. Mr. Dooling displayed five sheets of paper, each four feet long and three feet wide, which contained the names of more than 600 banks and brokerage houses in the United States which had been victimized.

"There is no question but that thefts of securities are being directed by organized bands of criminals operating in every principal city," the Assistant District Attorney said. "They are disposing of bonds stolen from banks, in holdups and burglaries, as well as through thefts by employes of financial institutions, and through the carelessness of clerks and messengers.

"John G. Milburn, Jr., told Mr. Swann and myself today that a special committee of the Stock Exchange and the police were working out a scheme to employ retired policemen and firemen as messengers for brokerage houses and banks."

Reports were circulated in the city last night that "Nicky" Arnstein had been arrested by New York detectives in a town near Montreal, Canada. The reports also had it that the police had located him through information received from Arnstein's wife, Fannie Brice.

A dispatch from Montreal last night stated that The Montreal Star printed under a Boston (Mass.) date line a story that "Arnstein has been surrendered before Judge Malone and held in $100,000 bail."

The Star's report apparently did not state where or when the fugitive had been arraigned. Inquiry at Boston shed no light on the rumor, and it was said at Montreal that neither the Provincial police nor the city detective departments had received any notification of Arnstein's arrest.

Assistant District Attorney Dooling declared that he had questioned officials at Police Headquarters about the rumers and that they had said they had not been informed of such a capture. Dooling said he felt certain that if Arnstein had been caught the detectives seeking him in out-of-town cities would have sent word to him at once.

Through a suit filed in the Federal Court yesterday by E. W. Wagner & Co., stock brokers at 33 New Street, it became known that Liberty bonds valued at $25,000, part of $178,000 in securities stolen from Richard C. Whitney & Co. last Summer by Benjamin Binkowitz were disposed of in Cleveland in October last by Samuel Ginsburg, a licensed bond broker in that city. Binkowitz was found stabbed to death at Milford, Conn., several days after he had disappeared. The papers in the suit say that on Oct. 16 last the Cleveland office of Wagner & Co. purchased twenty-five $1,000 Liberty bonds from Ginsburg for $25,379.42. The bonds were received in the New York office of Wagner & Co. the next day, and two days later were sold to Josephthal & Co., brokers. That firm sold twenty-four of them to Sutro & Kimberly, stock brokers, and they sent them to the Federal Reserve Bank here to meet certain notes. The Federal Reserve Bank, however, did not cancel the notes and the bonds were seized by Detective Mayer.

The defendants in the action are James Murray, Property Clerk at Police Headquarters, now in possession of the twenty-five bonds. It is understood that the plaintiffs seek to have Whitney & Co. prove that the bonds are part of those stolen by Binkowitz.

Arnstein was adjudicated a bankrupt yesterday in the proceedings before Judge Learned Hand of the Federal District Court. The order in the case designated Referee Seaman Miller to take charge of the bankruptcy matter.

CARLISLE, N. Y., March 4.—The Rev. William H. Freeman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, is the former agent of the Anti-Saloon League who resigned and has made an offer to Assemblyman Cuvillier to reveal the intimate financial methods of the league as he knew them.

The clergyman told a TIMES reporter today that he had served the league for ten days in December last year, but had quit in disgust because every one connected with the league seemed to be money mad and far more worried about their personal financial returns than about the success of their movement.

The Rev. Mr. Freeman said he attended gatherings of Anti-Saloon League agents and exhorters at Albany, Troy and New York City. He was appalled, he said, at the manner in which they cast aside a mask of seriousness and piety, worn at church and other public gatherings, and exhibited to one another personal greed.

There was a threatened uprising at the meeting of the league delegates in the offices of Superintendent William H. Anderson in New York City in the latter part of last December, the clergyman said, because rumors were abroad that the staff of solicitors and exhorters was to be cut in consequence of the triumph of prohibition.

Feared Good Jobs Were Over.

"I expected," he said, "to find the fifty or sixty men jubilant over the success of their cause. Instead, I found them greatly agitated. Their fear that they were about to lose lucrative positions was pitiful. They were desperately worried until William H. Anderson came in and pacified them. He told them there would be more work for them than ever before. He said that law enforcement would require more money and effort for years to come than the campaign which led to the adoption of the amendment had done."

The Rev. Mr. Freeman said the Anti-Saloon League engaged him at $30 a week, with the understanding that his salary would be increased according to results he obtained in getting money from churches and in house-to-house canvasses. In this way, he said, the money-getting agents of the league were all placed on virtually a commission basis.

The clergyman said that he got his first great shock at a meeting in Troy, when, he asserted, the Anti-Saloon League agents spoke with the same contempt for congregations of church people from which they got money as a band of get-rich-quick specialists would use in alluding to their victims. One of the standard witticisms, he said, was to refer to "consecration" as "coin-secration," and this jest was embodied in the first instructions handed to him.

Told How to Get Money.

These instructions were for the composition of Anti-Saloon League speeches. The orators for the league, he said, each received at the beginning of his employment the plans and specifications for building a speech on the model which had been worked out by years of experience as the most effective money-getter. Mr. Freeman said his instructions were handed to him by Fred J. Tower, the head of the Anti-Saloon League at Albany, and were as follows:

"Plan for the preparation of the Sunday speech for the Anti-Saloon League.

"First (Five minutes)—Conciliation. The intent of which is to get properly introduced to your audience and convince them that you are interested in their welfare, and that you are capable of interpreting it to them, and that our work is in harmony with the spirit and purpose of Christ.

"Second (fifteen minutes)—Information. In which it is intended to state the facts and principles of our campaign and the progress made and familiarize the audience with the spirit of the campaign as far as possible.

Seven Minutes of Inflammation.

"Third (seven minutes)—Inflammation. During which it is intended to set forth the genius and character of the liquor traffic in such a way as to arouse the congregation to action and make them want to fight the traffic themselves. Facts and illustrations calculated to arouse their fighting spirits should be incorporated here.

"Fourth (ten minutes)—Consecration (or coin-secration). Which covers the business of the cards and the explanation of the subscriptions and the 'motor cue,' which will lead people to enroll for the war.

"You will observe that this would make a speech of thirty-seven minutes long, including the passing of the cards and all. It is well for your speech to come within these bounds. When you have been in the work some time and are filled with great funds of interesting and impressive facts, it will be difficult to keep within these limits, but it will be wise to do so even then.

"Remember in outlining your speech that the purpose of it is not to deliver a temperance address for this is the particular province of the pastors and temperance evangelists. Neither is it the intention to paint black pictures of the liquor traffic, for most people have the reality before them so clearly that pictures seem weak and unavailing. But what we intend to do in our speeches is to outline an intelligent and effective plan of action and call upon the people to take a hand. It is not eloquence we seek so much as practical effectiveness and businesslike straightforwardness."

Refused to Degrade Office.

After he had had some time to study this at Troy, the Rev. Mr. Freeman said, he was asked to deliver a speech to a group of Anti-Saloon League agents for their critical study of its financial potentialities. Mr. Freeman said he refused to submit to this, on the ground that it would be a degradation of his office. While the rule was suspended in his behalf, he found, he said, that it was the universal practice, in breaking in young orators, to go over their speeches sentence by sentence, appraising the effectiveness of each word, phrase and sentence, in tapping the rock of finance.

"One of their phrases," he said, "was 'the financial undertone.' We were told always to keep in mind the 'financial undertone.' Each sentence was to be shaped to aid in inducing somebody in the audienc to give money to the Anti-Saloon League. At the end of the seven minutes devoted to 'inflammation,' we were expected to have the audience in a temper which urged them to do something. Then we were to take advantage of this by telling them that there was absolutely nothing which they could do but give money to the Anti-Saloon League."

Kept Methods Secret.

A few days after his experience at Troy, the Rev. Mr. Freeman went to a meeting at the offices of William H. Anderson. After Superintendent Anderson had assuaged fears that the triumph of prohibition would take away the occupation of the architects of the triumph, an experience meeting of agents and canvassers was held. The man in whom the most admiration was centred, because of his great success and large earnings, was called upon to explain the secret of his effectiveness. He rose and said substantially, according to Mr. Freeman:

"This is not fair. You are asking me to tell you my secrets. I will not do anything of the kind. No man in my position would divulge his secrets."

The second best man at "coin-secration," or "coin-secretion," as it was sometimes called, however, was more liberal minded. He said, according to the Rev. Mr. Freeman, that he had found church congregations were not the most prolific source of treasure for the Anti-Saloon League and that a house-to-house canvass by a man who could tell a fast and impressive story to the householder or housewife was a great deal more effective. Other speakers corroborated this experience, with the result, according to the clergyman, that the methods of financial appeal were largely revised at this meeting, and the Anti-Saloon League afterward devoted itself to getting money from the homes rather than the churches.

One of the interesting topics at this conference, the Rev. Mr. Freeman said, was what was known to William H. Anderson and his followers as Mr. Anderson's "meat axe" methods. Mr. Anderson was called upon, he said, to explain how he succeeded, while others failed, in getting results by violent personal abuse and by attempting to bring scorn and contempt on recalcitrant legislators and ministers.

"I use the 'meat-axe method,'" Mr. Anderson is said to have explained. "First, because it is effective; second, because no other method is effective."

Mr. Anderson, according to the Rev. Mr. Freeman, warned his followers against attempting to imitate him. He urged all canvassers and exhorters to be suave and sweet in their deportment and leave the "meat-axing" exclusively to him.

After this meeting, the Rev. Mr. Freeman said, he was sent to Gloversville and Johnstown, N. Y., to do house-to-house work, but he said he was so disgusted with the methods used by ministers employed by the Anti-Saloon League and the methods he was asked to use in the way of begging and wheedling that he threw up the job in disgust and went back to his flock at Carlisle.

Not Agency of Churches.

"It should be emphasized," he said, "that the Anti-Saloon League is not a creation or an agency of the churches. It is independent of them. Instead of being used by the churches, it uses them. If the churches understood how they were being made the pawns of the Anti-Saloon League they would be revolted. The league's agent at Albany, for instance, told me that one of the most important features of the work was that of subduing recalcitrant ministers and keeping them in line. If the ministers won't submit to being held in bondage by the Anti-Saloon League, they are coerced by about the same methods which are used in coercing legislators. They are threatened with the alienation of important members of the congregation. The minister must do the will of the league agents or have the league undertake a crusade against him among his own followers.

"I saw enough of the terrible power which they exert secretly, of the unscrupulous methods which they use, of their brazen and contemptuous attitude toward the public and of the complete lack of sincerity which they exhibit among themselves to convince me that the institution is one of the most dangerous in this country.

Says Dictatorship Is Sought.

They aim at the complete domination of ministers and of public men. They hope, in my opinion, to retain this power for other ends, after the prohibition question is out of the way. I believe they expect to erect a dictatorship of the Anti-Saloon League as the governing body of this country, to dominate the country's legislators, write its laws and prescribe its policies."

The Rev. Mr. Freeman said he had no evidence to offer the legislative committee of any criminal conduct on the part of any one connected with the league. He said that during his brief employment by the league he had seen no instance of attempts to collect funds from soft drink manufacturers or others having a financial interest in abolishing alcoholic liquor. He said also that he had no evidence to offer of corruption or other misuse of the funds of the league.

ANDERSON ANSWER CHARGE.

Says League Will Spend About $300,000 This Year.

William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said yesterday regarding the charges of the Rev. Mr. William H. Freeman:

"I have no recollection of this man. We employ many people and if they don't make good we drop them. I don't know that the Rev. Mr. Freeman is one of those that we have dropped. From the general tenor of his remarks I should say that he takes himself too seriously. According to his own statements he was with the league a very short time and he is hardly an expert witness.

"We have a great, high-grade staff of men. Any general charges against them will appear ridiculous to persons familiar with the work of the league.

"It is true that we are continuing the fight and our expenses are somewhat greater today than they were before the prohibition amendment was adopted. That is because the fight is still on in this State. It is not correct that we have abandoned church work in favor of the house-to-house canvass. We do, however, have men who make personal calls on men who do not attend church or have not been reached through the church. They explain the progress of the campaign and take subscriptions, if the men they call on wish to subscribe. But, as a matter of fact, we are carrying on the work in more churches now than formerly.

"I understand that this man does not charge anything corrupt, either in the collection or the use of money. As a matter of fact, we have had no subscriptions from manufacturers of soft drinks or others who might have a pecuniary interest in prohibition. At least, we have had no contributions that we could identify as coming from interested parties. We have more than 100,000 contributors.

"We spent in the fiscal year ended last April about $250,000. The total for the present year will probably be about $300,000. Our financial statements have been given to the press every year and widely printed. Everything we have done has been perfectly open and honest.

"As for the theory that we may try to run the country, the man is drawing on his imagination. We are interested in the fight against alcohol only. When our victory is complete in this country we expect to give some attention to the fight abroad. That is necessary in self-protection. But if acohol was once completely out of the way we would be done."

EXPECTS MANY MINISTERS.

Cuvillier Says at Least Dozen Will Appear Against League.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 4.—Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, sponsor for the resolution to investigate the New York Anti-Saloon League, which the Assembly adopted at its session on Monday night, announced this evening that at least a dozen clergymen would be produced as witnesses against the league when the proposed inquiry gets under way.

The statement was made after Mr. Cuvillier had been in conference with the Rev. William H. Freeman, minister of the Presbyterian Church of Carlisle, N. Y., who was in the employ of the Anti-Saloon League until about one year ago. According to Mr. Cuvillier, the clergyman was looking forward with impatience to an opportunity to face William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, as a witness before the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

The Rev. Mr. Freeman will remain here over tomorrow to complete a written record that he is prepared to leave with Mr. Cuvillier to be submitted to the committee. A portion of this, already in Mr. Cuvillier's hands, will be kept secret until it is produced at the prospective investigation. After his conference with the Presbyterian clergyman, Mr. Cuvillier made public a statement prepared by him, together with a letter in which the minister volunteered to come to the capital and testify. The statement dealt in illuminating fashion with the methods of the league in approaching church members and denied the assertion frequently made by Superintendent Anderson and other officials of the organization that in its crusade against the saloon and the liquor traffic it was pre-eminently the agency of the Protestant churches.

In the letter which was addressed to Mr. Cuvillier, under date of March 1, the Rev. Mr. Freeman wrote:

"The league's methods of collecting moneys are both adroit and sinister. Its subtle aim is money, money, with which to domineer in governmental construction. Its interest in prohibition is but a means to government of private conduct by coercion."

Mr. Freeman says he is a member of the New York State Bar, that he practiced law for seven years in Manhattan and Yonkers, that he has no fear of Anderson and that the strongest evidence he possesses against the league is documentary.

ANDERSON SENDS CHALLENGE.

Would Debate with Governor on Latter's Stand on Prohibition.

In an open letter yesterday to Governor Alfred E. Smith, William H. Anderson challenged the Governor to debate with him at meetings in the five largest cities in the State, each side to bear half the expense of hiring the halls and share the tickets. He said he would prove that the Governor had "violated the spirit, if not the letter," of his oath of office.

WHISKY FRAUD ALLEGED.

Consignee Stops Payment on $5,000 Check, and Arrest Follows.

Samuel Van Wagner was held in $7,500 bail by Magistrate Max S. Levine in Jefferson Market yesterday on a charge of having misrepresented himself to be the payee of a check in a transaction involving a number of cases of whisky.

According to Detective Arch Woods of the West Thirtieth Street Station, Van Wagner handed a check for $5,000, which was drawn in the name of Felix Bertheim and made payable to Theodore Ware, to a saloon keeper in payment for the whisky. Van Wagner was said to have ordered the cases painted, explaining that they were to be sent to the home of a man of prominence who did not wish to have their contents known.

Van Wagner was said to have received back in change $4,091, the difference between the face value of the check and $909, the cost of the whisky. The check was said to have been certified and to have borne on its back the indorsement of Bertheim, but not that of Ware, the payee, the lack of whose signature was not noticed by the saloon keeper at the time.

When the whisky was delivered to the address furnished by Van Wagner the consignee was said to have refused to accept it on the ground that it was not the brand he had ordered, and to have stopped payment on the check.

GIBBONS ASSAILS DRY LAWS

Cardinal Repeats They Are a Menace by Causing Unrest.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, March 4.—Repeating his warning that the dry laws are a menace in that they are causing unrest in the country and pointing out that the license systems should be destroyed in handling the saloon, Cardinal Gibbons, now in New Orleans visiting his brother, is quoted in a dispatch received here tonight as saying that prohibition should be more liberal and that no compromise should be made with radicalism.

"There must be liberty for all," the Cardinal said in the interview, "but the license system must be destroyed in handling the saloons."

He further stated that Congress should place a liberal interpretation upon the question of what constitutes an intoxicating beverage and allow the sale of beer and light wines.

DRUGGISTS UNDER INQUIRY.

Chicago "Talcum Shops" Are Alleged to be Camouflaged Whisky Stores.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The "talcum powder druggists," whose equipment is said to consist of a box or two of talcum powder, for window display purposes, and an inexhaustible supply of whisky, for medicinal purposes, were under investigation today by Federal officials following the arrest of two physicians last night.

One of the doctors is said to have admitted that he had written from 100 to 200 prescriptions for whisky daily, collecting a fee of from $1 to $7 per prescription, depending upon the nature of the patient's cough.

URGE RATIFICATION REPEAL.

Baltimore Mayor and Business Men Want Maryland's Action Rescinded.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 4.—Bankers and business men of Baltimore, headed by Mayor Broening, appeared this afternoon before the Senate Committee on Federal Relations and the House Temperance Committee, and urged the Assembly to rescind the State's ratification of the prohibition amendment, join other States in proceedings before the Supreme Court to test the validity of the amendment, and repudiate the Volstead act as "concurrent legislation."

NEW JERSEY FILES ANTI-DRY SUIT

Charges Before Highest Court 18th Amendment and Volstead Act Are Unconstitutional.

STATE'S RIGHTS INFRINGED

Amendment a Legislative, Not Constitutional Matter, and Improperly Passed by Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The State of New Jersey, through its Attorney General, Thomas F. McCran, today filed in the United States Supreme Court its suit seeking to have the Constitutional Prohibition Amendment declared null and void and to prevent enforcement of the Volstead act. Joseph A. Lanigan, Assistant State Attorney General, has asked for an early hearing on the petition, which is directed against A. Mitchell Palmer, United States Attorney General, and Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Attorney General McCran will appear before the court on Monday ready to proceed with the case or present additional data, as the court may direct. New Jersey will proceed alone on the test as a sovereign State whose rights have been invaded.

New Jersey charges in the bill that the Eighteenth Amendment is null and void for the following reasons:

That the Eighteenth Amendment is not a proper amendment under Article V. of the Constitution.

That there is no power in the Congress to propose an amendment regulating conduct and morals, and that Article V. permits only such amendments as are in the nature of alterations or additions within the scope of the Federal Constitution.

That there is no power in the States to ratify such a proposal of amendment as is contained in the so-called Eighteenth Amendment.

That two-thirds of the members of both houses of Congress did not deem such an amendment necessary within the true intent and meaning of Article V. of the Constitution.

That the prohibition contained in the said alleged Eighteenth Amendment is legislative matter under Article I. of the Constitution and is not properly an amendment to the Constitution under Article V.

Not Properly Passed by Congress.

That as legislative matter it was not properly passed by the Congress and submitted to the President of the United States and is therefore void and of no effect.

That in twenty-one States, namely, South Dakota, Oregon, Nevada, Montana, Oklahoma, Maine, Missouri, Michigan, Arkansas, Colorado, Arizona, California, Ohio, Nebraska, Washington, North Dakota, Mississippi, Utah, Massachusetts, Maryland, and New Mexico the Legislatures have not ratified as provided by the Constitution of such States, and that therefore three-fourths of the States have not ratified in the constitutional sense.

That the alleged Eighteenth Amendment establishes a centralization of power and authority without the consent of the people of the State of New Jersey and is unalterable and unreformable at all times by them, and is therefore inconsistent with the fundamental purposes expressed in the preamble of the Constitution "to form a more perfect union and to secure the blessings of liberty to posterity," and establishes a precedent whereby no powers will be reserved to the respective States as provided in Article I. of the Constitution, because the reserve powers of the several States may be annulled and destroyed under the guise and pretense of amending the Constitution.

The bill charges further that the Volstead act is unconstitutional and void and beyond the power of Congress to enact, because:

National prohibition, or the Volstead act, was enacted under authority of the alleged amendment, which is itself null and void, and the Volstead act prohibits and restricts the manufacture and sale in intrastate commerce of intoxicating liquors in the State of New Jersey.

The act is not appropriate legislation to enforce the prohibitions contained in the alleged article of amendment, which is expressly confined and limited to intoxicating liquors.

The State of New Jersey has not concurred in the provision of the national prohibition act, and, if enforced without its concurrence or contrary thereto, would violate, override and nullify the rights and powers vested in and reserved to the State in respect to its internal and intrastate affairs and concerns under the Constitution of the United States and amendments.

Reduces Taxable Values.

The act interferes with and will depreciate and, in a large measure, destroy the taxable value of real and personal property, manufactured and used in the manufacture and sale of liquor in the State, and is, therefore, destructive of the free and independent Government of the State of New Jersey.

The act has deprived, and will permanently deprive, the State of its revenue from licenses for the manufacture and sale of liquors containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol by volume, amounting annually to not less than $2,442,899.46, which is necessary for the support of the State Government.

The act interferes with the internal government of the people of the State, and operates to punish them by heavy fines, imprisonment and forfeitures for violation of its provisions, thus preventing the application for licenses for sale of nonintoxicating beverages permitted under the laws of the State.

The act restricts the practice of physicians and surgeons of the State as regulated and licensed by the State, and jeopardizes the health of its citizens and the rights and liberties of physicians and surgeons in maintaining the public health, and in the discretion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue deprives them from prescribing intoxicating liquors in their professional practice.

The act interferes with physicians and surgeons, employed by the State or otherwise, in prescribing for patients and prisoners in State institutions.

In so far as it affects non-intoxicating liquors, the act is not appropriate legislation to enforce the prohibition contained in Section 1 of the alleged Eighteenth Amendment, which is expressly confined and limited to intoxicating liquors, and because liquids denominated beer, ale or porter, though non-intoxicating and not containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol, are by its terms prohibited.

The act, in attempting to regulate and prohibit in New Jersey the manufacture and sale of non-intoxicating liquors as defined by the New Jersey Legislature, and in attempting to interfere with the regulation of the health, liberty and property of the citizens of New Jersey, contrary to its exclusive and inherent powers of economy and policy, is not appropriate legislation.

The State contends that the right of Congress to legislate, under the amendment, if the amendment should be held valid, is restricted to the external concern of the United States, "importation and exportation," and to regulate the commerce among the States as heretofore; that in all matters of enforcement the power is vested in the several States and the control of its internal affairs and its intrastate commerce are matters coming strictly within the jurisdiction of the State under the amendment, and that the Federal Government, functioning within its peculiar sphere, as fixed by the Constitution, and the State functioning within its sphere intrastate, exercise concurrently the power given by the amendment.

Upon the motion of Assistant Attorney General Frierson the court definitely fixed Monday for hearing arguments in the Rhode Island case as well as in appeals from Kentucky and Massachusetts involving validity of the prohibition amendment.

VOLSTEAD REPEAL DEFEATED IN HOUSE

Vote Stands 254 to 85 Against Eliminating Appropriation for Enforcement.

WETS GAIN FIVE CONVERTS

Issue Will Be Revived on Every Future Appropriation Bill, Wet Leaders Assert.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The House today, by a vote of 254 to 85, rejected a motion to repeal the Prohibition Enforcement act and refused to eliminate an appropriation of $4,500,000 to enforce national prohibition.

This action came up on a motion by Representative Eagan of New Jersey to recommit the legislative bill, with instructions to eliminate both the act and the money to enforce it.

While the move to destroy the effectiveness of national prohibition was lost by an overwhelming vote, the Wets tonight were jubilant over the result obtained in the House. The significance of the action, they said, was that Speaker Gillett ruled that it was germane to refuse an appropriation to enforce prohibition and that the same rule held as to the enforcement act itself.

The other point was that five members who had previously voted for national prohibition, today supported the contentions of the wet forces, whose leaders assert that this shows a trend in the country which will triumph in years to come.

The five members who voted for the Volstead Enforcement act, and who today supported the motion to defeat it, were: MacGregor, New York; Mager, Missouri; Mansfield, Texas; Walsh Massachusetts, and Benson, Maryland. Representative Pou of North Carolina, who voted with the Wets last October when the enforcement act was passed by the House by a vote of 230 to 69, today voted against the repeal motion.

The Vote.

Those voting for the motion to repeal the enforcement bill were:

To Carry Campaign Into Election.

Representative Igoe of Missouri, who with Mr. Eagan led the fight to defeat the enforcement act, said, following the action of the House, that the precedent established will keep the agitation for repeal of prohibition continually before the House. This is the third time that a ruling has been made in the House that repeal of the act is germane when any bill carries an appropriation to carry out the provisions of the enforcement act. The wet forces did not expect to succeed today, but made the move only to get a definite ruling on the subject from the Speaker. Now that the Speaker has ruled in their favor the wet forces, it was announced, intend to strive for the election of liberal members of Congress. At any time when the wet forces or the liberal faction may predominate the enforcement act can be repealed by defeating an appropriation to enforce it.

The plan of the wet forces, it was said, was to obtain a sentiment which would favor amending that section of the act which defines an intoxicant. The Volstead act prohibits the sale, manufacture, &c., of any beverage containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol. The Supreme Court has decided that Congress has the power to define an intoxicant, and the wet forces insist that Congress also has the power to increase the alcoholic content. The fight they intend to make, one that they say promises the greatest chance of success, is to increase the alcoholic content definition, and for this purpose they will wage a campaign for the election of Congressmen who agree with them at the November election. One of the wet leaders said tonight that sentiment for such a course is very strong, and reports received from different parts of the country gave grounds to believe that the Sixty-seventh Congress would be favorable to such a liberalization of the prohibition law.

SAY 'MASH' IS LIQUOR BASE.

C. H. Bickart, Fruit Products Concern Head, Held as Violator.

NEW HAVEN, March 4.—Charles H. Bickart, President of the National Fruit Products Company of Tennessee, named as a defendant today in a suit by the Government to collect $171,000 as taxes on spirits, was arrested by Federal agents tonight in Stamford.

Federal officials here said that Bickart was charged with making a mash for the distillation of liquor, in violation of the prohibition law.

SUBWAYS SEIZURE THREATENED BY CITY

Commission some fifteen years ago?" asked the Controller.

"It is a rate applied to serve the same purposes," the witness answered.

"Has the Public Service Commission ever made any other or different order as to what per cent. you should charge off?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Apparently then, the Court has added 18 per cent. of velvet over and above the requirements of the Public Service Commission. Isn't that a fact?"

"No. I cannot concede that the Court has ordered us to put any velvet in there," Mr. Samuelson retorted.

Corporation Counsel Burr brought out that the company had a reserve of nearly $2,000,000, which was included among the Receiver's assets. Mr. Samuelson considered 38 per cent. a very conservative cost for maintenance and depreciation. Mr. Burr quizzed the witness at length in regard to the physical condition of the system now and the time the lines were in the hands of the receiver thirteen years ago.

"Haven't you the same old receivership again, with a different personnel, the same old property, the same old court, the same old everything?" interjected the Controler.

"We are in the hands of a receiver," was the answer of Mr. Samuelson.

"Isn't the Controller right in this respect, that history has been repeating itself under the hardships of this company since 1912?" asked Henry L. Stimson, counsel for the receiver. "The company had been skimming its reserves before it went into the hands of the receiver, hadn't it?"

"Absolutely," Mr. Samuelson said. "In order to operate the roads the reserves were consumed."

The losses caused by the recent snowstorm aggregated $882,000, according to the witness. Of this amount $207,000 represented the cost of snow removal. In answer to questions by the Corporation Counsel, he said traffic had not been restored to normal. Relating how the company had been unable to meet the interest charges on mortgages falling due on March 1, Mr. Samuelson said that in addition the railroad had defaulted on two mortgages of the New York Railways Company proper, aggregating $48,666,777.19.

Corporation Counsel Burr said the lines were worth $54,000,000 more since Mr. Hedges took possession than before, according to Stone and Webster's report. Just before adjournment, Mr. Stimson informed the board that he would be unable to furnish all the data requested by the Corporation Counsel because some of it would require the services of an expert accountant. He did not believe this expense should be incurred by the company in its present precarious financial condition.

"That shows the attitude of this company," remarked Mr. Burr.

Doubted $54,000,000 Increase

"Last Summer when the court suggested Stone and Webster as competent accountants to make the examination, I took the question up personally with you, Mr. Burr," Mr. Stimson replied. "When I come before this board the very first thing I hear are attacks and criticisms of the standing of Stone and Webster. The Comptroller, if I am not mistaken, when I was prepared to submit appraisals made by this firm, sneered at me and said, 'Ah, Mr. Stimson, we want real money.'"

"I never said anything of the kind," retorted Mr. Craig. "Nobody said anything about their standing."

The Controller amplified his statement by saying he had not sneered, but merely doubted a report which indicated a $54,000,000 increase in the value of the New York Railways since it went into the hands of the Receiver.

Frederic T. Wood, assistant to the manager of the railroad, testified that fifty-five out of a total of 133 miles of road had been taken out of the hands of Receiver Hedges through default in rentals under leases. Corporation Counsel Burr showed through the witness that the owners of these defaulting lines had received back improvements amounting to $5,000,000 to $7,000,000, in addition to the rentals which were fixed.

The hearing will be continued next Wednesday morning.

Soviet Kills Critic of Trotzky; Gorky Denounces Red Regime

LONDON, March 4.—Khrustaleff Nossar, chief organizer of the first Russian revolution, has been executed by order of the Soviet authorities because of his authorship of a pamphlet entitled "How Trotzky Sold Russia." Information to this effect is contained in a Moscow wireless dispatch, which says that news of the execution was received from Kiev.

STOCKHOLM, March 4.—Bitter disappointment with Bolshevism is expressed in an article recently published by Maxim Gorky, the Russian radical, according to a Helsingfors dispatch to the Tidningen of this city.

"The revolution has not been followed by any spiritual revival," the article is said to declare, "and has proved itself unable to make men more honest. Men in power now are just as brutal as those in authority under the imperial régime and send as many men to prison. Bolshevist leaders, driven by ambition, are performing experiments upon living people, especially the working classes."

Khrustaleff Nossar was regarded as the brains of the first revolutionary movement in Russia in 1905.

MOON TAKES ON ODD HUES.

Times Square Sees Broadway's Only Rival in Parti-Colored Garb.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night some one in Times Square glanced heavenward and saw that the moon had an odd look. Another man saw the first one gazing past the Times Building tower and took a slant that way. Soon all the region 'round about was filled with moonstruck men and women.

The Great White Way's only night rival had taken on colors far out of keeping with its usual pale lustre—a great deep brown circle appeared far outside the lunar halo, an Erin-like green tint curled circularly right inside, then a light hue of brown shone directly next to the moon proper.

Speculation was rife, as they used to say, until the Weather Man lifted a window atop the Whitehall Building, got an eyeful, and said:

"Oh, yes, that light change happens quite often. It is something of a rainbow effect. It is due to the refraction of light from the moon on clouds, the higher clouds, which produces these circles of color"—and he went on to talk about lunar coronas, degrees, radii and a lot of other things that, inasmuch as you aren't a scientist, you wouldn't be interested in.

HEAVY EXPORTS OF LIQUOR.

January Shipments Would Make 290,000,000 Drinks.

Approximately 3,384,766 gallons of spirits valued at $4,694,858 were cleared at the United States Custom House last January, according to export figures made public yesterday. It was said this liquor would make about 290,000,000 drinks, but not in the United States.

For the same period last year the export figures were 14,006 gallons valued at $52,417. In addition to spirits there were also exported during January 390,012 gallons of malt, and 97,932 gallons of wines. Last year the record was 32,006 gallons of wine and 286,000 gallons of malt.

Sellers of beer stronger than one-half of 1 per cent. in alcoholic content in New Jersey will be prosecuted to the full limit of the law, according to George A. Demo, Federal Prohibition Agent for six northern New Jersey Counties, Hudson, Bergen, Union, Essex, Middlesex and Monmouth.

Mr. Demo said his men were acting under orders from Internal Revenue Commissioner Daniel Roper, who said that the sale of 3.50 per cent beer as permitted by the State Legislature would be in violation of the law.

BELL ESTATE IS TAX EXEMPT

Decision Reveals Distribution of $345,502 Among Charities.

Surrogate Cohalan yesterday decided that the estate of James M. Bell, who died May 17, 1918, leaving all of it, valued at $345,502, to be distributed among charities, is not taxable. The estate had been taxed $24,390 because the will did not mention the beneficiaries and it could not be determined at the time of the appraisal whether the institutions were such as are exempt from tax. The decision also shows how the estate was distributed.

The Knickerbocker Hospital got the largest gift, $132,348. The Volunteer Hospital, Beekman and Water Streets, received $100,000, while $50,000 went to the Manhattanville Nursery Association, at Old Broadway and 131st Streets, with 4,000 shares of Hercules Copper stock valued at $17,154. The Virginia Day Nursery received $51,000, Rutgers College $10,000, and the Boys' Club, Avenue A and Tenth Street, $1,000.

Dr. Seed Fined $100.

Answering to the name of Susan Condon, Dr. Susan T. D. C. Seed, a chiropractor, who gave her address as the Nevada apartment house, Broadway and Seventieth Street, was fined $100 in Special Sessions yesterday on her plea of guilty to shoplifting in an uptown department store. James Murray, counsel for the woman, explained that Condon was her maiden name.

STATE SENATE GETS BILL FOR 2.75 BEER

LICENSE HERE TO BE $500

Would Become Effective on Passage —Leaders Think Adoption After Contest is Possible.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 5.—The introduction by Senator James A. Walker, Democratic minority leader, of a bill legalizing the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent. beer gave added impetus today to the interest already aroused in prohibition enforcement legislation.

Legislative leaders predicted tonight that, while a sharp contest may be expected over the 2.75 per cent. bill, there is a possibility that it will be passed.

The measure is almost identical with the bill introduced last year by J. Henry Walters, President pro-tem of the Senate, which would have permitted the sale of 3 per cent. beer, but it never came to a vote.

The Walker bill does not revive the saloon, providing that the 2.75 per cent. beer shall not be sold in any place other than restaurants, hotels and clubs. These places must be bona fide restaurants to obtain a license and would have to show a seating capacity of at least forty persons.

The bill would continue the State Excise Department as a liquor tax department under supervision of a commissioner to be appointed by the Governor for a five-year terms at $7,000 a year and expenses and who would be required to report regularly to the Legislature on his administration of the law and its "bearing upon the welfare of the State."

The State Commissioner of Excise would be made a party to all litigations affecting in any manner submission of the local option question. A tax of $250 is fixed for a license in all cities of the State outside New York City, where the tax would be $500 with an additional tax of 50 cents a barrel. Pharmacists would be taxed $10 a year if they kept beer for sale on physicians' prescriptions. Tax violations would be made a misdemeanor and the violator would be subject to civil actions as well to recover up to $1,000 in fines.

No beer is to be sold to any one under 18 years of age, to any intoxicated person, to an habitual drunkard or to any Indian. There is no prohibition in the measure against the manufacture and sale of flavoring extracts, perfumery and the like which might contain more than 2.75 per cent. alcoholic content.

The bill, if passed, would take effect immediately, and provision is made that it shall be operative so long as the "Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States shall be in effect in that part of the territory of the United States included within the boundaries of the State of New York."

McCue Retracts Gibe at Thompson.

ALBANY, March 4.—Assemblyman Martin G. McCue, Democrat, of New York today in the Assembly retracted a remark uttered Tuesday in which he referred to Senator George F. Thompson, Republican, of Niagara as having had his brain replaced by the brain of a monkey.

BROWNE FOUND GUILTY.

Nicholson and Waterbury Also Convicted in Army Salvage Case.

DETROIT, Mich., March 4.—Three of the six defendants, Grant Hugh Browne of New York and Soterious Nicholson of Washington and Lester Waterbury, two former army officers, were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Government in the purchase of army salvage by a jury in the Federal District Court here tonight.

The three were convicted on both counts of the indictment, the first of which charged conspiracy to defraud the Government and the second conspiracy to bribe a Government official.

Clemency was recommended for Nicholson who, up to the time of his indictment last Summer, was a Captain in the Ordnance Department. Waterbury was formerly a Major in charge of the sale of army salvage in this district.

The maximum penalty is a fine of $10,000 or ten years' imprisonment, or both. Attorneys for Brown and Waterbury gave notice of appeal.

Those exonerated were Burt Harris of New York, Monroe H. Burdach of Albany, and Fred C. Collins of Detroit.

CAPTURE SABRINA STATUE.

Amherst Odd Classes Hold an All-Day Celebration Over Their Feat.

AMHERST, Mass., March 4.—Amherst College juniors and freshmen today celebrated the capture of "Sabrina," goddess of the even numbered classes, whose possession was gained for the first time in twenty-seven years by the odd classes on Wednesday night at the alumni banquet in Boston. When the news of the capture reached the college at 1 o'clock this morning, a bonfire was built and members of the two classes took part in a "snake" dance around the campus. The celebration continued the entire day.

Sabrina was originally a statue in the college garden.

TAX CUT OF BILLION URGED BY M'ADOO

unmindful of reports that Mr. McAdoo will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. In fact the political phase of the situation created much discussion when details of the McAdoo suggestions were learned.

That the McAdoo plan would cut taxes in 1920 and 1921 is not doubted, but the effect of the issuance of $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 more in bonds on the living cost and the nation's finances is another question.

When the terms of the last Victory Loan were announced by Secretary Glass on April 14, 1919, he said in a statement:

"This will be the last Liberty Loan. Although as the remaining war bills are presented further borrowing must be done. I anticipate that the requirements of the Government in excess of the amount of taxes and other income can, in view of the decreasing scale of expenditure, be readily financed by the issue of Treasury certificates from time to time which may be ultimately refunded by the issue of notes or bonds."

Later, in a letter to Mr. Fordney, Secretary Glass said:

"I do not now think it will be wise to make any further issues of long-term bonds before the maturity or redemption of the Victory notes."

Mr. McAdoo's suggestions come at a time when leaders in the Ways and Means Committee are opposing as impracticable any plan for a big bond issue to pay soldiers' bonuses.

Mr. McAdoo's statement reminded some persons that at the time the Government was seeking an agreement between the coal operators and coal miners, he jumped into the controversy with an assertion that some of the operators had made fabulous profits.

CRIPPLED ST. PAUL IS SAFE AT HALIFAX

Her Captain Won't Discuss Story That Effort Was Made to Ruin Her Boilers.

Special to The New York Times.

HALIFAX, March 5.—Five days after she steamed out of New York Harbor, destined for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Southampton, the American Line steamer St. Paul, Captain Mills, put into Halifax Harbor tonight and will dock tomorrow. Most of her passengers will be transferred to the Canada, which has been detained here awaiting her arrival. Some will go to the Cedric.

The officers of the St. Paul have not definitely determined the cause of the trouble in the boilers which forced her to abandon her trip. The engineers have been kept busy since she left New York, and while they were able to prevent the ship from becoming disabled, they did not locate the cause of the leaks in the boiler tubes. At no time was the steamer in any danger, and it was because it was impossible to locate the origin of the trouble that she put in here.

Captain Mills said tonight that the trouble first took on a serious aspect Sunday night. The St. Paul was then about 400 miles from New York and 300 miles from Halifax. One tube in a boiler would give out and when this was plugged another would be found leaking. Sometimes more than one boiler would be useless, thus reducing the speed about half.

Asked if he thought the trouble due to a solution put in the boilers or a possible plot of Germans to cripple the ship, Captain Mills said that he did not wish to discuss that question. He did not wholly refuse to look at the trouble in that light, but remarked that the Germans were quite friendly with the Americans, and he did not think that such a thing would be done to an American ship.

Chief Engineer John Carstairs also would not say whether the trouble was caused by a substance being placed in the boilers, but he did not think it likely.

Although the passengers regretted very much the delay, they appeared to take the situation cheerfully.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — Rumors current in New York of a plot to cripple the St. Paul got no confirmation here. The Shipping Board knew nothing of any conspiracy.

Stories have been repeated here of a conspiracy to injure British and American shipping, the sinking of the Moccasin and the forced return of another ship to a California port being mentioned.

GENERAL CHARGES ASSAULT

Brazilian Student Arrested on Complaint of Major General Verbeck.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, March 4.—Charged with assault upon Major Gen. William Verbeck, former Adjutant General of the State of New York and head of the Manlius Schools, Alcebiades Moracs, aged 20, a Brazilian student at the Military Academy, was brought to this city and lodged in the Onondaga County Jail late today.

The attack is said to have occurred when the young Brazilian was brought before the head of the academy by a detail following alleged insubordination.

Moracs is the son of a millionaire Brazilian planter with an extensive American connection. His New York address is given as 32 Barclay Street.

Ask Columbia Alumni to Aid Butler.

An appeal to Columbia alumni to support the Presidential campaign of Nicholas Murray Butler was sent yesterday to every one of the university's 19,000 graduates. A committee of six, headed by William C. Demorest and G. Hinman Barrett, signed the appeal. This action will be followed, it was said, by the formation of campaign committees throughout the country. The circular came from the office of Mr. Barrett at 10 Wall Street.

PRESIDENT SENDS HIS ADRIATIC REPLY

Note to the French and British Premiers Dispatched from Washington Last Night.

CONTENTS NOT DISCLOSED

Diplomatic Circles Interested in the Forthcoming Meeting at San Remo on the Problem.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Wilson's rejoinder to the last note of the French and British Premiers on the Adriatic situation was dispatched to Europe tonight. Its contents were not disclosed by the State Depratment.

In preparing his answer President Wilson had before him the proposal of the Premiers that the United States join in seeking a settlement of the vexing problem of the Adriatic through direct negotiations between Italy and Jugoslavia. The text for their proposals was taken from a statement in Mr. Wilson's previous communication that the United States would of course not oppose any agreement "mutually agreeable to Italy and Jugoslavia," provided it was not on the basis "of compensation elsewhere at the expense of a third power."

In diplomatic circles here there was much conjecture as to the possible significance of the announcement that the Supreme Council would reassemble at San Remo, Italy, for negotiations with the Serbians. It was suggested this arrangement might forecast the reopening of efforts to adjust the Adriatic dispute. Some officials, also, were inclined to the opinion that Jugoslavia would welcome direct negotiations with Italy in the circumstances, whether the United States was a party to a proposal from the council to that effect or not.

In any event, it was again noted, the prompt action of the Premiers in withdrawing the settlement proposals to which Mr. Wilson objected and the dual period of possible negotiations to which they pointed in their last note appeared to have left the door wide open for an amicable understanding, however long a time it might take to reach it.

Great Britain in agreeing to the Dec. 9 settlement of the Adriatic question acceded to a request made by Italy that the other signatories consent to withhold publication of the note, that Italy be given an opportunity to reply and that the settlement be not regarded as final. This is revealed in a telegram sent by Earl Curzon, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to Sir Eyre Crowe, the British representative on the Supreme Council.

A copy of the telegram, which was communicated to the American Government yesterday for the first time, was made public today by the State Department.

The conditions for signature, Earl Curzon said, were requested by Signor Scialoia, Italian Foreign Minister, with whom Earl Curzon held a long conversation Dec. 8.

When informed of the terms of the French-British-American proposal, Signor Scialoia raised two main objections, which, Earl Curzon said in the telegram were:

"That it was a mere reiteration of the Wilsonian position and made no concession to the Italian point of view about Fiume, and that while safeguarding the strategical position of Italy north of the Adriatic, yet by leaving both Sebenico and Cattaro in the hands of the Jugoslav State it exposed the entire central and southern Adriatic flank of Italy to attack. Italy claimed neither of these ports for herself, but did claim that both, or at least Sebenico, be demilitarized."

ALLIES FIND ENIGMA IN AMERICA'S ROLE

Want to Know Where This Country Stands on Future Peace Settlements.

FEAR A VETO AS TO TURKEY

Belief That Friction Will Come Unless the Situation Is Cleared Up.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 4.—To Europe the Statue of Liberty is a big question mark. What is America going to do? The shadow of that question mark falls across the table whenever European statesmen get together to negotiate.

Is America going to ratify the Versailles Treaty? Is America going to join in the League negotiations? European statesmen who invited America to come in and help them direct the negotiations want to know.

The Italians and Jugoslavs, as favored by Wilson, are trying to get together on an Adriatic settlement, but the Adriatic question is only one of the pending European matters. The allied attempt to settle that without the active participation of America resulted in losing sight of American principles. That was only natural, for when across a green covered table conflicting interests sway and compromises are made, those present make themselves felt more than those who are absent.

Doubt Our Attitude on Turkey.

Now the Turkish problem has been in a fashion arranged, does America, it is asked, want to give Europe her advice? If so, what is her advice on the pending questions?

In his famous note of Feb. 10 President Wilson said that the Adriatic problem raised the question whether or not America could co-operate with European nations in the work of maintaining the peace of the world. He said that if the principles for which America stood were not carried out in the Adriatic settlement he must consider the withdrawal of the Versailles Treaty from the Senate, "permitting the terms of European settlements to be independently established and enforced by the Associated Governments."

In their reply the British and French Premiers stated that they did not want America to withdraw from the task of establishing world peace. They said they would take into account America's wishes and they withdrew their ultimatum to the Jugoslavs and left President Wilson a wide field to perfect a settlement if he could do so, but they stated that the "absence of any American plenipotentiary has proved in practice an almost insurmountable obstacle."

Europe wants to know if America is going to ratify the Austrian and Hungarian treaty, take part in the Bulgarian and Turkish settlement, recognize the Soviets, favor revision of the German Treaty, keep troops on the Rhine, lend money to Germany and come again into the world political game. Europe wants America in as a full-fledged member of the society of nations.

Allies Fear Another Veto.

The allied Premiers, according to official information here, do not know American wishes with regard to Turkey. They have tentatively decided to let the Sultan remain in Constantinople. President Wilson was opposed to that when he favored an American mandate for Constantinople. The Premiers want to know what is his attitude now. As he vetoed the Adriatic settlement reached in the absence of his spokesmen, the question arises may he not veto the Turkish settlement?

The Hungarian Treaty is undergoing changes. It is likely that the frontier lines laid down in the original draft will be shifted. Frank L. Polk, acting under the direction of Washington, approved that first draft which suited President Wilson. Will Mr. Wilson approve the changes? If not, what does he wish done? No one speaks for him here in the allied councils.

The allied Premiers have framed a European economic program which involves, if not changes, certainly mitigations in the Versailles Treaty. President Wilson wanted the Versailles Treaty approved by the Senate without any changes. What he thinks of the proposed changes is not known here.

Under the direction of Lloyd George the Allies are getting nearer to peace with the Soviets. They want to make a Russian policy to which America will agree. In a short time the League of Nations will send an investigating commission into Russia. The Allies would like to know if America approves, and if she will send a member of the commission.

After it is fully recorded and emphasized that the Allies wish to act in accord with America, it is true, as has been pointed out in these dispatches, that they do not wish to occupy a position in which Washington is the court of review on all they do. The question comes up, What damage might be done if President Wilson, for instance, vetoes the Turkish plan? Various purely European points of policy have dictated the decision to leave the Sultan in Constantinople. Some of these points of policy are not of a nature which America considers so important as do European nations.

Reversal by Allies Difficult.

It has been announced in Turkey, in India and in Egypt that the Sultan is to remain at the Golden Horn. Should America later decide that this is wrong, it is asked, can the allied Premiers back down?

There are things being written into the settlements now being arranged which do not jibe with the principles advocated by America. When they come out there will be curiosity as to what will be done by Washington.

A middle path is going to lead to other difficulties comparable to the Adriatic tangle. America can come into the game of world politics and make her influence an important factor. She can stay out and, as Mr. Wilson intimated, let the Allies settle their own troubles. As she cannot stay both in and out, in that policy lies the danger of constant friction and misunderstanding. And so the biggest world political question of the day is, "What is America going to do?"

POPE APPOINTS AMERICANS.

Makes Mgr. Puchalski of Brooklyn Private Chamberlain.

ROME, March 5.—Mgr. Bolealaus Puchalski of Brooklyn, N. Y., was today appointed Private Chamberlain to Pope Benedict, while Mgrs. James Savage, Ernest Van Dyke, Joseph Morgen and M. J. P. Dempsey of Detroit, Mich., and Patrick C. Hayden of Natchez, Miss., were nominated domestic prelates.

Mgr. Francesco Plancarte y Navarrette, Archbishop of Linares, Mexico, was entrusted with the work of modifying the jurisdiction of the diocese of San Luis Potosi and Zucatecas so they will coincide with the administrative boundaries to those Mexican States. The district of Pinos will be added to the diocese of Zacatecas, while the district of Salinas will be in future a part of the diocese of San Luis Potosi.

SAYS CAILLAUX MADE THREAT TO ALFONSO

Former Envoy Declares King Menaced with Death During Agadir Incident.

PARIS, March 4.—Today's session of the trial of former Premier Joseph Caillaux before the Senate, sitting as a high court, on the charge of having had treasonable dealings with the enemy, brought out an alleged threat by M. Caillaux against the life of King Alfonso of Spain at the time the landing of German troops at Agadir, Morocco, led to grave international complications in 1911.

William Martin, former French Ambassador to Madrid, and once Chief of Protocol at the Foreign Office, related a conversation he had with King Alfonso on Jan. 30, 1912. The King, according to M. Martin, declared that at the time of the Agadir incident M. Caillaux sent an emissary to him, threatening him with death. M. Martin testified that King Alfonso said he was not afraid of M. Caillaux's threat, but had made a note of it and left a copy in a vault so that if anything happened the truth would be known.

M. Caillaux denied that there was any truth in the story, and asked the court to allow him to produce counterproofs at a private sitting of the court.

It was Ambassadors' day today at the Caillaux trial. Three former French Ambassadors at Madrid, Petrograd and Berlin were the first witnesses for the prosecution. They were William Martin, Maurice Paleologue and Jules Cambon, and their testimonies were as varied as their opinions concerning the accused.

M. Paleologue, after informing the court that he realized he faced a man who was defending his honor, and perhaps his life, and would weigh every word, launched into a scathing arraignment of M. Caillaux. He concluded by dramatically pointing an accusing finger at the prisoner and shouting: "You are the Sturmer of France." (Boris Sturmer, former Russian Premier, with the late Monk Rasputin and former Minister of the Interior Protopopoff, formed the trio known as "The Dark Forces" of Russia, alleged to have treacherously sold out Russia to the Germans through intrigues with the late Empress.)

The court was in an uproar, with M. Moro-Giafferi of counsel for Caillaux protesting violently.

Cambon Defends Caillaux

M. Cambon reviewed the Agadir negotiations. He said Caillaux never gave him instructions in any way deviating from the policy followed by other Premiers and Ministers of Foreign Affairs toward Germany. He declared he was convinced that Caillaux acted in the best interests of France and was imbued with patriotism toward the country.

"Caillaux acted in the Agadir negotiations in a manner which does him the greatest honor," M. Cambon said in concluding his testimony: "I told him so then and I am prepared to say so now."

M. Martin reported the conversation which he had with King Alfonso of Spain previous to his departure for Paris in January, 1912, previously referred to.

The court will decide tomorrow whether documents produced by Caillaux in denial of this story shall be disclosed in public session or read at a private sitting of the court.

The public prosecutor, Theodore Lescouve, concluded his cross-examination by asking Caillaux to explain a statement in his essay, entitled "The Responsible Parties," in which he said that former President Poincare at a Council of Ministers on Aug. 1, 1914, asked the Ministers to declare war immediately upon Germany, quoting M. Poincare as saying: "France does not wait until one declares war on her."

Caillaux added in the essay that M. Poincare desired war and wished it an accomplished fact before England made known its decision to join on the side of the Allies, as he felt sure that if Germany were satisfied that England would enter the war, there would be no war.

"Where did you get your information?" asked M. Lescouve.

"From the Ministers of the Viviani Cabinet," replied Caillaux.

"Who are they?" insisted the prosecutor.

"What do you take me for," shouted Caillaux in a paroxysm of rage, "that I should betray the confidence placed in me by my friends. This is not a trial for intelligence with the enemy; this is a trial of one's most intimate thoughts, a trial for heresy. The document 'The Responsible Parties' would never have seen the light of day. You gave it publicity. You laid bare the most intimate thoughts of mine to the public. You produce the proofs."

BOY AND $77,000 MISSING.

Police Searching for Messenger of First National Bank.

Charles J. Dorgan, an 18-year-old messenger employed by the First National Bank, at 2 Wall Street, who disappeared Wednesday with $75,000 in checks and about $2,000 in cash, is being sought by the police. The bank officials have asked that no general alarm be sent out, and they have made no charges against the messenger, who, they say, might have been the victim of an accident or foul play.

Dorgan left the bank Wednesday afternoon to make deliveries and collections at other banks in the financial district. When he did not return the police of the Old Slip Station were notified. Last night detectives were sent to his home, at 1,475 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn, but he did not appear.

Dorgan's mother collapsed yesterday when she heard that her son had disappeared. A member of the family said that he was sure that the messenger had met with an accident.

FRENCH WAR DEPOTS STRIPPED BY THEFT

Raids on Government and Corporation Property Common Evil Today.

FORM OF WAR REACTION

Old Respect for Goods of the State Has Been Weakened in the Long Conflict.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 4.—There is a new, and, to judge by the members who have adopted it, exceedingly popular and profitable profession in France. It is that of the bandit, plunderer or pilferer, the three terms merely denoting different stages in the same career. Like his more reputable big brother, the profiteer, the bandit in his perfect development is a product of the war. It is true that banditism has always been extensively practised in France from the days of François Villon and his "free companions" to the hardly less famous motor bandits, Bonnet and Garnier. But it required the war and war conditions to raise the profession to its present status of one of the leading national industries.

Thus to describe it is no exaggeration. The extent and number of robberies daily is perfectly amazing. Every newspaper contains accounts of three or four hold-ups and references to an organized gang of thieves who plunder depots and warehouses are equally frequent. One railroad has announced losses by theft amounting to 3,000,000 francs in a single month.

In the north whole communities have been plundered of everything—huts, clothes, kitchen utensils, crockery, furniture, food, drink, fuel and tobacco—from the camps of war material. For an interesting feature of the whole business is that in its commonest development the banditism is directed chiefly against Government property or that of big corporations such as railroads. To put it more exactly, plundering rather than banditism is the most prevalent phase of robbery.

The causes which have spread this form of crime broadcast across France are psychological and economic, and one might almost add political. There is many an otherwise honest man who has indulged in smuggling or attempted to get a free ride on the railroad, and thus the psychologic factor in the French crime wave has sufficient explanation. The economic factor has two features. Firstly, the vast and almost riskless opportunities—which makes the thief all the world over—and, secondly, the return from war of men over 20, which has produced a great change in the position of youths and boys. The opportunity was supplied by huge camps of war materials, French, American and British, scattered everywhere throughout the country.

There is a distinction to be drawn between the three phases of pilfering—that is, taking what does not belong to one, but hardly belongs to any one else—plundering, stealing others' property without a definite knowledge as to its owner or the violence against him, and banditism—the hold-up of robbery under arms. During the war many millions of men were in a position where to take things that did not belong to them was the only alternative to leaving them to the Germans or to be destroyed by a bombardment.

In the army a community of risks tends to produce a community of property, and the distinction between meum and tuam becomes blunted without any criminal motive supervening. Every one has heard the eminently honorably soldiers, even of high commissioned rank, boasting of his own or "striker's" successes in "swiping" from a neighbor's vineyard anything from reinforced concrete to pate de foie gras.

GEORGE W. NORRIS ELECTED.

Farm Loan Commissioner to Head Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—George W. Norris of this city was today elected Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia. He succeeds E. P. Passmore, resigned. Mr. Norris is a member of the Farm Loan Bank Board.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—George W. Norris announced today that he would accept the Governorship of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank, and would resign from the Farm Loan Board April 1. His successor on the board and his successor as Farm Loan Commissioner, the chief officer of the board, will be appointed by President Wilson.

MRS. SHONTS SUES AGAIN.

Says Mrs. Thomas Obtained Household Effects Belonging to Her.

The litigation between Mrs. Milla D. Shonts, widow of Theodore P. Shonts, and Mrs. Amanda C. Thomas, who got the bulk of his estate, was increased by a new suit yesterday in which Mrs. Shonts asks $5,000. The complaint alleges that this is the value of articles of furniture and household furnishings belonging to her which her husband used between 1910 and 1919, and which she believes now is in the possession of Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. Shonts alleges that Mrs. Thomas "wrongfully converted and disposed of the said articles." In behalf of Mrs. Thomas it was denied yesterday that she came into the possession of any property belonging to Mrs. Shonts.

end that it may be a government of laws and not of men.

"The decision made by the Committee on the Judiciary under this order of investigation will determine the question of whether our Government is a Government of laws and not of men."

Representatives Dewalt of Pennsylvania, Saunders and Martin of Louisiana and Moore of Virginia opposed the rule, while Representatives Fess and Begg of Ohio and Mondell of Wyoming spoke in favor of the inquiry. The latter said that beet sugar growers were willing and anxious to get 12½ cents for their product, and when the Attorney General agreed to the high prices for the cane sugar the price of sugar to the consumer went up 10 cents a pound, against the law of supply and demand.

Representative Garrett denounced the present leadership of the House, declaring that in times past Republican leaders had been concerned with serious things and not with partisan advantages.

"The leadership of the majority side has reached such a point," he added, "when to direct attention from its own hopeless incapacity it sinks to anything. This is a sinister move under the guise of an investigation to impeach the Attorney General. There in no man here courageous or brave enough to pursue the proper course and rise on the floor and impeach the Attorney General. I challenge any man to take that course.

"Mr. Palmer has many enemies. He has made enemies while Alien Property Custodian, and they are enemies of this country. This is nothing but politics. The Chairman of the Rules Committee has a rule on an important construction measure in his pocket. He does nothing with that but brings out this rule. He pauses in the midst of doing nothing to do something worse. We protest against the passage of this rule. Let us do something which will make the people respect the House of Representatives."

Price Kept Down, Democrats Say.

WASHINGTON, March 4 (Associated Press).—During the debate over the resolution authorizing investigation of the acts of Attorney General Palmer in connection with prices charged for Louisiana sugar, Republicans asserted that the actions of the Attorney General in regard to the Louisiana growers caused increased prices for the Cuban crop. This was denied by the Democrats, who asserted that his action was a "saving to the consumers."

"That Louisiana crop was just enough to supply the United States with sugar for one day," commented Representative Martin, Democrat, of Louisiana. He declared Louisiana growers would have obtained 25 to 27 cents a pound for their product had the Attorney General "taken no action."

Mr. Martin said the investigation was "unnecessary and unwarranted" and charged that Representative Tinkham was pushing it because he "wanted to get in the newspaper headlines."

"The President and Attorney General by their conduct," said Representative Tincher, Republican of Kansas, were to blame for increasing prices of sugar, but his assertion that he "did not care about politics" broght questioning "Noes" from the Democratic side.

Representative Sanders, Democrat, of Louisiana, insisted that the investigation was proposed to "lessen the present popularity" of the Attorney General, who "is looming up in the public eye." He added that no investigation of "outrageous profiteering by manufacturers of New England" had been proposed. Representative Begg, Republican, of Ohio, asked what the Attorney General had done with "the million dollar fund given him to prosecute profiteers," adding that "not a single prosecution" had been brought.

Representative Mondell of Wyoming, Republican floor leader, said that if Representative Sanders's charges of profiteering were true the Attorney General had "woefully failed to do his duty." He also attacked the President for "inactivity" in not buying the Cuban crop.

Representative De Walt, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, characterized the resolution as "an outrageous attack," and said Mr. Palmer merely had agreed with the District Attorney of Louisiana, after an investigation, that persons charging 17 and 18 cents for sugar would not be prosecuted as profiteers.

NITTI WARNS EUROPE OF PERIL OF REVOLT

Calls Suffering Masses in Central and Eastern Countries a General Menace.

LONDON, March 4.—Europe is in danger of permanently losing the position she held in the world before the outbreak of the World War, says Premier Nitti of Italy in an interview printed by The Manchester Guardian today. He points out that Europe is no longer a creditor but is on the debit side of the ledger.

Public order in Italy is good, says the Premier, and if that country could get her minimum requirements in coal, foodstuffs and raw materials she would be able to reconstitute herself economically. Alluding to the success of a large number of Socialist Deputies in the last Italian election, Signor Nitti says that although the result may make his work more arduous it will not be disadvantageous to the country, because the present Parliament "is representative of all political currents in Italy, and that is the best safeguard against revolution."

"No attention must be paid to rumors about Bolshevism," he continues. "Hard work and moderation are the slogans of Italy at the present moment."

Only brief allusion to the Adriatic problem is made in the interview.

"We shall find a way out," says the Premier, "and we and the Jugoslavs will be friends. Don't magnify this frontier controversy by talking of imperialism. Our persistent demand for the neutralization of the eastern coast of the Adriatic proves the futility of the allegation of imperialism against Italy. Feeling naturally exists over Fiume, because the future of some Italians is immediately concerned, but these are really questions of statistics and not of wild ambitions.

"What, after all, is Italy demanding in the Adriatic? She wants strips of territory the population of which is less than the Italian casualties in the war. Do not confuse issues by talking of secret treaties. The Pact of London was concealed only because of the necessities of the war, and, at any rate, those who might complain are, after all, the Italian people."

Discussing the European situation in general and the danger of the permanent loss to Europe of her former pre-eminent position, the Premier, after pointing out that Europe had passed from the status of a creditor before the war to a debtor after it, adduces other reasons for his opinion. Alluding to Europe's pre-war status, he says:

"Then she was the most productive region in proportion to her population in the world. Now millions of her producers are unemployed. Germany, which was the focus of European productivity, is paralyzed economically; Southeastern Europe and Russia are not only stagnant economically but are in social and political confusion. How can Europe live if half her energies remain suppressed, and how can her energy revive unless the victors and the vanquished realize that they have a common task to accomplish? Think of the danger of putting this huge mass of suffering humanity in movement throughout Central and Eastern Europe.

"Here, indeed, there are possibilities of revolution, possibilities which threaten us all. At all costs the tension must be relaxed. How can the vanquished pay indemnities unless their productivity is restored by allocation of raw materials? It is a great thing that we are not going to suffocate the Turk, but will help him to his feet like any other ruined people."

Premier Nitti expresses strong conviction in favor of restoring normal relations with Russia, adding: "There should be no more meddling with the internal affairs of one country by another."

READY FOR PARLEYS ON ALSACE IN 1917

Bethmann Hollweg Showed a Conciliatory Spirit, Says Papal Nuncio.

ROME, March 4.—That Germany was ready to make concessions regarding Alsace-Lorraine in 1917 as a means of achieving peace is brought out in the course of a semi-official statement made by the Vatican relative to conversations occurring at that time between the Papal Nuncio, Mgr. Pacelli, and the German Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg. The Chancellor has recently alluded in German newspapers to these conversations, and the Vatican statement gives more detailed information.

Concerning the exchange in reference to Alsace-Lorraine, the statement says Mgr. Pacelli asked Bethmann Hollweg: "What are Germany's intentions regarding Alsace-Lorraine, and is the German Government ready to make territorial concessions to France?"

Bethmann Hollweg's answer is given as follows:

"If France is ready to negotiate peace will not be wrecked on this point. Under the form of a 'reciprocal rectification of frontiers' it will be easy to find the way to an accord."

The early part of the statement relates how the negotiations were initiated, and says:

"Mgr. Pacelli during the first half of 1917 was intrusted to present to the Kaiser an autographed letter from the Pope, in which the Pontiff limited himself to warmly recommending peace in such a manner as circumstances at the moment suggested.

"The conversation between Mgr. Pacelli and Bethmann Hollweg, the German Chancellor, dealt with the request for an explanation of Germany's war aims made by Nuncio Pacelli as the best means of reaching peace, recommended by the Pope.

"Mgr. Pacelli's request included the following points: Disarmament, arbitration, independence of Belgium and a solution of the Alsace-Lorraine question. On this last point Mgr. Pacelli asked what concessions, if any, Germany was willing to make to France. Bethmann Hollwek spoke of partial concessions Hollweg spoke of partial concessions was victorious all along the line and when the disposition of Alsace-Lorraine had not as yet been laid in its entirety before Germany, as was done afterward by the French Premier, Georges Clemenceau."

The statement points out that further negotiations having been interrupted because of the fall of Bethman Hollweg it was not until August, 1917, that the Holy See, independently of any former efforts, made to all belligerents its well-known papal peace proposal.

When the full text of the Bethmann Hollweg revelations is received at the Vatican, the papal Secretariat of State will determine whether further and official explanation will be made.

COUNCIL WILL KEEP BAN ON HAPSBURGS

Unofficial Assurance to That Effect Is Given the Rumanians, Stirred by Horthy's Regency.

LONDON, March 4.—Members of the Supreme Allied Council are determined to adhere to that organization's refusal to allow a restoration of the Hapsburgs in either Austria or Hungary, it is stated in conference circles, in answer to inquiries regarding Rumanian fears that the appointment of Admiral Horthy as Hungarian Regent means the return of the former rulers of that country.

Recognition of the Soviet Government in Russia, it is stated in the same quarters, has been discussed in the course of the Council's consideration of economic and financial problems, but no definite conclusion has been reached. Other matters affecting relations with Russia have also been debated, and it is recognized that all the Allies have an option of beginning trade with Soviet Russia if they wish to do so.

While nothing has yet been decided as to the size of the army Turkey will be allowed to maintain, the Council is believed to oppose any plan to maintain a force larger than 25,000, and may insist that the Turkish Army be considerably less than this figure. Some members of the Council are said to favor refusing Turkey a standing army in any form, except a gendarmerie under officers appointed by the Allies.

FRENCH SEE PERIL IN RUSSIAN POLICY

Reopening of Trade for Benefit of Germany Called Political Madness.

ECONOMIC PLEA IS SOUND

But There Are Other Considerations for France, "Which Does Not, Cannot Trust Germany."

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 4.—"Whatever dangers may result from peace with Soviet Russia, France must share with England. It is not the same regarding the benefits. England and Germany may gain much from a resumption of commercial relations. We shall gain little or nothing. Yet what hurts them will hurt us also. It's heads they win and tails we lose."

That was a summary of the French viewpoint given to THE NEW YORK TIMES today by a high diplomatic authority. He said:

"I am telling you nothing new in stating that England at present is instigating the allied policy toward Russia. France has agreed to follow England's lead and assented to the Supreme Council announcement issued last week in London, but since that date a new factor appears to have been introduced. I refer to the relation to Soviet Russia of Germany. As you know, the opinion of the British governing class has been enormously influenced by Keyne's book on 'The Economic Consequences of Peace,' whose moral is briefly that Europe can never recover from the war unless Germany is prosperous and that the financial terms of the treaty are so crushing as to render Germany's prosperity—nay, even her economic existence—impossible.

"During the last week it appears that the idea has come to British statesmen that instead of modifying the treaty in Germany's favor, which would be extremely difficult and perhaps dangerous, they should kill two birds with one stone by allowing Russia and Germany to assist each other. Given Russian raw materials—her depreciated currency precludes her buying them elsewhere—Germany would be able to get her manufactures going again and recover her lost economic stability. Russia would benefit by the service of German engineers, organizers and business men, to say nothing of German tools, machinery and manufactured goods generally, of which she has enormous need. In a phrase, Germany would develop Russia and Russia would put Germany on her feet again.

"I don't say that England regards the proposition exactly like that or has formulated it so definitely, but in plain language that is the logical outcome of the trend of the policy advocated in Keynes's book. From an economic standpoint the reasoning is doubtless sound enough. Obviously it is hard for us French to answer when we are confronted by this argument: 'You say it is vital to France that Germany pays her what she owes. But don't you realize that Germany cannot pay unless you permit her to recover? Therefore it is in your own interest as Germany's creditor not only to allow, but even to aid, Germany's recovery. That is practical common sense.'

"From our viewpoint there is something in this. We do want Germany to pay and we see that there must be some measure of economic recovery if she is to do so. We realize that it will not be easy to strike the exact happy mean which will allow Germany to recover enough to pay without gaining sufficient strength for her to refuse to do so. For remember this, which, no matter what may be written or said here or elsewhere, is and will remain the keynote of French policy, France does not, France cannot trust Germany. The British pride themselves on being practical business people and the economic argument has an especial appeal for them. But to us French it seems that the economic argument is not everything. There are political, diplomatic, military and racial considerations to be taken into account. We know that Germany for the moment is prostrate, but we do not believe that defeat has changed the heart of the German people or its rulers whether the Government label is monarchist or democratic, republican, socialist, or even communist.

"Since European history began the rich land of France has been the object of German covetousness. Century after century they have never lost an opportunity of attacking us when they felt strong enough to do so. With that knowledge in our hearts, can we view with unconcern the prospect not only of a restrengthened and rehabilitated Germany, but of a Germany combined with Russia, bulwarked by Russia's inexhaustible granaries and supplies of raw material and backed by Russia's innumerable millions? Are the British blined to the danger? Are there no far-sighted statesmen in England who can look beyond the immediate political advantages and economic benefits and see that a combination with Russia would be a heaven-sent opportunity for Germany of winning back, ten or twenty or thirty years hence, not only what she has lost, but that paramount supremacy she fought the war to achieve?

"You know what French hopes are built on Poland, what an important part Poland plays in our European policy. Could Poland resist for a moment against the combined weight of Russia and Germany? Surely it is to the interest of the Allies—and America, too, for that matter, for Germany loves America no more than she loves France or England—to keep Russia and Germany apart. Instead of that it looks as though we are trying to throw them into each other's arms. It may be economic wisdom, but politically it is madness."

REDS SEIZED U. S. FUNDS.

"Nationalized" Money Deposited in Moscow Banks.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Efforts to show that the American Government, through its diplomatic agents, aided revolutionary attempts to upset the Soviet Government in Russia were continued today before the Senate investigating committee by former Senator Hardwick of Georgia, counsel for Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Soviet agent in this country.

D. C. Poole, former American Consul General at Moscow, was on the stand, but denied unqualifiedly that he had taken part in what Senator Hardwick termed "conspiracies under the American flag to blow up bridges."

Consular funds of the United States had been left in the Moscow banks, Mr. Poole said, because the Soviet "nationalized" them, and his subordinates were unable to draw out the money. He also told of raids by Soviet agencies on the Consular offices of other countries.

Taking the stand, Martens acknowledged he had cabled the Russian Commissar of Foreign Affairs asking the Soviet Government to take "appropriate action," in case he were deported. He also admitted that he had cabled to Russia that Americans were being "terribly persecuted" here for expressing sympathy with Soviet Russia.

"Are you in sympathy with the Russian Socialist Federation's plan for arming the negroes of the South?" asked Wade H. Ellis, counsel for the committee.

At this Martens entered a general protest against the proceeding.

"I don't know what the federation wants," he said.

"Oh, yes, you do," Ellis replied. "You joined it when you came here."

"I did not," Martens declared.

This ended Martens's cross-examination.

To Retire After 455 Safe Crossings.

When the Danish-American liner Frederik VIII. arrived yesterday her Commander, Captain A. G. Thomsen, had completed the first leg of his last trip as a master. Upon his return to Copenhagen he will retire after thirty-nine years' service, in which time he commanded nearly all the ships of the line and made 455 trips across the Atlantic. His record has been free from accident.

SENATE IN TANGLE ON RESERVATIONS

to make a little capital by attacking the President of the United States, who did what he could to prevent this thing. The Lodge reservation is an empty mockery."

The Hitchcock substitute was rejected, 27 to 41. The Lodge reservation, as amended, was then adopted, 48 to 21. It reads:

"The United States withholds its assent to Articles 156, 157 and 158, and reserves full liberty of action with respect to any controversy which may arise under said articles."

Wrangle on Walsh Substitute.

Reservation No. 7 was then taken up. Mr. Lodge moved to amend his reservation by striking out the entire text and substituting a much briefer one drawn by Senator Walsh of Montana, a Democrat, and submitted to the bi-partisan conference. It provided that no person should represent the United States on any "body or agency" created by the treaty until Congress had by law provided for the appointment of such representatives and defined their duties and powers. The only difference between it and the Lodge reservation was that the latter required specifically that such representatives be confirmed by the Senate.

Senator Hitchcock said that there was a defect in the Walsh substitute, and Senator Lodge also withdrew it after stating that it had been offered from the Democratic side and he was eager to please the Democrats.

Senator Walsh took issue with Mr. Hitchcock and himself offered the substitute. Then ensued a wrangle the like of which the Senate has not lately seen. Small personalities, trivial bickerings about words, and about what Senators said or did in the bi-partisan conference, were bandied across the floor until the Senate was in an uproar and Senators were flushed and disheveled.

"To what purpose are we thus spending our time?" Senator McCormick of Illinois finally inquired. "These reservations are said to be in the interest of compromise. God save the mark! They are intended to mean one thing to the people of the United States and another to the people of Europe. We sit here and spin words, and accomplish nothing."

Lodge Done with Amendments.

Senator Lodge took umbrage at Mr. McCormick's tone and evidently thought his motives in agreeing to the compromise negotiations had been impugned, for he warned the Illinois Senator that "when it comes to telling what other people's motives are, it's well to tread carefully." He continued to the effect that inasmuch as Mr. Hitchcock had repudiated the Walsh substitute, and Mr. Walsh himself had said it was not necessary, while Democrats generally seemed disinclined to abide by the amendments worked out in the bi-partisan conference and now offered by Mr. Lodge, he would offer no more.

Senator Williams questioned him concerning the bi-partisan effort, and observed that it seemed to have "fallen by the wayside."

"Yes, just as your treaty has," observed Mr. Lodge in a loud tone, as Mr. Williams is a little deaf.

"We shall probably be able to make some progress," said Senator Borah when Mr. Lodge said he would offer no more amendments.

When the vote was taken the Walsh substitute was accepted, 37 to 32, the first Democratic suggestions—though repudiated by its authors—to be adopted since the voting on reservations began.

On this vote the Democrats were united and were joined by these Republicans: Senators Cummins of Iowa, Hale of Maine, Edge of New Jersey, Kellogg of Minnesota, Keyes of New Hampshire, McNary of Oregon, New of Indiana, and Townsend of Michigan.

Mr. Lodge then insisted that a vote be taken on the Lodge reservation as amended by the substitution. Democrats objected vigorously to this second vote, but were overruled, and it resulted 55 to 14 in favor of the Walsh substitute.

Senator Reed then called attention to the fact that the second vote "gave the authors of the Walsh substitute an opportunity to vote against the reservation they themselves proposed." Senator Walsh was one of the fourteen who opposed it on the final vote.

DEFENDS LEAGUE CLAIM IN HOUSE AT OTTAWA

Right to Vote Equals Ours, Buchanan Says—Minister Rowell Deplores Hesitation Here.

OTTAWA, March 4.—Canada has as much right to a vote in the League of Nations as the United States, W. A. Buchanan, Independent member, declared today in the House of Commons.

"I have no reflection to cast on the country to the south," he said, "but I will say that Canada was in the war from the beginning and sacrificed thousands of men for the principles for which they were fighting. She has just as much right as the United States to a voice in the League."

Both sides of the House applauded.

Mr. Buchanan urged revision of the tariff which would reduce the duty on farm implements. The same note was struck by T. W. Caldwell, member for Carleton, who said that one make of American automobile costs $240 more on the Canadian side.

C. H. Gould, a farmer member from Manitoba, referred to a recent remark in the House that Canada should not trade with the United States unless that country recognized the full value of the Canadian dollar.

"When the American dollar fell to about 37 cents after the civil war, did Canada refuse it?" asked Mr. Gould. "When men can sell their wheat across the line at a higher price than they can get in Canada they are going to do it. That's business."

TORONTO, March 4.—The hesitant and uncertain policy of the United States in failing to ratify the Peace Treaty is responsible for a weakening of public support of the League of Nations, declared Newton W. Rowell, Secretary of State for Canada, in an address here today.

Mr. Rowell deplored the apparent loss of support which he said the league should have had at the beginning, but which would now have to be won by its manner in performing the great tasks imposed upon it.

PLUNKETT ASSAILS NEW IRISH PLAN

Gives Dublin Audience His Impressions of American Opinion on Ireland.

AGAINST FREE REPUBLIC

But Greatest Possible Independence Consistent with Britain's Safety Is Desired, He Says.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, March 4.—Sir Horace Plunkett told a Dublin audience last night his impressions of American opinion about Ireland. He was being entertained at a banquet by admirers and supporters of his dominion home rule scheme for Ireland.

"Americans," he said, "do not bother themselves with details, but they want Ireland to have as large a measure of self-government as is consistent with the military safety of the British Empire, for which many Americans believe they are as much concerned as the British. They also wish to give the minorities, especially Ulster, ample security against possible oppression by the majority.

"In my judgment America does not want Ireland to be an independent republic, but does want it to have all the independence possible subject to the above qualifications."

As between the present proposals of the Government and an Irish republic, he continued, Americans would certainly choose the latter. Anyhow, until the Government ceased breaking its promises to Ireland American sentiment would be that the Irish were justified in asking anything they liked.

The present measure provoked Irish indignation and contempt. It asked Parliament to declare Ireland two nations and was not content to give Ulster autonomy in local affairs, but made Ulster a virtual mandatary over Ireland without responsibility.

How far Ulster had affected the beginnings of the war and how far Germany had planned Armageddon with an eye on Ulster was for historians, but it was a matter of personal knowledge that from 1911 onward, the Prussian Government was organizing the German-Irish alliance in American politics with the view of the coming attack on the world's freedom. In March, 1916, Lord Kitchener in confidence told him, discussing the causes keeping America out of the war, that America's participation would bring it to a speedy end.

The Irish question even if it had not affected the beginning of the war was an important factor in delaying America's decision. To the same cause was due much political embarrassment at Washington. He remembered the question being actually raised whether the American Navy could utilize Ireland as a base of operation, but strategic considerations overruled political objections.

Ireland had become increasingly hostile during the last decade, final proof for every enemy of England in America that British aims in peace or war were mere hypocrisy when they professed any regard for the liberty of small nationalities. The British people, Parliament and Government knew this.

Some prominent politician now and again raised cheers by telling America to mind its own business and talking about the negro question. If there were as many negroes in this country as Americans had Irish in theirs and if the colored folk had the franchise Englishmen would be no more silent about the problem than Americans are about Ireland.

Having criticised strongly the present home rule proposals Sir Horace Plunkett outlined his dominion scheme of settlement and asked Irishmen to combine to save the country from anarchy into which British politicians had plunged it.

"We find Martin Devitt died Feb. 24 from a bullet wound received while fighting for the freedom of his country, which freedom is prevented by misgovernment, and we tender our sympathy to his relatives."

FRANCE WILL FIGHT TREATY REVISION

issued it can be said that the reign of peace has begun in Europe.' One is astounded at reading such a phrase. The Italian Premier argued that he was looking at the question from a purely economic point of view, and not from a political one. Surely this was wrong. For an economist, anxious to increase the total of European productivity, the resuscitation of industrial activity in the devastated regions of France is quite as important as the renewal of German production. The French representatives did not fail to make this point, and Mr. Lloyd George and his colleagues agreed with the French view.

"The Italian Premier carried his argument still further by declaring that the allied Charges d'Affaires in Berlin should have the rank of Ambassadors, and that the treaty with Hungary should be revised.

"With regard to the economic manifesto, the French delegates succeeded in having the Italian proposals rejected, and an amendment inserted to the effect that the Reparation Commission should be the final judge as to the time and conditions under which the loan should be made to Germany; and at the same time it was put on record that the reconstruction of the devastated regions was a matter of general European interest."

The Evening Standard publishes a statement to the effect that the Council has decided to allow Germany to float an international loan and asserts that this loan will take precedence over any indemnity payment which Germany is called upon to make.

The principle of a loan to Germany has been acquiesced in by all the powers represented on the Supreme Council; but the payment of indemnities stands on the same plane, and the extension of credits to Germany is regarded as a means to an end. In other words, in order to make reparation Germany must be helped to make money. Only in that sense can the proposed loan be said to take precedence over indemnity payments.

CONSIDER DENIKIN DEFINITELY DEFEATED

British Experts Say Complete Elimination of His Forces Has Been Accomplished.

LONDON, March 4.—The complete elimination of the forces of General Denikin in South Russia has been brought about, according to expert interpretation of the War Office advices of the past week's operations.

With the Reds in possession of portions of the Tikhoretskaya-Petrovsk Railway, General Denikin's only lateral means of communication by which it would be possible to ship troops to the weak points of his line is paralyzed, and contact with the Caspian fleet is imperiled. The Red cavalry and armored trains now are concentrating on the railway centre of Ekaterinodar, making worse this feature of the situation.

The entire collapse of Denikin's resistance, therefore, is considered a matter of a short time.

This, according to the War Office report, revives the fears of a menace to the British Mid-Asian interests.

Additional cause for alarm, says the report, is that the Bolsheviki may undertake aggressive steps in Persia. This alarm arises from the reports of the new Red Administration established at Merv, Transcaspia, under General Kuropatkin. This administration is considered uncomfortably near the troublesome elements in Afghanistan.

Another former Czarist commander who is reported to have appeared at the head of the Red force is General Brusiloff, former Commander in Chief of the Russian armies. He is said to be at Skobeleff, operating against the Ferghana insurgents. At the outbreak of the World War Brusiloff commanded the Russians in their attacks on Galicia.

In the Crimean sector the Red attempts to dislodge the volunteeers who reoccupied Parekop and Chongar are declared to have failed.

A new difficulty facing General Denikin was brought out in the House of Commons today when Sir Hamar Greenwood, Under Secretary for Home Affairs, said the latest British information was that the province of Kuban in Northern Caucasia was revolting against Denikin.

A large detachment of the Russian Volunteer Army, under General Bredow, has reached the Polish lines near Kamenetz-Podolsk, says a London Times dispatch from Warsaw. These forces are the remains of General Denikin's Corps from west of the Dnieper, which have been without a base since the Bolshevist occupation of Odessa.

The detachment numbers 6,000 men, mostly of the cavalry, and is accompanied by as many women and children. Almost three-quarters of the company are reported suffering from typhus.

ARGUES PARTY ACTS BIND SOCIALISTS

Conboy Says Suspended Assemblymen Subscribed to a Program of Treason.

MAIN ATTACK ON PARTY

Declares It Is Committed to Overthrow of the Government and International Revolution.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 4.—The final summing up for the State in the proceedings before the Assembly Judiciary Committee to unseat the five Socialist Assemblymen was begun today by Martin Conboy, who at the opening of an all-day argument accepted the declaration made yesterday by Morris Hillquit that the Socialist Party of America, not the five men it sen to the Assembly, was on trial.

"The Socialist Party of America is neither a party nor is it American," he exclaimed. "It is an organization created for the purpose of accomplishing in the United States the social revolution and the establishment of the Socialist commonwealth, as part of the international revolution for which the leaders of the present Soviet Government in Russia have been pleading, as the only means for the preservation and continued existence of their own régime."

The case against the Assemblymen was based chiefly on documentary evidence, he said, adding:

"If they suffer it will be the result of official pronunciamentos, platforms and other declarations of their own party, and for their undoubted participation in disloyal and treasonable conduct."

"We are confronted with the necessity for determining how we shall treat this group of persons who are in the United States but not of it," he continued, "who, while accepting the benefits of our laws and institutions and the sacrifices of blood and treasure given to support them, refused loyalty to them; who take all they can get but will not give a life or a dollar to preserve, defend and perpetuate the Government that is their sole and only guarantee of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The Socialist Party of America is not a loyal organization, disgraced occasionally by the traitorous act of a member, but a disloyal party composed of perpetual traitors."

The man who when he took the Constitutional oath of office was pledged to obstruct and resist the Government in its effort to sustain itself, could not without a lie on his lips and within his heart take an oath to support the Constitution and should not be permitted to do so, Mr. Conboy contended.

He quoted from the anti-war manifesto adopted by the Socialist Party at its convention in St. Louis the day after this country entered the war, the clause in which the party "solemnly reaffirmed its allegiance to internationalism and working class solidarity" and declared its unalterable opposition to the war just declared by the United States.

"No more explicit announcement of adherence to the enemies of this nation, giving them aid and comfort, was ever made by a traitor or set of traitors," Mr. Conboy exclaimed. "In this declaration, also, national patriotism is held up to scorn and ridicule and pictured as something false and degrading, something to be abhorred and avoided. There in one instance that party expresses its hatred and contempt for that without which no man may help in the making of laws for America.

The submission to law during the war which all the Socialist witnesses had pleaded as evidence of the party's loyalty was merely an expedient, he maintained, accusing the Assemblymen and their counsel of "evasive and hypocritical sentiments, expressed on the witness stand to throw the dust of political, parliamentary and inoffensive acts into the eyes of this committee and the correspondents of the newspapers.

"No opportunity is lost by the leaders of the Socialist Party to impress upon the rank and file of that organization that it is impossible to achieve the ultimate triumph of their cause by political action. Every manifesto, every platform, almost every utterance of the Socialist orator carries with it the party mandate that the workers of America should be organized industrially so as to be submissive to the command of a revolutionary leadership.

"In adopting a programme of industrial action, involving the use of the general strike, the Socialist Party has stripped itself of the mask of political action and stands revealed as a radical revolutionary propaganda organization.

"In knocking at the doors of this chamber the five Socialists have merely come to do their part in the destruction of the State Government," said Mr. Conboy. "Sitting in Parliaments or in Congress or being inside of the Government councils affords Socialists an opportunity to find out the plans, the strategy of the State to aid them in their warfares."

He reviewed the testimony concerning Assemblymen Claessens, Waldman and Solomon, assailing their loyalty and fitness, and then turned to Assemblymen Orr and Dewitt, against whom no personal charges have been made, and who have not testified in their own defense. By their silence, he said, they had acquiesced in the utterances of their party, had admitted the truth of the accusations brought against them, and must suffer from every hostile presumption arising from their silence.

Tomorrow Seymour Stedman will speak in defense of the Socialists. The closing argument will be made next Tuesday by ex-Senator Elon R. Brown, who is to review the legal questions involved in the proceedings.

DECLARE NEWPORT 'CLEAN.'

Mayor and Police Chief Tell Naval Court City Is Not Vicious.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, March 4.—"Newport is the cleanest city in America," said Chief of Police John S. Tobin before the naval court of inquiry today in speaking of the vice conditions of the city.

Mayor Jeremiah P. Mahoney was also a witness before the court today, and he too laid stress upon the cleanness of the city from a moral standpoint.

"My orders were," said the Mayor, "that the city should be kept clean, and I prided myself that Newport was as clean as any city in the United States, North, South, East or West."

Both the Mayor and the Chief of Police testified to the court that they had co-operated in every way with the naval authorities in keeping conditions right in the city, and much testimony was given by the Chief as to the operations of the naval operatives of the so-called vice squad, their methods of collecting evidence and the arrest of the Rev. Samuel Neal Kent and others for whom warrants were sworn out last Summer.

Chief Machinist's Mate Irving Arnold, chief operator of the vice squad, was made an "interested party" in the proceedings today.

AFTERNOON TEA

"The Tommies stopped the war every afternoon at four o'clock to drink tea," says a returned soldier.

In England afternoon tea is a custom as fixed as the laws of the Medes and Persians.

That the custom is fast becoming a fixture in America is demonstrated every afternoon at CHILDS.

It takes 20,000 pounds of tea a year to supply the demand.

EX-SERVICE MAN AGAINST CASH BONUS

Former Captain Walter Burns Contends That Money Relief Is Not Needed.

FAVORS GRANTS OF LAND

Urges Government Action to Help Wounded Men Get Back to Employment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — Walter Burns of Greenpoint, L. I., who as captain in the United States Army, served abroad in the late war, appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee today in opposition to a money bonus for ex-service men. He based his opposition not only on the fact that the soldiers did not need it but upon the financial condition of the country, saying that if the men realized what would be the effect on the economic situation they would not ask for money.

While Mr. Burns, who is at present a patent attorney here, objected to money bonuses, he said it might be a wise thing, if the revenues admitted, to grant land bonuses to those soldiers who desired it. He laid great stress upon the duty of the Government to care bountifully for the wounded, the maimed and the dependents of soldiers who sacrificed their lives. He expressed the opinion that the vocational training features offered to wounded soldiers and plans to rehabilitate them should be increased and bettered.

In appearing before the committee Mr. Burns prefaced his testimony with the statement that he was a member of the American Legion but that he wished to be heard merely as an ex-service man and as a citizen.

"I want to protest against any bill which provides for a large expenditure either now or in the future for bonuses for soldiers," he testified. "The American soldier does not need it. It will mean only a heavier burden on the taxpayers, and in most cases would be squandered. Those who do not need it would invest it and the others would expend it foolishly. What should be done is for the Government to do something to help the wounded get back to their employments.

"The British Government has done more than our country in aiding the wounded. Let us increase our vocational facilities and do everything possible to restore to health the wounded and make it possible for them to return to civil life and take their places with their fellow-men."

The witness said that every man who wanted a job could get it at as good wages as the position he left to go to war, and, therefore, there was no impelling necessity for a bonus.

"Would you not accept a bonus?" asked Representative Garner.

"No, I would not want to do anything which would put an additional tax on the idle rich," replied Burns sarcastically.

"Another thing, I do not want the impression to go out that the club of the soldiers' vote might induce Congress to grant bonuses," continued the witness.

Representative Garner said he had not received a single letter for a bonus from soldiers in his district, although it sent from 6,000 to 7,000 to war.

"They do not know you are here," shouted some one in the room.

Representative Tilson of Connecticut said that he had received two, and one asked for such a grant and the other was opposed to it.

Chairman Fordney said that if the war had lasted two more weeks another loan would have been necessary and that it was just as proper to float a loan for the bonuses as for the continuance of the war.

To put up in Central Park an Equestrian Statue of Col. Roosevelt, in rough rider uniform, located about six hundred feet from the new entrance to the Park to be made at 6th Avenue and 59th Street, should enlist instantly the generous support of the people; it should make them feel glad to contribute whatever they want to give toward a statue or memorial that will forever remind them and the millions of visitors annually to New York of the greatness and courage and humanity of Col. Theodore Roosevelt—a man whose life and deeds were, and are now, even though he is not with us in the flesh, a source of inspiration to all Americans.

This memorial to Col. Theodore Roosevelt would not be the kind of memorial he would like unless it came from the people of New York State—the State whose citizenship he crowned with the glory of his achievements.

"Behold a Republic in which every citizen is a sovereign but in which no one cares to wear a crown."

If the Empire State ever had a citizen who deserved a crown, it was Col. Theodore Roosevelt, but with all of his successes he never by word or act indicated that he was anything more than a plain citizen. He mingled among us all and was proud to be considered just one of us.

The heart of New York State always beat in harmony with his heart. They were one and inseparable.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt had foes in life. Of course. No man without foes in life has hosts of real friends.

A strong personality, a strong character, an honest, God-fearing and God-living man in life commands universal love and respect in death. Friends and foes mingle in their tributes to Col. Theodore Roosevelt—the man, the fighter in life and the hero in death.

Don't you want to have your name placed on the honor roll of the Roosevelt Central Park Memorial League?

You may have it placed there by sending what you can afford to give—no matter how small or large the amount—(this honor roll is no respecter of persons any more than Col. Theodore Roosevelt made a distinction between the richest and poorest among us)—to

CURTIS J. BEARD, Treasurer, who is Cashier of the New Netherland Bank, 41 West 34th Street, New York City.

The memorial and the new entrance to Central Park at 6th Avenue and 59th Street, will cost approximately $1,250,000, which is a mere bagatelle to raise among the friends and admirers of Col. Theodore Roosevelt in New York State.

Remember to send your contributions today.

Let us close this matter up quickly. Let us show the world how big and responsive is the Heart of New York when it comes to honoring a Great Man's useful and unselfish life.

GIRL OF 4 SUES FOR PRENATAL ACCIDENT

Father, as Guardian, Alleges Deformities Due to Horse's Attack Upon Child's Mother.

CASE NOVEL IN THE COURTS

Borden's Milk Co. Declared to Have Kept Animal in Service Knowing It Was Vicious.

A novel action, involving the question of prenatal influence, has just been filed in the Supreme Court by William B. Hogan of 225 East 105th Street, as guardian of his 4-year-old daughter, Jeannette, against Borden's Condensed Milk Company. The suit, which is for $100,000 damages, is based on the contention that the child's mother was bitten by a horse owned by the company and that, although the mother was but slightly injured, the shock caused physical deformities and other abnormalities in the child, which was born a few months later.

The suit was said to be so unusual that the reports of court decisions in this State contained no exact precedent. Actions involving claims of physical injury to unborn children were said to be not uncommon, but the claim of an indirect effect in such cases was said to be very rare. The action was said to present not only an unusual legal question, but to be unique from a medical viewpoint. It is expected that expert medical testimony as to the effect, if any, of prenatal influence would be offered by both sides.

According to the complaint filed by Moses Feltenstein of 309 Broadway, attorney for the child, Mrs. Violet Hogan, mother of Jeannette, was bitten by the horse when she tried to save a daughter, also named Violet, from being bitten. The horse, it is alleged, walked upon the sidewalk in East 100th Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues, and bit Mrs. Hogan, her daughter Violet and a boy named James Daly.

The injury to Mrs. Hogan was apparently not serious, but suit was brought for her daughter Violet. This case did not go to trial, settlement being made for $1,500.

The infant in whose behalf the present action is brought was born a few months after the biting incident, which took place on Nov. 23, 1915. It is alleged in the complaint that the child has never been able to walk, but sits most of the time, with one leg crossed over the other, in a position similar to that a horse sometimes assumes while standing.

It is also alleged that the child is unable to talk, but makes a guttural noise resembling the neigh of a horse. The child's neck is said to be unusually long and she is said to swing her head from side to side almost constantly. She is declared to be totally blind and practically deaf. Despite her infirmities, the child's features are said to be attractive.

The complaint alleges that, when the accident occurred, the plaintiff was the unborn child of Violet and William B. Hogan and that "because the horse, bit, struck and kicked the plaintiff's mother the infant plaintiff was deformed at birth." The complaint states further: "That the said horse at the time and for a long time previous had been and was vicious and inclined to bite and run away, all of which was known to the defendant, which permitted the use of said horse in its business."

Attorneys who discussed the case, agreed that the chief legal obstacle to the recovery of damages is the difficulty of proving that the child would not have been deformed had there been no accident, and also whether a cause of action arose at the time in behalf of the plaintiff, then unborn.

On the medical side opinion was said to differ, with the preponderance of opinion that prenatal influence was possible as a general proposition without reference to this particular case. The Hogan family is in comfortable circumstances, the father being a ship carpenter, and the child has received frequent medical attention in an attempt to remedy her defects.

Members of the legal department of Borden's Condensed Milk Company declined to comment upon the case, except to say that the company had filed an answer, entering a general denial of the allegations of the complaint. The company's lawyers expressed belief that the plaintiff would be found to have no standing at law and said that, in addition, the company had a good defense, which could not be disclosed at this time.

Dempsey and Kearns Give Bonds.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 4.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, and his manager, Jack Kearns, today furnished $1,500 bonds each before a United States Commissioner here to appear in the United States District Court in San Francisco March 20 to plead to an indictment charging them with conspiracy to evade the Selective Draft law.

MAY EXPEL JENKINS AND TAKE PROPERTY

Mexico's Purpose to Take Further Action Against American Is Indicated.

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—W. O. Jenkins, former United States Consular Agent at Puebla, whose permission to act in that capacity was recently revoked, is to be expelled from Mexico in consequence of his alleged dealings with rebels, according to insistent reports here.

The United States Embassy has handed a new note to the Mexican Foreign Office relative to charges preferred in an interview by Julio Mitchell, Prosecutor of the State of Puebla, which involve procedure followed by the Embassy during the progress of the Jenkins case.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Expulsion of William O. Jenkins, former American Consular Agent at Puebla, by the Mexican Government as an undesirable alien probably will be followed by seizure of his factory at Puebla and other property, recent reports from Mexico City have indicated.

The expulsion of Jenkins is likened by Mexicans to the recent deportation of Russian radicals by the American Government.

LAREDO, Texas, March 4.—Gerald Brandon, who has been Mexico City correspondent of the Los Angeles Times, was expelled today from Mexico as a "pernicious foreigner." He was escorted from Mexico City by two policemen to Nuevo Laredo and today was escorted across the international bridge to Laredo.

MORRILL'S SLAYER HANGED.

Bandit Leader Said to Have Inflicted Penalty for Crime.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Information received by the State Department indicates that Mexican bandits had planned to kidnap and hold for ransom Augustus Morrill, formerly American Consul at Manzanillo, and that the bandit, Manuel Ramirez, exceeded orders in killing him.

"Ramirez was hanged by the bandit chief, Carona, within 25 yards of the scene of the murder, as a punishment for the murder," said an announcement today by the department. "On the murderer's shirt was found pinned a penciled note reading: 'Manuel Mamirez, soldier, died for the assassination he committed. Executed by order of Cipriano Carona.'

Italy Will Bar American Tobacco.

Hear these famous Victor artists!

Extraordinary interest attaches to the recitals of these great artists because of the double opportunity they afford the music-loving public.

It is a privilege in itself to hear these famous artists, and added importance is given to the events in that they enable you to compare their exquisite interpretations with their Victor Records.

Attend the concerts of these artists and note the individual qualities that distinguish their wonderful voices. Then go to any Victor dealer's and hear the Victor Records by the same artists. Note how faithfully their interpretations are portrayed on the Victrola.

It is because of this absolute fidelity that McCormack and Werrenrath make Victor Records: that the greatest artists of all the world are Victor artists.

SAYS NEWBERRY AIDS COULD BE CONVICTED

Judge Refuses Further Dismissals, Holding That Prima Facie Cases Have Been Made Out.

DEFENCE CALLS WITNESSES

Thirty Summoned to Testify as to Character of Detroit and Grand Rapids Defendants.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 4.—Declaring that the prosecution had already made out a prima facie case against respondents in the Newberry conspiracy trial and that the jury would be justified in finding a verdict of guilty as the case now stands, Judge Sessions today denied a motion by the defense to dismiss the cases against the remaining eighty-five defendants.

The Judge also said that in dismissing fifteen respondents on Wednesday he had really gone as far as possible in sifting out all those of whom there might be the least doubt as to their guilt.

Senator Newberry's conviction or acquittal would not affect the status of the other defendants, the court ruled.

In closing arguments for the dismissal of respondents, defense counsel said that not all the respondents woud take the stand, but it was desired to reserve their rights in case that plan was changed.

Judge Sessions, in denying the motion to dismiss, said:

"I believe there is evidence from which the jury would be warranted in finding a verdict of guilty in each case, as the case stands at present.

"I have no hesitation, no doubt at all, that it would be an abuse of judicial discretion if I were not to submit their cases to the jury. There is ample testimony to warrant a verdict of guilty, if the jurors see fit to render such a verdict.

"With the verdict as it should be, of course, the court is not concerned. That is a matter for the twelve men who sit in the jury box."

The Judge also said that all matters presented in behalf of the respondents had been very carefully considered. The testimony, he said, in reference to each respondent, had been studied in an unusual way.

"If there is substantial evidence bearing upon the essential elements of the case in the offenses charged, it is the duty of the court to submit it to the jury," he continued.

"Much stress has been laid upon the fact by the defense that many of these respondents were not acquainted with each other, or that one defendant had no knowledge of the doings of another defendant. That is a very minor matter in a conspiracy charge, and many be considered by the jury for what it is worth. It is not very important. It is not a controlling factor at all. If there is one question settled by the higher authority on conspiracy, it is that resondents may not know each other at all."

Defines Nature of a Conspiracy.

Answering the defense's statement that if there was a conspiracy, it was carried on openly in halls, through speeches and by pages of advertising day after day, the court said conspiracies are not formed in public halls, not at public meetings, nor are they proclaimed from the housetops.

"It is true that if a respondent takes part in the execution of an unlawful agreement, and he does so knowingly, he becomes as much a conspirator as if he originated the plan or scheme, and it makes no difference whether he gets into the conspiracy at the first hour or the eleventh hour.

"You cannot throw the spotlight on one corner of the picture. You must study and examine and consider the whole pictures as it is, and then determine whether the individual defendant has had any relation to that, taking into consideration all the circumstances and surroundings."

The defense opened this afternoon by swearing about thirty character witnesses to tell of the good standing and reputation of Grand Rapids and Detroit respondents.

George S. Ladd of Sturbridge, Mass., and Clarence L. Sibbeen, secretary to Paul King, both respondents, were called to the stand.

The first witness called by the defense, George W. Miller, editor of The Detroit News, was not permitted to identify fifteen letters which it was alleged Senator Newberry wrote to him, beginning in December, 1917, relative to Newberry's candidacy for the Senate.

Judge Sessions ruled out the letters on the ground that the "good or bad faith of Senator Newberry is not on trial."

George S. Ladd testified that he was introduced to E. V. Chilson, one of the defendants, and head of the Newberry Speaking Bureau, and that he received $100 for expenses to attend meetings as a speaker for Newberry and to discuss goood roads topics. After about four weeks' campaign, he was given $350 to "cover expenses," he said, after he had told Chilson that "the committee does not owe me a cent, unless they wish to pay my expenses. I am glad to work for Newberry and my friend Earle."

Ladd denied that he had conspired with any one to violate any law, and said he did not know any of the respondents before the trial was called.

THE smartly upflaring little hat—pictured—adds another Parisienne note—its softly vivid edging of ostrich. Paris likes ostrich, too, you see. To curl in cavalier plumes over a picturesque brim—or—smartly uncurled—to wreath a jaunty turban. Two points worth noting.

SAYS TRADE BINDS JAPAN TO AMERICA

Ambassador Shidehara Declares Empire's Growth Will Not Curb Our Commerce.

SEES NO CLOUDS ON PACIFIC

Speaks of "Abuses and Misrepresentations" of His Country's Attitude Toward China.

The commercial growth of the Japanese Empire will not stand in the way of the expansion of American trade in any direction, and it is inconceivable that questions which will not yield to adjustment by frank and honest diplomacy should ever come between the two nations, according to K. Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador at Washington, who made an address yesterday afternoon at the first of a series of Far Eastern luncheons given by the Fifth Avenue Association at the Hotel Biltmore. The purpose of these luncheons will be to develop a friendly understanding between the United States and the Orient and to foster the development of trade opportunities between this country and that part of the world.

Ambassador Shidehara quoted statistics showing trade relations between the United States and Japan, and continued:

"In other words, the two nations are mutually prominent and trusted customers, and this fact will add to the importance for both parties of maintaining forever the excellent relations by which they are united.

"Nor does the growth of Japan's commercial activities stand in the way of expansion of American trade in any direction. A statement recently issued by experts of your Department of Commerce makes it clear that the produce and manufacture of the two countries are generally different in kinds and not on competing lines with each other. Commercial rivalry, which history has often shown to be a source of grave international discord, finds no place in our mutual relations."

Deprecates Talk of Trouble.

The speaker expressed his belief in the bright future of relations between his country and America and asserted that he could not see a "speck of the dark clouds" which in the imagination of some people are supposed to be rolling mysteriously up over the Pacific. He added:

"I am not insensible of a certain undertow of detraction, of which Japan has recently been made the object. One of the most mischievous stories in wide circulation is that Japan is under the influence of militarism. The accusation is wholly unjustified.

"When Japan entered the family of nations after unmolested enjoyment of peace for several centuries without any foreign entanglements, she was grieved to find that the outside world was full of aggressive tendencies. She found that there were not a few imperialistic nations ready to take advantage of her weak and defenseless condition. She was constantly subjected to threats and indignities without just cause or provocation."

This condition led to defensive military preparations, he said.

"But times are now altered," he continued. "Public attention is being fixed on the more productive branches of human activities, and all political parties without distinction will certainly rise up at once against any plan, if ever made, which would place undue importance on military necessity, beyond what is absolutely essential to the maintenance of Japan's national safety and to the fulfillment of her international obligations.

"At the same time, the treaty of peace has inspired us with hope and confidence, and Japan clearly realizes—indeed, every nation must realize—that any attempt by any country at aggression and territorial aggrandizement is not only doomed to failure, but will undoubtedly prove to that country a source of endless difficulties and complications."

Says Japan Is Misrepresented.

The Japanese Ambassador also asserted that his country had been made the object of abuse and misrepresentation in connection with the Chinese problem, and he said that it was not through such misrepresentations and abuses of Japan's motives that China could be helped out of her difficulties.

"Let me assure you that our first thought in Japan—officials and people alike—is to be good friends with the United States. We do not want to live in a tainted atmosphere of suspicion and anxiety. We want to believe the best of our neighbors and to have them believe the best of us. We think our record is clean. We have never broken or evaded our word; we have never sought a quarrel. And if we can go forward in this spirit, and be met in the same spirit, we can leave mischief makers in search of sensation to do their worst; for we shall know that international peace rests on the sure foundations of international friendship."

Robert Grier Cooke, President of the association, introduced Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, who presided at the luncheon. In presenting the Japanese Ambassador, Judge Gary spoke in praise of the Japanese people, and asserted that the more we learned of their characteristics the better it would be for us.

Judge Gary said he was impressed on a recent visit to Japan with the reception given him, particularly by the children, who, when they saw an American, never failed to shout "Banzai." Inasmuch as these children had been taught by their parents what to say on such occasions Judge Gary thought it was a fair indication of the sentiments the people of Japan entertain toward Americans.

P. F. Condict, Vice President of the International Western Electric Company, who lived for six years in Japan, described labor unrest in Japan due to the increased cost of living, and made reference to the cry raised last Autumn for the eight-hour day, which was adopted widely throughout the country. The recent dissolution of the Diet as a result of the debate on suffrage extention would no doubt be followed by more serious difficulties when the question of woman suffrage was raised. The need for a cleaner and better press in Japan is one of the paramount needs of that country today, in the opinion of Mr. Condict.

Laurette Taylor to Act in London.

Laurette Taylor, it was announced yesterday, will sail for England the first week in April, and will be seen at the Garrick Theatre in London on April 26 in "One Night in Rome," which she has recently been acting here. She will appear in London by arrangement with Charles B. Cochran.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"What's In a Name?" a revue by John Murray Anderson, Anna Wynne O'Ryan and Jack Yellen, with music by Milton Ager, will be presented at the Maxine Elliott Theatre on Tuesday, March 16, succeeding John Drew in "The Cat Bird." The cast will include Beatrice Herford, Alice Hegeman and Olin Howland.

"He and She" will end its run at the Little Theatre tomorrow night.

Irving Fisher has been engaged for the [illegible] of "Florodora." He will play Captain Donegal, the role created by Cyril Scott.

Josephine Victor will play the leading role in "Martinique," a comedy by Lawrence Eyre, which Walter Hast will produce. Rehearsals are now under way.

Crane Wilbur's melodrama "The Unseen Hand," recently acted on the road, will be produced in New York by A. H. Woods in about a month. The cast will include Mr. Wilbur, George Gaul, Edward Ellis, William Ingersoll, Stewart Wilson, Regina Wallace and Blythe Daly.

James K. Hackett will be seen on the road this Spring in "The Rise of Silas Lapham," which he recently acted at the Garrick Theatre.

Mlle. Spinelly, a Parisian favorite, will appear in "Ziegfeld Girls of 1920," opening on the New Amsterdam roof next Monday.

PUBLIC HEARING SOON ON MITCHEL ROADWAY

Each of Two Plans Suggested Involves Obliteration of Central Park Landmark.

Park Commissioner Gallatin said yesterday that a hearing would be held soon on plans of the Mitchel Memorial Committee to construct a roadway in Central Park from the East Drive to the West in memory of the late Mayor, at which certain objections to the plan would be considered.

One plan calls for a roadway which starts at the East Drive in the rear of the Museum of Art at approximately Seventy-ninth Street and runs along the southerly wall of that part of the old reservoir known as the Croton Water Work. Its proposed westerly terminal is at the West Drive, approximately midway between Seventy-seventh and Eighty-first Streets, from which point two roadways lead to Central Park West to the entrances of the Museum of Natural History.

The other plan likewise starts the roadway at the east drive at approximately the same point and runs along the southerly wall of the reservoir until it reaches a point known as Vista Rock. From there it turns off at an angle until it reaches the west drive.

Commissioner Gallatin said both plans had certain disadvantages which would be the subjects of attack at a public hearing.

The first plan, favored by Mr. Hastings of Carrere & Hastings who planned the roadways, and the Mitchel Memorial Committee, of which Robert Adamson is Chairman, would necessitate the removal and consequently the destruction of the Belvedere, a Gothic structure situated just off the southwesterly corner of the reservoir.

The second plan would require the defacement and possibly the removal of Vista Rock, one of the park's most beautiful natural adornments.

The committee also has selected a plot of ground at the southwest corner of the old reservoir as the site for the Mitchel monument and, so far as Mr. Gallatin knew, there is no objection to putting the monument there.

Mr. Gallatin said the desirability of connecting the Museum of Art and the Museum of Natural History was conceded, but there was a question whether either of two roadways, each of which involved obliteration of a landmark, should be chosen. He personally felt the first plan should be adopted, if either was. The Belvedere, built by Olmsted and Vaux in 1870, he regarded as without value from an artistic standpoint. It has been used little, though it now is occupied by the United States Weather Bureau, which might be moved to the Arsenal if the courts eventually sanction the use of that building for outside purposes. The Park Commissioner also referred to the necessity of removing Vista Rock to build the second roadway as a reason for preferring the first. He said he would call the hearing as soon as formal application to begin construction was made by the committee.

ENDS ORCHESTRA DISPUTE.

Philadelphia Musicians Compromise on Wage Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—Grave difficulties between the management and the members of the Philadelphia Orchestra over a wholesale wage increase demand which two weeks ago threatened to end disastrously for the famous organization were averted today at a conference of Arthur Judson, manager of the orchestra, with a committee representing the members. An agreement was reached which is said to have the approval of seventy-five of the ninety-four musicians who constitute the orchestra.

Two weeks ago a demand was made for a flat wage increase of $10 per week for the thirty-nine orchestra members who at present receive the minimum pay for $45 weekly. Under that demand the men receiving salaries in excess of $45 were to be given increases in proportion.

The demand was refused, but the manager said the orchestra was willing and able to grant $5 increases to the minimum salaried men and to establish a sliding scale of increased wages for the others, according to merit and years of service. The offer of the management was accepted today, but the orchestra still faces several other difficulties at the approaching close of the season. It is certain that at least four permanent members will be absent from their desks next year, among them Mr. Kindler, who made it clear, however, that he had resigned to make a concert tour from coast to coast under Mr. Judson's personal management.

Mr. Judson announced today that the orchestra will discontinue all touring west of Pittsburgh. Five concerts will be given in Washington, five in Baltimore, five in Harrisburg, eight in New York City and five in Pittsburgh, in addition to the customary twenty-five pairs of subscription concerts in Philadelphia.

PUPIL SHOOTS HIS TEACHER.

Cincinnati Negro, 14, Wounds Colored Woman in the Arm.

CINCINNATI, March 4.—Angered because his teacher, Beatrice C. Conner, had sent him to the principal of the Douglass School for punishment, Lawrence Angel, 14 years old, today arose in his seat in his schoolroom and shot the teacher through the arm.

The girl pupils had just left for the recess period and the boys, who were yet in their seats, fled in a panic. Angel was standing beside his seat, weapon in hand, when the police arrived.

He had threatened to "get even" with the teacher, and admitted he had taken the revolver from home to shoot her.

The teacher and pupil are negroes.

Raymond Wilson, Pianist, Pleases.

Raymond Wilson, pianist, whose massive, rhythmical, climactic style lent power to some lighter music in his program at Aeolian Hall yesterday, gave pleasure to a matinée audience in MacDowell's "Eroica" sonata, as he himself recognized, by adding the American composer's "Witches' Dance" at the close of the afternoon. Mozart and Chopin were an unconventional start, for Mr. Wilson is the sedate musician of Syracuse University's Faculty. He has, moreover, in no previous annual visit made so captivating a finish as yesterday with Barratt's "The Bells," Pugno's "Serenade to the Moon," the Glinka-Balakirev "Lark" and a Russian dance of Liapounov, for which the house waited for encores.

ALLIES, HE SAYS, ARE TOO EASY ON TURKEY

Henry Morgenthau Declares That "Pussyfooting" Will Not Save Armenians.

MORE MASSACRES PLANNED

Ex-Ambassador Fears for Fate of Russia and Holds America Partly to Blame.

Declaring that the Allies were "pussyfooting" on the Turkish problem, and that they were ignorant of the psychology of the Turk, Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, at a dinner of the Near East Relief at the Hotel Biltmore last night asserted that if Russia with her 170,000,000 people were to be continued as a landlocked nation another European war was inevitable.

America, said Mr. Morgenthau, had "sidestepped" the Turkish problem, so that she was partly to blame for the recent turn of affairs, and all blame must not be placed on the shoulders of Great Britain. He characterized as "ridiculous" the statement made recently by Premier Lloyd George that the Turkish nation had been reduced to 6,000,000 by the terms of the Peace Treaty and declared that Turkey had been a nation of only 5,000,000 for some time.

Mr. Morgenthau read a letter from a friend in Constantinople which said that the Turkish Crown Prince, Meelick Effendi, in Constantinople, right under the eyes of the allied forces, predicted the extermination of the Armenians. He said that it was America and not France, England or Turkey that was on trial today, and that the question was whether America was going to relapse into its pre-war indifference of the fate of people outside the borders of the United States.

After saying that the fate of Armenia was sealed because she aided Russia in the war, Mr. Morgenthau recalled that Russia had been compelled to remain prostrate because the Turk, with the aid of the German, was able to strangle her by shutting the Dardanelles. He pointed out that while Russia was in the midst of internal struggles, after having given 10,000,000 men in the war, the fate of the Turks was being settled without consulting her, while she is unable to make herself heard.

"If you permit the Dardanelles and Constantinople to remain in the hands of the Turk," he continued, "you are again going to expose Russia to becoming a landlocked nation, unable to beathe and spread and become civilized."

It really was a question between Oriental and Occidental civilization, Mr. Morgenthau asserted, and if the most strategic point in the Near East were permitted to remain in the hands of an Oriental civilization the world would be exposed to "a very early continuation of the great war, which did not begin in 1914, but in 1912, when the Balkan disputes arose."

The war will have been fought in vain, he said, if America does not show that it is in sympathy with the Armenians and with the other smaller nations, and if the crimes of the Turks are permitted to go unpunished. He predicted that millions of Jews in Russia and Poland would be murdered in the next few years, because some of "the wild people" of Russia will feel that since the Turk was not punished there was nothing to prevent them also from ridding themselves of those they termed aliens and foreigners.

"Pussyfooting" was the worst way to handle the Turkish situation, the former Ambassador said. The Turk knows when you are in earsest, he added, and then he obeys, but when one hesitates he does his worst.

And just at present that is what the Allies are doing," the speaker said. "They are giving the Turk to understand that all their threats will never be carried out."

The letter read by Mr. Morgenthau told of a meeting of Turks when it was reported that they were to lose Constantinople. One speaker said that if all the Christians had been annihilated the Turks would not then have been mourning the loss of their capital. Whereupon the Crown Prince arose and said that the work (of killing Christians) might still be finished, threatening new massacres in the presence of the great allied forces in the city.

The purpose of last night's meeting was to launch a drive for $6,000,000, which is New York City's quota of the $30,000,000 it is sought to raise by March 14 to aid the Armenians.

The other speakers were Clevelend H. Dodge, Treasurer of the Near East Relief; Dr. James L. Barton, Chairman; Miss Jane Addams, Frank A. Vanderlip, John Skelton Williams, Ogden L. Mills, Gen. John F. O'Ryan, Bishop Burch, Rabbi Joseph Silverman and Dr. Percy Stickney Grant.

The total of subscriptions at the dinner was more than $650,000. Subscriptions ranged from $20 to $70,000. There were individual subscriptions of $70,000, $60,000, $40,000, $20,000 and several of $10,000.

Mrs. Henry Morgenthau announced that she would adopt eleven Armenian orphans, one for each of her grandchildren.

MRS. MOSKOWITZ IN MOVIES.

Will Develop Industrial Pictures for the Universal.

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, long known for her social and industrial welfare work, has become associated with the industrial and educational department of the Universal Film Company, it was announced yesterday. She is said to be receiving the largest salary ever paid to any woman in the motion picture industry except star actresses. She is to devote her efforts to the development of motion pictures for definite business needs.

Mrs. Moskowitz, in a statement about her new work, told of her contact with pictures as Secretary of the State Reconstruction Commission and of her faith in their utility in both education and industry.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The Philharmonic Society.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Henry Hadley is a prophet abundantly honored in his own country, and particularly in New York City. The Philharmonic Society at its concert last evening added another to the several performances of his music that have been given here this season, with more to come. The work played on this occasion was his second symphony in F minor, entitled "The Four Seasons." It is not unknown here, and, indeed, is already more than eighteen years old, having won the Paderewski prize and the prize offered by the New England Conservatory of Music, both in 1901. It was played by the Philharmonic Society in that year.

Like all of Mr. Hadley's music, it declares the thorough musicianship of the composer, his command of rich and varied orchestral color and expressive orchestral timbre, his grasp of form. The symphony is, of course, program music; and the delineation of the words appropriate to the four seasons of the year is appropriate, if sometimes a little conventional. Mr. Hadley's year begins with Winter, in order to make Spring appear at the proper time for a scherzo; which it does very suitably. He does not allow us to forget that Spring is the season when the birds come. The birds are much in evidence throughout this movement, agreeably so; but perhaps, after all, the music would have a better chance to say a more important say and suggest more vividly some deeper and less obvious Spring thoughts if their song had been somewhat restrained.

Summer is appropriated in large part to an Indian love song, which has the affinity with Norse expression that Indian songs so often display. There is a "night motive." The suggestion is of a midnight scene on a lake surrounded by mountains, according to the program note. In the "Autumn" movement it is impossible to avoid the hunt and the hunting horn. There is representation of falling leaves; there is a theme symbolical of destiny, of the dying year.

So there are abundant ingenuity and fancy in the conception of the symphony. There are skill and judgment in the devising and organizing of the several movements, in the treatment of the material. The orchestration is highly successful. It would be too much to say that there are not certain reminiscences here and there. It is not given to many to be wholly original. And in the matter of musical invention it is not given to Mr. Hadley. He conducted the symphony with great authority and fire and made everything in it count for the utmost. He was much applauded and many times recalled to the platform.

This was followed by a symphonic poem by Frederick Delius called "Life's Dance." Its dance movement is persistent, its harmonies are richly vibrant and incessantly shifting, the orchestration dazzlingly brilliant. There is a feverish restlessness in the music almost unrelieved; the symbolism is of a madly plunging career. The piece is strongly affective in its way, and the effect is plainly a successful realization of the composer's intentions.

Albert Spalding appeared as soloist. He played Bruch's "Scottish Fantasie," a piece that seems less and less vital as it ages, but that gives a favorable opportunity to the player to display robust and finished style. Mr. Spalding played with robustness and finish; with an evident desire for bigness of tone that may have resulted in somewhat affecting its purity and warmth. His performance was enjoyable in its finely musical quality, its unaffected sincerity, and it deserved and received much applause.

MISS EASTON IN "OBERON."

Wins a Triumph as Rezia in Weber's Opera Sung in English.

Opera in English on the artistic plane of "Oberon," a masterpiece composed originally in this language, is happily less rare than once it was in New York, but there is not often opportunity to witness a performance such as last night's Metropolitan repetition of it, for the fourth time this season, the first in two years of the current revival to introduce as heroine so finished an artist as Florence Easton. Miss Easton, as a girl, had been among the first to sing English "Butterfly" in America. More recently memorable was her creation of a classic in Liszt's "St. Elizabeth," in double measure a "translated" saint in the operatic portrait gallery. Her diction has no equal among Mr. Gatti's women singers, and no superiors among the men.

Rezia, in Weber's tone-poem, the sport of fate and fairy enchantments, is a rôle offering less to impersonation but more to the singer; in Miss Ponselle's absence it was a distinct triumph that Miss Easton won with her great air of "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster," and much emotional ensemble and dramatic declamation. She was mistress of herself above any nervousness in emergency, and she was much applauded by the large audience. Martinelli, Diaz, Delaunois, Dua, the Misses Gordon, Sundelius, Ogden, Messrs. Ananian, Laurenti, d'Angelo and Martino reappeared, and Mr. Bodanzky again conducted—as he has ten times in these two seasons—his own fine arrangement of Weber's beautiful airs.

Harriet Foster Sings Sacred Songs.

Mrs. Harriet Foster, who has before appeared in Aeolian Hall, gave a recital of sacred songs there last evening, songs described as "unusual, rare and classical," and having "in these days of spiritual effort" somewhat of the power their music held in the past. All such considerations aside, Mrs. Foster sang sincerely her chosen contralto classics, from forgotten seventeenth century pietists down to the "Biblical Songs" of Dvorak. There were also Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithful," Handel's "Largo" air, and the paired "Evening" and "Morning" of Schubert and Mendelssohn.

Attention of Mr. R. D. Kehoe, Pres.

Gentlemen:-

Answering your letter of the 16th inst. wish to say that I am very well pleased with the manner in which your company has handled the sale of the distilling plant formerly owned by The Clifton Springs Distilling Co., to the General Food Products Company of New York.

I am sure the sale would not have been consumated to them without the technical advice your experts were able to give. The service given by your legal advisers and the painstaking work on the part of your executives also contributed in a very helpful manner to the success of the deal.

Very truly yours,

H. F. Cellarius

THE letter on the left is from a company which had a distillery to sell. The letter on the right is from the company which bought it.

Both letters were solicited. We asked both purchaser and seller what they thought of TECHNICAL PRODUCTS SERVICE through which the sale was consummated.

In their own words, each company is well satisfied. The sellers disposed of their discontinued plant as a unit and realized a better price than they had hoped for.

The buyers secured just what they wanted at one-half the cost of a new plant. And with a few minor changes they will be able to operate in sixty days. A new plant could not have been placed in operation in less than a year.

Technical Products Company, Inc.,
501 Fifth Avenue,
New York, New York.

"Attention Mr. A. R. Calvo, Vice-President"

When you first mentioned to us the possibility of our using the Clifton Springs Distillery for one of our Central States plants, we were confident from our previous knowledge of your work, that your reports would be presented to us in a way to permit a prompt and well-founded decision.

The technical reports made by your Consulting Engineer, Mr. Otto Mantius, and the combined effort of your entire organization including your legal advisers, surpassed these expectations.

We are very glad that we came to you to help us find an available plant for our purposes.

Yours very truly.

GENERAL FOOD PRODUCTS COMPANY,

F. H. Gardner

President

Technical Products Service Brings Buyer and Seller Together

To Owners

Technical Products Service

—makes money for manufacturers with a plant or equipment to SELL.

Under ordinary wasteful methods the owner of an inoperative plant sacrifices good machinery to a junk dealer at low prices.

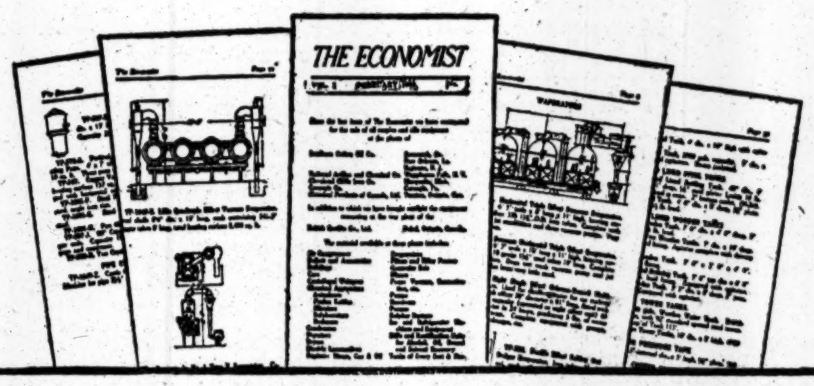
Plant and site are turned over to a real estate agent, likewise to be sacrificed.

But with TECHNICAL PRODUCTS SERVICE our expert engineers and chemists work out an adaptation of the plant to new uses and our sales organization then brings this possible adaptation to the attention of the industries most interested.

The owner realizes on his site, his buildings, his machinery and apparatus as a unit and at the highest obtainable prices.

This result could only be obtained by the help of our technical experts—some of them the most highly paid in their professions.

Employ Technical Products Service and realize the highest possible value from inoperative plants.



"The Economist"

—is an up-to-date list of good usable equipment, issued as frequently as a sufficient number of new items are placed upon the market.

It lists, illustrates and describes all kinds of available power, industrial and process machinery, giving detailed specifications and complete information in just the way you want it.

Purchasing agents should receive this publication regularly. At your request we will place your name on our mailing list without obligation.

TECHNICAL PRODUCTS COMPANY, INC.

To Purchasers

Technical Products Service

—saves money for manufacturers who wish to BUY factory buildings or equipment.

Ordinarily the purchaser would lose both time and money while searching for a plant which seemed adaptable to his needs. Or he would decide to build a new plant under excessive cost conditions.

He can avoid all this by turning to the TECHNICAL PRODUCTS engineers, legal advisers, and real estate experts, who have studied available plants and equipment throughout the country and who can at once point out to him the plant or machinery which may be most quickly adapted to his needs.

And at the lowest obtainable prices.

Similar service is rendered by no other existing organization. TECHNICAL PRODUCTS COMPANY is the pioneer in this field of specialized technical salesmanship.

Employ Technical Products Service and benefit through the advice of our experts in making your purchase.

AS THE TREATY STANDS.

What is the record of the two parties in respect to the Treaty of Versailles? It was negotiated by a Democratic President, in the performance of his constitutional duty. The first Republican move was hostile; it was on March 3 a year ago that thirty-nine Senators of that party signed a "round robin" declaring that "it is "the sense of the Senate that the "Constitution of the League of Na-"tions in the form now proposed "should not be accepted by the "United States." That was nearly four months before the Treaty was signed. Further hostile action was taken by packing the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations against the Treaty. The known facts sufficiently prove this statement. It is further supported by the testimony of a Republican ex-President, WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT. When the Treaty was submitted to the Senate it was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, which brought it back with a report written by its Chairman, Senator LODGE, which was not merely hostile to the Treaty, but contained passages that were an affront to friendly nations.

In the long months of debate the Democrats of the Senate, with very few exceptions, have at all times been ready to vote for ratification. They have been ready even to accept reservations not destructive of the League covenant. Mr. LODGE's reservations, Mr. LODGE's tactics, consistent throughout, have seemed to aim at the defeat of the Treaty and the rejection of the League covenant. The great test of party attitude came on Nov. 19. One vote taken in the Senate on that day, conspicuous above all others, tells the story. On Mr. UNDERWOOD's motion to ratify the Treaty of Versailles as it was submitted to the Senate, 37 Democrats and 1 Republican, Mr. MCCUMBER, voted in the affirmative—38 votes in all. Against the motion were recorded 46 Republicans and 7 Democrats—53 in all. That is the record upon which the two parties must go into the Presidential campaign on the issue of the Treaty if ratification fails.

The Treaty of Versailles has been supported by the Democrats of the Senate. On this test vote only one Republican voted for ratification, forty-six Republicans voted against it. Twenty-six Republicans, besides Mr. MCCUMBER, voting with the Democrats on Nov. 19, would have given a two-thirds majority for Mr. UNDERWOOD's motion; they would have ended the state of war with Germany; they would have made the United States a member of the League of Nations, the greatest security against war ever devised by man. With this record, the Republicans have no desire to let the Treaty and the League become a party issue in the campaign. It is an issue that cannot help them; it can only hurt them. Mr. LODGE and the Senate leaders do not trust to the Treaty issue, they know that the people of the country want the Treaty ratified. They are confident that they can defeat the Democrats on general issues and are willing to take the risk of any harm to the party that may accrue from their refusal to ratify the Treaty.

Many Democrats and some Republicans less hostile to ratification than Mr. LODGE are even at this late hour striving for conciliation, compromise, some agreement that may command the support of two-thirds of the Senate. We are told that one word from the White House would speed the Treaty to ratification. Why from the White House? The President did his duty, he and the country await the performance of the Senate's duty. Is it not equally certain that one word from Mr. LODGE would remove the obstacle? He is the obstacle. Does any sacredness of right or morality forbid him to yield so much as a hair's breadth to the country's demand, to the peace and safety of the world? The President has spoken already. In his letter to Senator HITCHCOCK, written on Jan. 26, he made generous concessions, he yielded every point that could be given up consistently with the safety of the Treaty or with the honorable obligations which this country should willingly assume if it is to be a member of the League at all. Of Mr. HITCHCOCK's reservations he wrote, "I can accept them as they stand." There are reservations respecting Article X. which the President would accept, reservations that contain everything that Mr. LODGE's reservations contain, that in substance and meaning have the same effect.

Is there any conceivable reason, except one, why Mr. LODGE should not accept one of these substitutes for his reservation? His unyielding attitude can be explained only by the theory, now a confirmed belief, that he intends to kill the Treaty. If the matter goes into the campaign the Treaty will not be the issue, the League will not be the issue, the issue will be LODGE and the acceptance of his leadership by the Republican Party. What that portends under a Republican Administration for four years the country is well able to judge.

GENERAL WOOD IN ILLINOIS.

No apologies are needed from the Wood managers for invading Illinois, and it seems strange that they should offer them. They have already invaded Ohio, which is Senator HARDING's State. Illinois is Governor LOWDEN's State. In the early stages of the campaign there was a sort of gentlemen's agreement by which no candidate was to go into another candidate's State. After a while the Wood men discovered that it was wholly directed against General WOOD and in favor of the other candidates. If they ever assented to it, they must have done so in a spirit of simple innocence which is rare to find among political managers.

General WOOD is not a favorite son of any State. He was born in New Hampshire and his legal residence is Massachusetts, while he has some claim to be recognized as hailing from Kansas. On the other hand, HARDING is distinctly Ohio's candidate, LOWDEN that of Illinois, JOHNSON California's, and POINDEXTER Washington's. An agreement not to enter another man's State would distinctly operate to the advantage of these candidates and of any others that the political managers might choose to put up anywhere, while it would operate to the disadvantage of General WOOD everywhere.

So when Mr. PROCTER declares his intentions of getting as many Wood delegates as possible from Illinois he is announcing a thing that should be perfectly acceptable to everybody. Of course, it will not be; the managers for the other candidates will declare it a breach of faith, but that, too, is their privilege and the ordinary custom of a pre-convention campaign. The Wood men are also within their rights in invading Dr. BUTLER's precincts in Columbia University and forming a Leonard Wood League there, and Dr. BUTLER is too square a fighter to object to it.

HELP FOR THE POOR.

The conditions which have resulted in the many college drives are now pretty well understood, but it is not generally realized that they have borne with equal or greater hardship upon organized welfare work. The New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor is endeavoring to collect $975,000 and states its case very persuasively.

Unlike the colleges, welfare organizations subsist not so much by the income from endowments as by fixed annual contributions. During the war the need for giving was so great and the appeal of Europe to the sympathy and imagination so compelling that contributions to home needs were scaled down or omitted quite. Meantime the cost of relief work has almost doubled. In 1914 a family of five could be fed one week for $5.04; today the same food costs $9.97. In the vast majority of cases there is in families receiving assistance no able-bodied unemployed person, man or woman. Where an exception is made it is because assistance is sorely needed which is beyond the wage earner's means. The epidemics of influenza and pneumonia of the last two years placed an extraordinary burden upon the association which still overtaxes its resources. "We have a vicious "circle to combat: the ill health that "produces poverty and the poverty "which is the inevitable result of ill "health."

It is the belief of the association that each community should make "normal life possible for all its people." In its Community Health Centre 90 per cent. of the adult population is foreign born. Here the nurses are aided by a dietitian, who combats the malnutrition which is so often the occasion of illness with instruction as to cooking and feeding. Tonsils, adenoids, ears and teeth all receive watchful care. This is only one of the many enterprises established in the three-quarters of a century of the association's labors.

Sea Breeze is a stately mansion which provides for the children of the city streets the health and joy of salt-water bathing at Coney Island. There is a Boys' Camp and a Girls' Farm which are the progenitors of our many fresh-air funds. The Home Hospital is a model tenement for families in which one or both parents are tubercular. Caroline Rest is a country estate for the care of invalid mothers and their babies. Sunset Lodge is a Summer home for aged dependents. The Crawford Shops give employment to men and women too old to sustain factory labor.

At present the tendency is to put welfare work and the work of Americanization in the charge of State and city officials. Private institutions, supported by well-to-do citizens of public spirit, have the invaluable force of long tradition, and the salutary human touch which is probably forever beyond a régime of public officials. The President of the association is CORNELIUS N. BLISS, Jr., and the Treasurer GEORGE BLAGDEN, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

THE ELIZABETHPORT ACCIDENT.

The crossing at Elizabethport where the Hampton "flier," with signals set against it, ran at a high rate of speed into a Newark-Elizabeth local train on Wednesday evening, has always been viewed with nervousness by efficient locomotive engineers, especially at night. The accident, which caused the deaths of three members of the engine crews and an innocent bystander, occurred in daylight. It seemed miraculous that so few of the passengers in the six cars of the express train were injured, for the train was moving at a speed of thirty miles or more an hour when the crash came. So violent was the collision that the boilers of both locomotives exploded. Yet the passengers in most of the cars of the "flier" were not thrown from their seats. But the cars were of steel and strongly built. Had they been constructed of wood there would have been a different story to tell.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey uses a great many wooden cars in its commuter service, even on fast expresses that carry thousands of passengers many times a day. These trains approach the Elizabethport crossing at high speed when the signals show that they have a clear track, that is to say the right of way. But human carelessness, inefficiency, blindness, disability must always be reckoned with. The signal apparatus may function well when handled by men with their faculties alert. But suppose flesh and blood go wrong, in the signal tower or in the cab of the locomotive. In that case no passenger would like to be sitting in a wooden coach. One of the warnings of the Elizabethport tragedy is that the Central Railroad of New Jersey should replace its wooden with steel coaches. A wooden car on a main line road is archaic.

There have been instances of locomotive engineers falling dead at their posts while their trains were rushing on; of what avail are signals then? Men of middle age and older—often engineers are not young men nor men in the prime of life—may have a "stroke." Such accidents as that of the Elizabethport crossing have prompted the suggestion that there should be two engineers in the cab; this ought not to be necessary if firemen are trained to take an engineer's place in an emergency, and the construction of the locomotive should bring the fireman within reach of the mechanism of the cab. One of the engineers killed at the Elizabethport crossing had graduated from the shovel to the lever. At any rate, there should always be two brains and two pairs of hands to protect the train's passengers.

Frequent and regular medical examinations should be made of all railroad employés, and engineers, firemen and trainmen should be under particular scrutiny. No one subject to any malady or seizure that might cause paralysis or death should be kept in a locomotive cab. Men in whom anything of the kind unexpectedly appears should be retired and pensioned. Security is increased when there are no right-angle crossings, like the one at Elizabethport, but the problem is a difficult one. Time is often gained for the branch line by such a construction, but time would be gained for the main line if the branch line tracks were put underground in a tunnel. The present Elizabethport crossing cannot be defended as good engineering.

TAXES, VALUATIONS AND RENT.

The city budget which had been estimated at $300,000,000 turns out to be only $273,689,485. Thanks for that relief would be more hearty if it were sure that the reduction is what it seems. But there is reason to believe that the reduced total is not more inclusive than its predecessors, which, the present administration has bitterly complained, left bills for it to pay. That there are now unpaid bills left over, as well as some past bills included, is only according to experience. To that extent the city cannot feel itself on firm ground even though it grumbles while it pays the bills which are biggest under the administration which boasted most loudly of the economies that would follow its election. If valuations did not rise, there would be a tax rate indisputably the city's largest. The rate is something above 2.50 for all the boroughs, on a rough average.

The rent market is a matter of supply and demand, and is not in controlling relation to either the tax levy or the price of real estate. There is much realty returning large rentals which cannot be sold at a price based on those rentals, for the rentals are temporary, and the cost of the premises is a permanent capitalization which does not react to abnormal temporary conditions as promptly or fully as the cost of shelter by the year. That explains why the assessors neither did nor could raise the valuations in proportion to the rentals. If they did or could mark them up this year, they would have to mark them down again when conditions altered. Such fluctuations would not be consistent with the welfare of either the city or its property owners. Real estate is not of the volatile nature of stocks and bonds, which may go down one day and up the next. The changes in real estate values move in longer cycles, corresponding to the time necessary to reconstruct sections of the city in conformity with alterations of transit facilities.

In order to justify permanent increases in realty valuations the transportation companies should be permanently efficient and prosperous. Nothing is so prejudicial to realty values as difficulties of transit. Any policy which is prejudicial to transit is detrimental to valuations, and defeats itself. The complaints of the riders on the lines of the city companies are hardly less loud or just than the wails of the rentpayers, and both can be cured in the same way. It may almost be said that the only way is to provide ample and comfortable access to land so cheap that its improvement is practicable by the offset to the present high cost of building. Lack of such access is one reason why the assessors cannot mark up land in proportion to rent rolls.

The valuations for 1919 could not be marked up on account of the incomplete condition of the subways. That obstacle to growth of valuations in accordance with tax principles in 1920 will be removed in large degree, but will be complicated by financial conditions of the operating companies. Spokesmen for the city announce a policy of embarrassing the companies by taking over the contract for operation because of their failure to keep their agreement regarding accommodations. Apparently they regard the companies as responsible for the war, and for the political reasons which have made the city the enemy of the companies rather than their helpful partner. The city has defaulted on its contract more than the companies, whatever the justification of either. It is the fault of the city rather than of the companies that the subways were neither completed nor further advanced toward completion before the war. Now the city is seeking to take advantage of its own wrong to put the companies in the wrong.

HUNGARY'S TURN.

Now that the French have lightened the burden laid on Turkey and the British are interceding for easier terms to Germany, it is only fair that the Italians should take their turn by demanding concessions to Hungary. The question of Hungarian frontiers is before the Supreme Council, and the Italian representatives want to revise the frontiers of Jugoslavia, Rumania and the Czechoslovak Republic in favor of the Magyars. Perhaps this does not mean as much trouble as the recent concessions to the Turks, but it will make conditions in Central Europe even worse than they are at present if the Italian proposal, to which the British representatives give approval, is carried out over French protests.

Hungary has been an applicant for special favors ever since the war ended. For a while the Magyars asked these favors without troubling to give any reason why they should be preferred over other hostile nations; but when they found the Peace Conference cold to the theory that the Magyars had an indestructible right to keep their old frontiers and their ten million unwilling subjects new tactics were tried. The Magyars threatened to bring in the Bolsheviki unless the Conference yielded. The Conference did not yield and Hungary went Bolshevist. BELA KUN's rule was not only a curse to Hungary but a danger to all Central Europe, where his agents did their best to provoke or assist Bolshevist intrigue against existing Governments.

That rule was finally ended by the Rumanians, who were the most directly threatened. There was actual war between their troops and KUN's Red armies, and the Rumanians eventually wearied of the theory of the Peace Conference that in this war the Magyars should do all the fighting. The Rumanians put BELA KUN out, and have ever since been beset by a campaign of calumny in which sympathizers with the enemy and radical sympathizers with Bolshevism have joined forces. Thanks to this misrepresentation the allied Governments have turned their faces against Rumania, which did them a great service when they were unable or afraid to do it, and have showed favors to Hungary, which has been persistently hostile.

When the Rumanians left Budapest the Magyar reactionaries came in. Their reign of terror has been worse than that of the Bolsheviki; and it has been directed by no means wholly against Bolsheviki, but equally against the Magyar liberals who, if they ever became strong enough, would make their country a good neighbor and a trustworthy member of the Central European society of nations. Admiral HORTHY, the Regent, is frankly merely a seat-warmer for some Hapsburg—if not for the former King CHARLES, for a member of the same family who will continue the same tradition. To all the democratic peoples, republican or monarchical, in that part of Europe the reactionary Government of Hungary is a standing danger.

The Magyars insist on modification of the frontiers. Lately they have put their claim on economic grounds—it has finally been made plain to them that the Supreme Council will not recognize their inherent right to rule their neighbors, but they say they must reannex the lost territories to rebuild the economic life of Hungary. Here is a confusion between politics and business. If the Magyars behave themselves, they will find that trade can cross frontier lines; if they do not behave, it is hard to see why the economic restoration of Hungary should be regarded as of more importance than the economic prosperity of her neighbors. Why should we reward those who fought against us merely because they demand it, and punish those who fought for us merely because they did us a service?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Her Criticism Is Really Well Founded.

It is with something less than complete confidence of finding an exposition of sound doctrine that one begins the reading of a long letter on the subject of spiritism, written by MARIE CORELLI and printed in The London Telegraph. But expectations are sometimes pleasantly, as well as often unpleasantly, disappointed, and—a fact that will be surprising to those inappreciative of the talents so much admired by a deceased Queen—it must be admitted that a considerable part of Miss CORELLI's communication is marked by both knowledge and sense.

She has not been either impressed or deceived at all, it seems, by the shallow and shabby occultism just now having a considerable vogue on both sides of the Atlantic, and she refuses to accept as authoritative the opinions of such men as Sir OLIVER LODGE and Sir ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE on questions to which their admitted abilities are entirely irrelevant.

Miss CORELLI is particularly interesting when she discusses "automatic writing," for then she shows herself a good psychologist, well informed on modern theories and discoveries in regard to the subconscious mind. She says, quite truly, that there is no more need or excuse for believing "spirits" to be the source of the automatic or involuntary writing done by "mediums" than for ascribing the same origin to much of prose and more of poetry produced by authors who do not give or owe any credit except to their own minds. They often say, and veraciously, that their ideas are not consciously evolved, but "come" from a mysterious somewhere, and that to themselves they seem to be only the amanuenses of a hidden personality. Which is exactly what the creative artist is when his productions are what is called "inspired." He is the servant of his own subliminal self.

She Also Has Her Illusions.

If Miss CORELLI had ended her letter with her remarks about "automatic writing" and those who do it, and those who accept it as coming from spirits, her letter would have been a fine and really valuable contribution to current controversies. Unfortunately, but not surprisingly to those who have read some of her books, having assailed triumphantly the mystics with whom she does not agree, she proceeds to exploit her own private and peculiar brand of mysticism, which is not a bit better founded than theirs.

Beginning with an "I know positively," Miss CORELLI tells at length what "those who have passed from this life" can and cannot do. They have neither the desire nor the ability, she says, to communicate with earth dwellers, from whom, intellectually, they are as far and similarly removed as are wise adults from new-born babies, and, happily engaged in occupations vastly higher than any of ours, they naturally do not waste their time with mediums or their clients. If that is the case, it is hard to imagine how Miss CORELLI has acquired her positive knowledge, and it is to be feared that critics who are at once bold and discourteous will hint their doubts that she has it. They may even go so far as to say that people who live in one House of Delusion should refrain from heaving half-bricks at occupants of like tenements close to her own.

Grievance Held Too Long.

If Americans were as sensitive now as they were in the days when "something told them" that to foreign criticism the safest answer was denunciation of the critic, they well might make vehement protest against the Britishers who, it seems, are using "robber" and "Paul Jones" as equivalent and interchangeable names for dances of the sort in which there is a frequent and more or less raptorial seizing of the feminine participants. And really, in all seriousness, it is about time for our good cousins to abandon the belief that PAUL JONES was a robber. That term, indeed, is slightly better than "pirate," which is what they all called him until times not very remote. But the difference between robbery and piracy, though considerable, is not large enough, and as PAUL JONES, under all the laws of war formulated in his own age or this, was neither a robber nor a pirate, but a properly commissioned naval officer, serving with courage and ability the country of which he was an honest and patriotic citizen, frank admission of those indubitable facts would be becoming.

A refusal so prolonged to admit that PAUL JONES was a man of scrupulous honor in his profession, as well as a fighter who had only begun to fight when surrender would have been held justifiable by warriors less heroical—such a refusal by the British is the more to be regretted because it withholds recognition from qualities which Britons are proud to claim, truly, as characteristic of themselves. They have forgiven WASHINGTON, and with seeming sincerity profess satisfaction with his success. PAUL JONES was no more of a rebel, was no more unfaithful to his sovereign, and the mere fact that he carried the war into British waters and ports certainly is no reason for calling him bad names.

Considering a Harsh Proposal.

While the war was in progress, just indignation against a part of our foreign-language press made easily comprehensible the many suggestions for the stern governing, or even the entire suppression, of that press. Even then, however, the restrictions imposed erred on the side of mildness rather than that of rigor, and the suppressions were very few and only for reasons in each case adequate.

The war is over now, or pretty well over, but the Senate in Washington is giving what seems to be serious consideration to a bill that would close our mails to all newspapers printed in other than the English language!

That, of course, would amount to suppressing them all, and it would be severity at least certainly belated. Worse than that, it would ruin many papers now harmless or useful, including a good many that never were anything else, while it would leave untouched—by this particular law—some of the very worst and most dangerous sheets that come from American presses.

In peacetime, at any rate—wartime is somewhat different—the language of a paper is not for the Government to decide; its task is to guard us against treason and sedition in whatever language they are expressed.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

Purpose Behind Some Reports of What Is Going On.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Some day the full story of Bolshevist propaganda in this country will be written, and it will make a fascinating chapter in contemporary history. The master minds of Moscow are adepts in this field, and they display a versatility that is surprising, shifting with the greatest ease from appeals to the proletariat to assurances and invitations to capital. One of their multifarious activities just now is directed to creating the impression that vast trade is awaiting Americans in Russia, and that England is surreptitiously stealing the cream of it because our State Department prevents our merchants from taking advantage of the golden opportunities.

For some days an organization calling itself the American Commercial Association has been putting out much publicity for this purpose. Some of its characteristic assertions are that there is much Russian gold already deposited in British banks for trade purposes, and that British firms are already drawing against these deposits for goods actually being shipped to Russia. It is scarcely necessary to point out that this gold has nothing to do with the Soviet Government, and that the goods in question were those shipped to South Russia before the recent Bolshevist advance. They also refer to the extensive sales of Russian furs in London, but fail to note that these furs came from Siberia and were exported at the time when the Omsk Government was still in power.

One of their statements reads as follows: "An Associated Press dispatch from Reval, Esthonia, dated Feb. 9, stated that exports of flax had already begun from Soviet Russia." In this they failed to state that the export of flax in question consisted of but two small carloads, and that, instead of indicating the possibility of trade, it shows clearly how little is to be expected.

An investigation of the so-called American Commercial Association shows that it was formed under the inspiration of the Soviet Bureau by L. C. A. K. Martens. How far its members were dupes and did not know the purposes for which they were being used it is difficult to say. In any case, the public should be warned against being taken in by such a palpable Bolshevist ruse. American business men will welcome the resumption of trade with Russia, but they will insist that this shall take place only under conditions that safeguard American interests, and not for the promotion of Bolshevism or the continuance in power of the cynical tyrants at Moscow.

Votes for "Good Negroes."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent issue I notice an article on the South by Charles A. Seldon. Allow me to call your attention to one discrepancy in it. After telling how Alabama now gives the vote to "intelligent, industrious, honest negroes" you say "such would probably be unthinkable in Mississippi or South Carolina, the only States in which the blacks outnumber the whites." Yes, the blacks outnumber the whites in this State; in some parts there are from five to seven negroes for every white person. But even though this is true South Carolina would hardly consider it "unthinkable" to let intelligent, industrious or honest negroes vote, since she has been allowing just that for forty-four years, quietly and peaceably. You know Booker T. Washington wrote in his "Story of the Negro" that the Southern white man is the best friend the honest negro has.

This is how the white people of South Carolina came to grant negro suffrage. They suffered more from reconstruction than the people of any other State. They could not free themselves, so they appealed to the negroes to rescue them, promising the vote to all worthy ones. This took place in 1876, and ever since then the promise has been kept and all good negroes can vote in both the primary and election.

Mississippi also gives the vote to deserving negroes. She passed a law similar to ours at the same time and for the same reasons.

Conditions in Italy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read today with great interest the dispatch from Rome quoting the Marchese de Johannis, editor of L'Economista. There has been so much misinformation printed here about conditions and points of view in Italy, just as there is published in Italy the greatest amount of misinformation about the United States and the real conditions and points of view here, that it is refreshing to get the views of such an able, independent economist as the Marchese de Johannis.

STORM.

Bolting at the wind's whim,
Haunching back upon the brim,
The sudden-summoned riders go,
Skimming the drumlins of the snow.
Winter, witless, splays his broom
At random in a riotous room,
Making space for who-knows-whom!
(His dancing dust-heaps mock at him!)
The trolley poles are twice as tall
On nothingness. The snow's a wall
And we the people of a peak.
The honey-locust branches creak.
The wax-wings in the apple trees,
Cracking "frozen-tods" for seeds,
Greedy red-polls rifling weeds,
Shelter in the spruces seek—
Such little puny puffs to freeze!
The clothes-reel on the lawn below
Veers, without fingers, to and fro
For some old knitter winding ball,
Invisible in her spindrift shawl.

DOROTHY LEONARD.

SALE OF DRAWINGS, $7,511.

"Hunting Scene" by John Leach, British Artist, Brings $95.

At the continuance of the sale of Dr. Max A. Goldstein's original drawings of old and modern masters at the American Art Galleries last evening an interesting water color drawing, "Hunting Scene," by John Leach, the well known nineteenth century British artist, went to A. Ackerman for $95.

Miss Ruth Teschner paid $55 for a pen and ink drawing with wash, "Three Children," a portrait sketch of the children chasing a butterfly, by Sir Thomas Lawrence; for "Study of Three Cavaliers," by Lieven Mehus, seventeenth century Flemish artist, Miss Teschner gave $67.50; for a charcoal drawing, "A Group of Rustics," by George Morland, $70, and for a beautifully executed group, "Animals and Birds," wash drawing in India ink with gray, by the Italian sixteenth century artist Jacopo da Ponte, known as Il Bassano, $90.

A water color, a lively marine, "Fishing Smacks," by the eighteenth-century Dutch artist Hendrik Kobell, went to C. Thompson for $42.50, and to Mrs. Wormser went a Dutch landscape by Barend Cornelis Keokkoek for $25. The returns for the evening were $1,988, making a grand total to date of $7,511. The sale will be concluded this evening.

HAPGOOD ON RUSSIAN TRADE

Tells City College Students Co-operatives Have Anything to Sell.

Norman Hapgood, former Minister to Denmark, speaking yesterday before the Social Study Club of the College of the City of New York, declared there was no doubt as to what our economic policy toward Russia should be. In his opinion, the only reason why America lacks ideas on the course to pursue "is that for years we have been relying on censorship and propaganda instead of an open discussion and free printing of the news."

"If the question is left to the business man it presents itself simply also. Either he wishes to go in for Russian trade or he does not. If he does, then he asks what is the safest body to deal with. If he has any opportunity to acquire information he will speedily realize that there is in Russia just one set of reliable producing organizations, namely, the co-operatives. They produce flax, as the Soviet Government cannot. They produce wheat, as the Government cannot. They produce not only the main necessities of Russian life, but also the food and most of the raw material needed for export to help Europe. The Soviet Government has been able to do almost none of this work. Russia has been fed and clothed by private enterprise and by co-operative activity, and will continue so to be fed and clothed."

WOMEN ACT ON ALBANY BILLS

Legislative League Favors Abolition of Capital Punishment.

The Legislative League of New York, with Mrs. Thomas Slack presiding, at the Waldorf yesterday afternoon discussed bills now before the Legislature. The League strongly opposed the proposed amendment to the charter of the State of New York, to admit, without Civil Service examinations, the twenty police women who served during the war, and ten others. Resolutions were adopted favoring Senator Boylan's bill to abolish capital punishment, and the bill to exempt dogs, because of their war service, from animal experimentation.

Senate Bill 20, granting to public school teachers an immediate increase of pay, was indorsed. The proposed Roosevelt two-cent piece, to be impressed with the head of Roosevelt and the dates of his birth and death, was approved.

Mrs. John Joseph MacDonald, Chairman of Publicity of the League, gave the women a lesson in planting and harvesting to illustrate the impossibility of farming without use of the normal daylight hours. The League indorsed the action of farmers in favor of a normal day. Imposition of a penalty for the physical examination of women by men physicians against their will, which it was said was done in a number of large business houses, was urged.

WANT AUTO TARIFF CUT.

Manufacturers Will Ask Reduction of Rates on Imported Cars.

The 123 motor manufacturing companies, comprising the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, will send a memorial to the Tariff Commission at Washington urging a reduction of the tariff on imported cars costing $3,000 or over from 45 per cent. to 30 per cent., the present tariff rate on imported foreign cars valued at less than $2,000. The action was decided upon at a meeting yesterday at the offices of the National Chamber, 7 East Forty-second Street.

It was pointed out that foreign car importation should be encouraged as one means of easing the present low rate of exchange. It was also recognized that with the present high tariff several European countries are likely to retaliate by increasing their tariff rates on American cars, and such discrimination would considerably reduce exports from this country.

The members also expressed satisfaction that an increased appropriation will be granted to the Department of Commerce for an extension of its investigation of commercial conditions in foreign fields. Horace E. Dodge was elected to the Board of Directors to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of his brother, John F. Dodge.

BRITAIN'S FINANCES SOUND.

Rotary Club Is Told Revenues Exceed Administrative Expenditures.

P. W. Wilson, American correspondent of The London Daily News, who spoke yesterday at the Rotary Club luncheon at the McAlpin, said the real difficulty in London today was that the city was flooded with European labor. He said that Great Britain was now on a sound economic footing and that he believed the acceptance of commerce as a "common service in the world" was growing.

"For the first time," he said, "I am glad to inform you that the public revenues of the United Kingdom are now more than enough to pay for the administration of the Government.

"All the revenues from the various Government offices, which during the war showed a deficit and compelled drafts on sinking funds, are now in excess of the expenditures. I am now able to inform you that England is coming back financially. Some of the floating debts have been paid, and, although there is a slight nervousness abroad over the payment of the Anglo-French loan, still there is no doubt in my mind that all obligations will be met."

TEACHERS' REFUND HELD UP

Inability to Get Detailed Report Delays Appropriation.

A large number of school teachers to whom sick refunds are due, including some who are in urgent need of money, are affected by the inability of Acting Mayor LaGuardia to get an appropriation with which to pay the liabilities of the Department of Education for 1918 and 1919. In a statement issued yesterday, Mr. LaGuardia explained that he had found it impossible to get the necessary appropriations because he could not obtain from the Department of Education a complete statement of the amount of its liabilities together with an itemized list.

Many Cities Show Population Gain.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The third announcement of population statistics of the fourteenth census, issued today, includes: Peoria, Ill., 76,121, increase 9,171, or 13.7 per cent. over 1910; Bloomington, Ill., 28,638, increase 2,870, or 11.1 per cent.; Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 45,566, increase 12,755, or 38.9 per cent.; Beaumont, Texas, 35,351, increase 14,711, or 71.3 per cent., and Bellevue, Ky., 7,379, increase 696, or 10.4 per cent.

NINE TEAMS TO AID CHARITY CAMPAIGN

$975,000 Drive for Improving Condition of the Poor Will Begin Today.

PROMINENT WOMEN HELP

With War Over, Appeal Is Made in Behalf of the Needy in New York.

A campaign to raise $975,000 to be expended by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor will be started today when nine teams begin a city-wide canvass. Appointment of the teams was made yesterday following a meeting of the Executive Campaign Committee at 105 East Twenty-second Street, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., President of the charity association, presiding.

"The New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor," said Mr. Bliss, "is asking the people of New York to contribute $975,000 for its work this year. During the war we kept well in the background, for we felt that ours was not the prior claim. Meanwhile the people of the city poured out millions to alleviate suffering in many parts of the world. There is much still to be done abroad, and we do not want to deter any one from continuing to give to the work there, but now that the war is over it seems only right that we should make a special effort to give relief to the poor of New York—to those who, because of death or incapacity of the wage earner, are in serious want through no fault of their own.

"It means just as much to be hungry in New York as in Belgium, and it hurts as much to be cold here as anywhere else in the world. The slogan of the campaign will be '$975,000 for the poor at your door.'"

The teams going out this morning are:

Team 1.—R. Fulton Cutting, captain; Percy R. Pyne, Cleveland H. Dodge, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Schuyler N. Warren, George B. Post, John A. Kingsbury and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding.

Team 2.—Mrs. Willard D. Straight and Miss Ruth Morgan, captains; Mrs. Vincent Astor, Payne Whitney, Mrs. Henry R. Fletcher, Mrs. Edward Wolcott, Mrs. John T. Pratt, Mrs. Henry Gray and Mrs. Grenville Emmett.

Team 3.—John Henry Hammond and James Sheldon, captains; Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., Miss Ruth V. Twombly, Eugene Delano, Langdon P. Marvin, Carll Tucker, O. H. Hand, Jr. and Frederick Strauss.

Team 4.—Dwight W. Morrow, captain; Thomas Cochran, James G. Blaine, Jr., George Murnane, William B. Thompson and Gerald Curran.

Team 5.—C. C. Burlingham and Albert G. Milbank, captains; John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Jerome D. Greene, J. J. Higginson, Miss Martha L. Draper, Mrs. Charles A. Platt and H. P. Robbins.

Team 6.—Samuel S. Kayser and George Blagden, captains; Miss Zelina T. Clark, Mrs. Beverley E. Robinson, Lambert Suydam, Chauncey Garver, Ernesto G. Fabbri, DeWitt C. Seligman, Miss Beatrice G. Pratt, Frederick H. Baldwin and Mrs. James B. Taylor.

Team 7.—Mrs. C. N. Bliss, Jr., captain; Miss Lizzie P. Ellis, Mrs. John H. Prentice, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Bourke Cockran, Miss Mary Hoyt Viborg, Mrs. Julian A. Ripley, Mrs. Richard L. Davisson, Mrs. John B. Marsh, Mrs. Henry Cobb, Mrs. William Woodward and Mrs. Francis C. Bishop.

Team 8.—Mrs. James F. Curtis, captain; Charles H. Sabin, Mrs. Nicholas Biddle, Mrs. Langdon P. Marvin, Mrs. Herbert Pratt, Mrs. Anson McC. Beard, John Pratt, Mrs. Harry Miller and Palen Snow.

Team 9.—Acosta Nichols and Dr. Philip Van Ingen, captains; Dr. and Mrs. James Alexander Miller, Mrs. Acosta Nichols, Dr. Herbert B. Wilcox, Mrs. A. V. S. Lambert and Henry G. Barbey.

In addition to Mr. Bliss, the executives of the drive are George Murnane, Thomas Cochran, Dwight W. Morrow, James G. Blaine, Jr.; Albert G. Milbank and Gerald Curran. Campaign headquarters will be at 105 East Twenty-second Street.

WILSON PRAISES STRAUSS.

Tribute in Letter to Retiring Head of Federal Reserve Board.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—High tribute to the services to the Government rendered by Albert Strauss, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, was paid by President Wilson in his letter, made public today, accepting the resignation of Mr. Strauss as a member of the board, effective March 15.

"For nearly three years," Mr. Wilson wrote, "you have served the Government with singular distinction."

After reviewing Mr. Stauss' work as adviser on foreign credits to the Treasury and the War Trade Board, and his service on the Reserve Board, the letter continued:

"You rendered equally fine service to the nation for several months in Paris as one of the financial advisers to the Peace Conference. Your withdrawal will be a distinct loss to the public service."

In his letter of resignation, Mr. Strauss expressed his appreciation "of the opportunities afforded me under your effective leadership, of assisting, however slightly, in the business of the war."

BIG ORDERS FOR POTASH.

German Syndicate Reports American Contracts Amounting to $50,000,000

BERLIN, March 3.—American orders amounting to $50,000,000 have been booked by the Potash Syndicate, says the Vossische Zeitung, which declares that deliveries will be extended over a number of years.

Production by plants controlled by the syndicate is improving as a result of increased coal deliveries and betterment in transportation, and home demands for agricultural purposes have been arranged for. The syndicate, therefore, hopes to be able to devote the greater part of its output to the American export trade. As payment for potash shipped to America will be made in dollars it is believed by the Government that the syndicate's deal will assist materially in the meeting of German obligations abroad.

UNIFYING CATHOLIC WOMEN.

Bishop Schrembs Tells Convention of National Council Project.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Nine thousand organizations of Catholic women, each with more than a hundred members, would be merged into one association to be known as the National Catholic Women's Council under plans outlined by Bishop Joseph Schrembs of Toledo, at the opening session here today of a conference of women members of the Catholic Church. The council, Bishop Schrembs said, would have the support of the Catholic hierarchy.

"Our aims are to co-ordinate the thousands of women's societies in the church and to establish a central directing agency," Bishop Schrembs said. "Another purpose is to solidify and unify the work of Catholic women in their clubs throughout the country."

The sessions will continue through the week and will be addressed by the Rev. John J. Burke, Executive Secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Council, and the Rev. John M. Cooper of the Women's Activities Committee.

AVERSE TO SELLING ISLANDS

British Show Little Interest in Plan to Turn West Indies Over to Us.

LONDON, March 4.—The proposition to sell the British West Indies to the United States to help balance Great Britain's war debt has evoked little comment. The proposal is not supported in any responsible quarter, and unless the attitude of Premier Lloyd George has changed recently is certain to be unfavorably received by the Government.

Viscount Rothermere, brother of Lord Northcliffe, a few weeks ago made such a suggestion in a newspaper article. It is reported that Premier Lloyd George denounced the proposition in vehement terms to his intimates.

PAY TEACHERS MORE, CHAMBER DEMANDS

Immediate Increase of 30 Per Cent. Urged by State Mercantile Body.

SITUATION A GRAVE MENACE

Proposed Decreases in Appropriation for Foreign Commerce Condemned —Canal Completion Favored.

The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York yesterday went on record as favoring an increase of at least 30 per cent. in the pay of the entire teaching staff in this city. It was agreed that there should be a special meeting of the Chamber on March 12 to consider a Federal budget, inflation and taxation. Decreases in appropriations for foreign commerce, proposed in a recent bill at Washington, were condemned, and the passage of a bill increasing salaries of employes of the Customs Department was urged.

The Chamber also adopted a resolution for the completion of the State Barge Canal and recommended a referendum authorizing a bond issue for additional sums to carry through this work. Mark Sheldon addressed the Chamber on "After War Aims of Australia." A memorial of Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary was presented.

The resolution adopted by the Chamber regarding an increase in pay for teachers read:

"Resolved, That the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York urges upon the authorities of the city and State immediate action to meet this critical condition in the school system by an emergency increase of at least 30 per cent. in the salaries of the entire teaching staff, to continue until there is a substantial reduction in the present cost of living."

It was also resolved that the Committee on Commercial Education of the Chamber, which presented the report and resolutions, be authorized to appear on its behalf in the furtherance of the views expressed. The committee's report reads in part:

"There are today about 150 vacancies in the high schools and over 400 vacancies in the elementary schools, and it is estimated that there will be at least 1,000 vacancies in the elementary schools next September. The waiting list has disappeared, no candidates are available for appointment and not even substitutes can be secured for these vacancies. Of 2,521 teachers appointed since Jan. 1, 1919, 558 have declined. There were 1,890 applicants for license in 1915 and only 1,177 in 1919, 321 resignations in 1915 and 1,021 in 1919, 2,039 pupils in the training schools for teachers in 1915 and only 1,055 in 1920. The largest number of resignations is of teachers at the peak of their activity and usefulness, from 26 to 35 years of age and four to eight years' experience.

"Fifteen thousand to 20,000 pupils are dismissed daily for lack of teachers, while in many other cases two classes are combined under one teacher, overtaxing the teacher and depriving the pupils of adequate attention. Many teachers find it necessary to supplement their meagre salaries by other work outside of school hours. In the leading high schools from 30 to 80 per cent. of the teachers work from 5 to 30 hours per week in other occupations, often with injurious effects upon their health and efficiency. Other teachers, unable to do outside work, are exhausting their savings and going in debt and are frequently so harassed by the struggle that they are quite unfit to teach. The morale of the entire teaching staff is rapidly breaking down under the strain and discouragement of insufficient salaries and overwork.

"No efficient business organization would tolerate such conditions. Aside from the moral obligation to pay our teachers a fair living wage, it is bad business and a manifest waste of public funds to allow the school system to deteriorate. The public schools are the bulwark of intelligent and patriotic citizenship, and the present situation constitutes a grave menace to the city and to the nation.

"The obvious remedy for this alarming situation is the payment of adequate salaries to attract and hold desirable teachers."

Mark Sheldon told of Australia's recovery from war, and of the favorable conditions obtaining there. He said that Australia's excess of exports over imports in the current year totals $500,000,000. He said that for each pound sterling note now in circulation on the island and elsewhere there is a reserve of a pound sterling in gold.

FLORENCE FISCHL WEDS.

Married to Alfred S. Levy by the Rev. Dr. Krass at the St. Regis.

The marriage of Alfred S. Levy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Levy of this city, and Miss Florence A. Fischl, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fischl of 790 Riverside Drive, took place last evening at the St. Regis. The Rev. Dr. Krass performed the ceremony in the Louis XVI. suite in a bower of Spring flowers and foliage.

The bride, in white chiffon and satin, was attended only by her sister, Miss Gertrude H. Fischl, in yellow net over silver. Leon T. Levy was his brother's best man. A reception, seated dinner and dancing followed the ceremony. After a honeymoon South Mr. and Mrs. Levy will live in New York.

Miss Higgins to Wed D. F. Ladd.

Ex-Judge Frank J. Higgins and Mrs. Higgins of Glenwood Avenue, Jersey City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Naomi Milletot Higgins to Durant Ferson Ladd, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George U. Ladd of Worcester Mass. Mr. Ladd was a machine gun officer in the 26th Division and served in France until ordered home owing to wounds received in action. He only recently returned from the African Coast where he investigated trade and shipping conditions for the Government.

Halzel-Flint.

The wedding of Miss M. Dorothy Flint, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Flint, to Richard Strong Halzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Halzel of this city, took place at 8:30 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. S. Seligman of 876 Park Avenue. The Rev. Dr. Charles P. Tinker officiated.

Miss Charlotte D. Linden was the maid of honor.

Second Son in H. L. Finch's Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Finch of 51 East Fifty-eighth Street are being congratulated upon the birth of a son, their second, which has been named Charles Baker Finch. The child is a grandson to Stephen Baker, President of the Bank of the Manhattan Company.

GEO. D. SMITH DIES IN HIS BOOK STORE

Noted Dealer Who Paid Millions for Rare Editions Stricken with Heart Disease.

BOUGHT GUTENBERG BIBLE

Outbid London Rivals for Devonshire Library, Sold to W. E. Huntington for $1,500,000.

George D. Smith, the dealer in rare books who in the last ten years had usually outbid all competitors in the great auctions in London and New York, died suddenly from heart disease at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon while sitting at his desk in his bookstore at 8 East Forty-fifth Street. W. Lanier Washington, an authority on old editions, who recently sold a collection to him, was talking to Mr. Smith when the latter gasped and fell to the floor. He was dead before a doctor arrived. He was 50 years old.

In recent years the phrases "George D. Smith pays record price" and "George D. Smith buys the collection"—have been common in newspaper headlines. It soon became evident to rival bidders that when Mr. Smith went to an auction to purchase a book considerations of price did not weigh heavily with him. In most cases he was acting, directly or indirectly, for some of the richest men in America, and it was apparently his conception of his mission that he should bring home to them what they desired. There is no record of any of his principals ever objecting to the size of the figures he paid, and where he bought for himself at a large sum he would soon after resell at a profit.

The first great sale with which his name was connected was that of the collection of Robert Hoe, in 1911-1912. It was then that he purchased for Henry E. Huntington the famous Gutenberg Bible for $50,000, the largest amount ever given up to that time for a single book at auction.

$1,300,000 for E. D. Church Library.

Although less prominence was given to the matter, it was also in 1911 that Mr. Smith bought the library of E. Dwight Church for a sum reputed to have been $1,300,000. And the following October there fell to him for $500,000 the library of Beverly Chew, rich in rare copies of early English authors. The last was resold en bloc to Mr. Huntington.

It was in July, 1914, that Mr. Smith made his disclosure that a ring of book buyers was engaged in keeping prices down in the London market. He said that the members of this coterie invited him to join them, but that he refused.

"The only independent buyer in London is Quaritch, who buys on commission for the British Museum. My high prices caused the rest of the dealers to lose heart."

A half million represented his purchases of the three weeks in which he discouraged this "book ring" in the contests for the gems of the Earl of Pembroke's collection. But he had really scored a greater victory over his rivals in the previous March when he brought away from England one of the most magnificent private libraries ever gathered together, that belonging to the Duke of Devonshire. Something more than $1,000,000 he paid for this and later Mr. Huntington bought it from him for $1,500,000.

Referring to the famous gem of this collection Mr. Smith said:

"I consider the 'Hamlet' quarto of 1603 the most valuable book in the world, not even excepting the Guttenberg Bible. Why, $1,000,000 is no more than a fair value to put on the 'Hamlet.' Just consider—there is only one other copy in existence, and that is in the British Museum, where no amount of money can buy it. Besides, the British Museum's copy lacks the title page, and the copy acquired by Mr. Huntington lacks only the last leaf."

Paid $75,000 for "Venus and Adonis."

Again in 1917 this unlimited dealer in precious volumes passed the favorite American mark of $1,000,000 in a single purchase. This time it was the unique assemblage of early printed books and manuscripts, gathered by generations of Ellesmeres since 1617, and known as the Bridgewater Library, the property of Lord Ellesmere. Mr. Smith stated on this occasion that he had paid more than a million dollars for the collection and that Mr. Huntington would take over most of it. In the Bridgewater Library was the celebrated Ellesmere Chaucer, a manuscript volume written in 1405, from which the printed versions were made. This item alone was valued at $50,000.

But of all his exchanges of huge sums for books probably none caused a greater sensation than his payment last December of $75,000 for a tiny volume, two inches by three inches in size and weighing about two ounces. This literary speck was the fourth quarto edition of Shakespeare's "Venus and Adonis" bound with "The Passionate Pilgrim." The sum paid for it was the record for Sotheby's rooms in London. As was expected, the ultimate destination of the little book was Mr. Huntington's house at 2 East Fifty-seventh Street.

Began His Career as a Clerk.

Mr. Smith began his career in the book world as a clerk in a New York book store. After learning the business there he branched out for himself, establishing a place in Forty-second Street. From there he moved down to the financial district, and his trade thrived among the wealthy frequenters of Wall Street. From the time that Henry E. Huntington enlisted his services his success was assured.

He was married, and for several years raced a stable of high-class horses on the Eastern tracks.

PRESENTS SELIGMAN NOTES.

Felix M. Warburg Asks Court to Pass Upon $600,000 Claims.

Two claims aggregating $600,000 against the estate of Isaac N. Seligman, banker, were filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday in behalf of James Loeb, now living in Europe, by Felix M. Warburg, banker.

The claims are on promissory notes, one for $150,000, made July 16, 1915, payable in three years, and the other for $450,000, made Dec. 15, 1916, payable on demand. Mr. Warburg said that payment of both notes had been demanded and refused. The claims must be passed upon by the court before the Seligman estate can be settled.

Mr. Warburg said in his petition that on Aug. 6, 1918, Alien Property Custodian Palmer filed proof of claim against the estate on the notes, but Mr. Warburg said that the Government had now released the claim to him as attorney in fact for Mr. Loeb.

Copies of the notes filed with the petition do not show the consideration but state that they were signed by Joseph L. Seligman as attorney for Isaac N. Seligman.

George W. Seligman, attorney for the Isaac N. Seligman estate, said last night that the claims were two of a number pending against the estate, and that they would be paid. Mr. Loeb, to whom the notes were drawn, is an American but was ill in Germany during the war and for that reason the Alien Property Custodian took the notes.

Bankhead, who died Monday in Washington. Interment was postponed until tomorrow because of a heavy rainstorm.

Minister Dies in Church Conference.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., March 4.—The Rev. M. I. Jamison, Presiding Elder of the Centre District of the United Evangelical Church, died today while seated at his desk preparing his report for submission to the church conference here. The one page he had written was read to the conference by another minister.

WILSON IMPATIENT; WANTS TO PLAY GOLF

Dr. Grayson Says He Must Wait —Not Expected to Leave Washington Soon.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Wilson is becoming impatient at the restrictions placed on his recreation and, following his automobile ride yesterday, has discussed with Rear Admiral Grayson, his physician, the possibility of playing golf in the near future. Dr. Grayson said today that it probably would be several weeks before the President would be permitted to make a round of his favorite golf course in nearby Virginia.

It was learned at the White House today that there is no present plan for the President to leave Washington. His physicians are understood to believe that he would be more benefited by remaining at home than he would be by a sea voyage or a trip to some rest resort, as he can best follow out here his desire to keep in intimate touch with official business.

MYSTERY MAN GUILTY.

Identity of Prisoner Who Posed as an Officer Still Unknown.

The identity of a man found guilty yesterday in Special Sessions on a charge of personating a detective sergeant is unknown to agents of the Department of Justice and the local police, according to the testimony of Detective Frederick Russell, who arrested the man in a restaurant at 1,921 Second Avenue several weeks ago.

When arrested he gave the name of William Johnson, but after his conviction yesterday he said he was William Frederick Ericcson. Detective Russell testified that when he arrested the man he found in his pockets a detective sergeant's shield, a fake badge of the United States Secret Service, a pass to the United States Senate Chamber, dated February, 1918, and a membership card in the I. W. W. made out to William Weber.

The prisoner gave his address as 124 East 105th Street, but inquiry for Johnson revealed that he was known there as William Busch. In his room the detective said he found a German war cross and a ring, such as the Kaiser bestowed on his officers for merit.

Testifying for himself, the prisoner said he got the shield and the Secret Service badge from a Buffalo detective agency, where he had been employed. He said he bought the war cross and the ring, and found the I. W. W. card.

Justice Kernochan, who presided, remanded the man to the Tombs until March 18 for sentence, and ordered an investigation of his activities by the police.

HANSEN HELD IN $2,500 BAIL

Arraignment a Surprise to Counsel for Complainant.

The arrest on Wednesday night of John S. Hansen, bondsman for Consular Agent Jenkins, and his arraignment yesterday came as a complete surprise to Samuel R. Schneider of 33 West Forty-second Street, counsel for Mrs. Paul C. Wooster of 306 West Eighty-ninth Street, the morals of whose daughter, Metta, the defendant is alleged to have assailed.

Hansen, who was arrested by Detective Marron in front of the Hotel Plaza, was held in $2,500 bail by Judge James T. Malone in General Sessions yesterday morning. He was charged with misbehavior at a moving picture theatre in December, 1918. He returned from Mexico about two weeks ago, where he is said to have gone on business.

The girl is a "nervous wreck," said Schneider, and it is not believed, he said, that she will ever regain her former health. A $25,000 civil action is pending in the Supreme Court against him. At the Hotel Plaza last night it was said that Hansen has not registered there, although he gave that as his address. He said he was a shipbuilder.

TELL MID-EUROPE'S HOPES.

Diplomats Take Luncheon with the Merchants Association.

Diplomatic representatives of most of the middle-European nations were guests of the Merchants Association at a luncheon yesterday at the Bankers Club. The affair was arranged to acquaint members and guests with commercial, industrial and financial condition here and abroad. All the foreign speakers told the resources of their countries and the expectations they had of marketing their products in the United States. They took an encouraging view of the future and believed their internal problems could be adjusted in the course of time.

Abram Der Hagopian of the Armenian General Union digressed to read a cable dispatch received yesterday saying that massacres were being renewed on a large scale. He said that while at the Peace Conference in Paris European diplomats told him they could not assume the burden of aiding Armenia. The United States alone could help, he quoted them as saying.

James Gilbert White, who presided, said the people here were in sympathy with the political struggles of Armenia.

Archbishop Hayes Names Secretary.

The Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Donahue has been appointed under secretary to Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes. The senior secretary is the Rev. Joseph P. Dineen, who has held this office from the time Archbishop Hayes was appointed Bishop of New York. Dr. Donahue is one of the Archbishop's "boys," having been a student in Cathedral College when Archbishop Hayes, then Mgr. Hayes, was its president. Dr. Donahue was graduated from Cathedral College in 1912, studied two years at Dunwoodie, then in Rome, having won one of the scholarships of the Archdiocese of New York. Of late Dr. Donahue was attached to the Church of St. Gregory, 144 West Ninetieth Street, and lived at its rectory.

Estate Has $120,000 Liberty Bonds.

An appraisal sent to the Surrogate's office yesterday shows the total assets of the estate of George Hotchkiss, who died in August of last year, to be $2,036,334, and a net estate of $1,928,605. These figures cover real estate, $11,000; cash, $16,316; personal, $721,017, nearly all loans on real estate; stocks and bonds, $1,284,700. Of ninety-two holdings, the larger are shares in Swift & Co., $98,350, and Liberty Bonds aggregating $120,000. The principal of fifteen beneficiaries is his daughter, Esther S. Hotchkiss of 13 West Eighty-seventh Street, a bequest of $1,398 and a life estate in $1,843,006. To — Hotchkiss of Seymour, Conn., Gertrude H. Heyn of Norwalk, Conn., and Alcine H. Rippere of Ansonia, a cash legacy of $20,000 each is left. Other relatives, friends and employes receive from $200 to $5,000 each.

Thomas, the Misses Ruth Draper, Helen Trevor, Yvonne Gourd, Helen Sloan, Louise Caldwell and Ruth Morgan.

LOUIS J. DUVEEN DIES IN LONDON

England Representative of Art Firm Expires After an Operation—Expert on Italian Art.

LONDON, March 4.—Louis J. Duveen, the London representative of the art firm of Duveen Brothers, died here today. Death followed an operation.

Sir Joseph Duveen said last night at the Hotel Plaza:

"The death of my younger brother came entirely unexpectedly. Two days ago I had a cable from him saying he was going to have a slight operation. There was no indication of danger whatever.

"He was the expert among the members of our firm on Italian painting and sculpture. He was in charge of the London house, on Grafton Street, and bought for us most of the large English collections secured by the house in recent years.

"He was a nephew of the late Sir Joseph Duveen. He was 45 years old. His wife was Miss Beatrice Slowman of London. They have four children and live in Barclay Square.

"Although he was a member of the firm that controls our business in New York, he had had little active connection with our affairs on this side."

CARROLL M. BUNTING DEAD.

Controller of Pennsylvania Was Transportation Manager in France.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—Carroll M. Bunting, Controller of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died today at a hospital in Bryn Mawr, Pa. He had been ill for several months. Mr. Bunting served in France as business manager of the transportation corps, American Expeditionary Forces, with the title of Colonel. He was 49 years old.

He commenced his railroad career in 1887 as bill-of-lading clerk and stenographer to the freight agent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad at Philadelphia, and in 1890 entered the service of the Pennsylvania road as secretary to the third Vice President. From that position he gradually rose to Controller in 1910. Mr. Bunting was unmarried and for a number of years had lived at the Merion Cricket Club.

William J. Easton.

William J. Easton, who retired on Jan. 1 of last year as Secretary of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, is dead after a short illness at his home, 124 West Eighty-sixth Street. Mr. Easton was 71 years old and had spent fifty-four years in the employ of the Mutual Life.

Ex-Congressman R. P. Bishop.

LUDINGTON, Mich., March 4.—Word was received here today of the death at Pacific Grove, Cal., of Roswell P. Bishop, who represented the Ninth Michigan District in Congress six terms. He was born in Sydney, N. Y., in 1843 and served in the civil war.

HELPED HIM WED ANOTHER.

Wife No. 1 Gave Bigamist Money for Second Marriage Togs.

"This is too much for me," declared Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday when Mrs. Sadie Graubard of 2,154 Second Avenue, who had caused the indictment of her husband, Albert, 28 years old, on a charge of bigamy, admitted she was present when her husband discussed arrangements for his marriage to his second wife, Mollie Blaufstein Graubard, 18 years old, of 106 Norfolk Street, in December last.

Graubard, who is a conductor, pleaded guilty to the bigamy charge when arraigned before Judge Rosalsky yesterday. The court expressed surprise that he could desert his wife and two children and blight the life of his second wife.

"Why, your Honor," spoke up Graubard, "my first wife knew I was going to be married to this girl. She knew my second wife's parents are wealthy, and my first wife gave me the money to hire an evening suit in which to be married."

The second Mrs. Graubard, who was standing near the bigamist, broke in at this point and said: "Judge, his first wife came in my house with him on the night we arranged for our marriage. She even advised us how to begin housekeeping, and when my husband said she was his sister, she said that was true."

Judge Rosalsky called the first Mrs. Graubard before him and inquired if the stories of Graubard and his second wife were true.

"They're telling the truth, Judge," the woman replied. "But he told me to tell her I was his sister and to help them arrange for their wedding."

Judge Rosalsky leaned back in his swivel chair for a few minutes, steadily staring at the first Mrs. Graubard. Then he declared that the situation was too much for him to solve, and instructed a probation officer to investigate the stories told by all three, and report to him on March 11, when Graubard will be arraigned for sentence.

Equity

By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

No contract is good or valid unless it is based upon equity.

In all transactions both sides must profit.

You receive that which you give away. The love you give is the love you get, and the tears you dry are the hope you give.

Advertising alone does not create friends; you must prove the veracity of your claims to hold your friend. Truth only prevails; falsehood leads to disaster.

The result of Mr. Frank E. Campbell's success lies in the fact that he gives more than he takes.

The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, is the home of the dead of all classes and of all creeds, because it never asks more than its honest share, and invariably gives more than is expected.

Equity is one of the fundamental principles upon which Mr. Campbell founded The Funeral Church.

The populace is not slow to recognize merit. It gives what it receives.

Whenever you see a successful institution, you may depend upon it that it believes in Equity; for nothing is lasting unless it is based upon Equity. ©1920

MUST BUILD UP GIANTS FROM MATERIAL NOW IN SQUAD, DECLARES JOHN J. McGRAW

M'GRAW ABANDONS HOPE OF A TRADE

Giants' Leader Will Build Up Infield from Material Now on Hand in San Antonio.

CHANCE FOR YOUNGSTERS

Recruits Have Best Opportunity in Years to Get in Lineup—Kelly Sure of First-Base Berth.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4.—John J. McGraw, Vice President and manager of the Giants, has at last joined his baseball players, realizing that he has one of the greatest tasks of his career on his hands. McGraw got in late last night from Cuba, accompanied by the veteran second baseman Larry Doyle.

With his infield all shot to bits Manager McGraw appreciates the fact that the Giants' pennant chances of 1920, may have to be constructed from the group of youngsters who are now playing their fanciest every day at the ball park.

McGraw confessed today that it was hopeless trying to make a trade or buy a player. "All the clubs were prosperous last year and were satisfied with their clubs as they were, so they are backward about making any changes, unless absolutely necessary. It looks very much as if we would have to develop some of these young men for the infield positions which have been left vacant.

"We have tried to make a number of trades and purchases, but all of them have fallen through. The suggestion for the trade of Rousch for Ross Young came from the treasurer of the Cincinnati Club, Louis Widrig. The club's official was in Havana and he made the offer to me. I offered to trade Kauff for Rousch, but refused to consider a trade for a player like Young, who is just starting on his career, for Rousch, who has reached the height of his baseball life. I told him that I would give Young for Rousch and Kopf, but have heard nothing more.

The Hornsby Offer.

"I made an offer of $70,000 and several players to St. Louis for Hornsby, and just when I believed that the deal was as good as made, President Rickey suddenly changed his mind and called it off. The St. Louis Club itself some time ago offered us Milton Stock. We made a counter-offer but haven't heard anything more from them. I also made what I considered a very liberal offer to Boston for Maranville, but they turned the offer down."

In answer to a question about Chase and Zimmerman Manager McGraw said that he had absolutely nothing to say. He stated positively that George Kelly would play first base this season.

"I have no idea at this time what our exact lineup will be. Of course, I have only seen these young players today, and it will be impossible to tell just what their true worth is for several weeks. It is fortunate that we have a long tour of exhibition games booked before the opening of the season because it will give us a good chance to try out all of these young players."

The Giants' leader said that he was glad that the major leagues had prohibited the use of freak deliveries. He said that this important action was long overdue and the game would be better for it. He stated that Douglas was the only one of his pitchers who used the spitball.

McGraw was surprised on arriving to find that Fred Toney was not on hand. Toney is not a hold-out, because he signed his contract at the end of last season. McGraw is at a loss to know what has become of the big Tennessee flinger. Phil Douglas has not shown up, and McGraw said that he would not be surprised if shuffling Phil was a hold-out. He has been placed in good standing and a contract was sent to him some time ago.

There is an unusual situation here, because it is not known just how many players have been signed for next season. Manager McGraw will make no announcement until he has interviewed the players during the next few days. It is known, however, that several players have signed contracts this year about which no announcement has been made.

A Fatherly Talk.

McGraw went out to the ball park this morning and gave a fatherly talk to the recruits. He impressed upon them what a splendid opportunity for a major league career was in front of them. The chances for promising infielders and pitchers are brighter than they have been with the New York Club for several years.

The youngsters and veterans then went through the usual morning practice. Mathewson took all the young pitchers in hand and gave them words of advice on the conservation of their energy. In the squad of young flingers under Matty were Stryker, Virgle Barnes, Bill Ryan, Snover, Garton, McQuade, Burfiend, Hubbell, Johnson, Ross and Winters. Manager McGraw was favorably impressed with the progress made during the past few days. It was the new infielders who caught McGraw's eye during the afternoon practice.

The positions were constantly changed, so that all the youngsters got a chance. At third there were Frisch, Bates, Armstrong; at short were Sicking, White and Bates, and at second base Cooney, Staatz and McGuire. Kelly and Horle covered first. Frank Snyder and Lew McCarty were aided in the catching department today by Earl Smith, who reported last night. Gonzales is now on his way from Cuba and will be here in a day or two.

JOHNSTONS WIN AGAIN.

Defeat Koneys in Robins' Third Workout at Jacksonville.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 4.—Jimmy Johnston's nine is the class at Barris Field where the Robins are going through their Spring training stunts. Manager Robinson this afternoon ordered the Johnstons and the Koneys to play the third game of their series, and it resulted in the third consecutive victory for the Johnstons. The score was 10 to 2, and Johnston's men clouted the offerings of Mohart, Conlon, and Vines to all sections of the lot. During the nine frames they collected a total of eighteen safe drives. Each of the Rookie pitchers hurled three frames. Mamaux, Mitchell, and Schrieber pitched three frames for the Johnstons and were nicked for only nine safe taps.

Ivan Olson, who during the first few days in camp, went through only one workout a day, got in the contest, and covered second base for the Koneys. Ernie Krueger was at the first corner, as Konetchy, before the start of the battle, complained of a sore throat, and Manager Robbie let him have the afternoon off.

One of the features of the contest was the playing of Bernie Neis, a young outfielder, who reported to Manager Robbie today. Neis, who carries himself like Josh Devore, covered right field for the Johnstons and made several classy catches. He was also a demon with the stick, getting a single, a double, and a three-bagger in five times at bat.

Pitchers Pfeffer and Smith, who are holding out, have not donned their uniforms yet, and watched the game from the grand stand. Pfeffer is slated to be traded to the Cards for an outfielder and a pitcher.

Veteran Oarsmen Working For Places in Syracuse Crews

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 4.—One hundred and fifty candidates are reporting daily for places on the Syracuse University 'Varsity and freshman crews. About half this number are freshmen who give promise of developing a fast eight this year under the instruction of the veteran mentor, Jim Ten Eyck. Among the 'Varsity candidates are at least forty men who have had previous experience on Syracuse University crews, either as freshmen, junior or regular 'Varsity blade wielders. Every member of the yearling shell in 1918, which swept the Severn River, in the race for the freshman championship, is back in college. With few exceptions, all of last year's 'Varsity boat have returned and, in addition, the squad has been increased by the presence of a number of men who were prominent in rowing at Syracuse before the war.

MOGRIDGE'S HOOKS EVADE BABE RUTH

Southpaw Dallies with Fence Buster While Latter Bewails Missing Bats.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 4.—The stiffness and slackened ardor that arrive about this time in Spring baseball practice visited the Yankee squad today, but, although the condition named caused something of an abatement in zest for work, the practice became a trifle more elaborate. Huggins did not keep his men out long in the forenoon or afternoon, but had every man run around the bases. This was in the morning. Following his crack at the ball, which was preceded by a bunt, each man dashed to first, tried to dash to second and gave a lukewarm imitation of a dash the rest of the way.

The players had muggy and cloudy weather, pretty good for training. Men who have been with the team at least a year were chiefly in evidence. So far Huggins's 1920 recruits have been rather in the background. It is difficult to see where any room can be found for one. There's an ample supply of pitchers from the regulars, if they are all in form.

Of the recruits, the most active in the practice here has been Dan Murphy, the catcher. He is doing most of the receiving in the batting practice and performing capably in an all-around way. Muddy Ruel tried his arm out at throwing this afternoon, but made no effort to throw hard. He hasn't had on a mask or pad yet.

Young pitchers, who are getting a good deal of attention from Huggins while the more seasoned ones are allowed to use their own judgment in getting into trim, are McGraw and Smallwood. Huggins put McGraw through a course of sprouts in control this morning. His morning pitchers for batting practice were Biemiller, Devitalis and Smallwood. In the afternoon he went into his stock of regulars and exercised Quinn, Mogridge, Thormahlen and Shore.

Quinn, Mogride and Thormahlen each threw a number of curves. Mogride tantalized Ruth with a varied assortment of hooks, and the Babe's vain efforts to kill one were more entertaining for Mogridge than for the Babe. The big fellow, to use his own words, "hasn't landed on a ball good" this week. He hit many bad ones today, and the only thing he has busted thus far is a bat.

As it wasn't his bat, Ruth wasn't greatly distressed, but he bewails the absence of his own bats. He has been looking daily for a consignment from Boston and won't happy till he gets them. He'd be happier, too, but for heartburn. "Chew too much tobacco or smoking too much, I guess," is his diagnosis.

STRAUSS AND ELLIOTT WIN.

Advance to Third Round in Harvard Club's Squash Tournament.

Two of the Class B squash tennis players of the Harvard Club, M. J. Strauss and J. Elliott, yesterday reached the third round of the club's Winter handicap tournament. The former, allowing H. Talcott a handicap of four points per game, defeated him after three hard games; score 15—10, 6—15, 15—11, while Elliott, playing C. E. Ames on even terms, disposed of his rival in straight games at 15—12, 15—11.

The summary follows:

Class B, First Round—P. K. Rhinelander (plus 6) defeated D. Andrews (plus 10), 15—12, 15—11; A. C. Smith (plus 6) defeated J. M. Mitchell (scratch), 17—15, 15—10; E. P. Pierce (plus 6) defeated M. Strauss (plus 6), 15—11, 15—10; J. A. Richards (minus 5) defeated A. C. Smith (plus 6), 15—11, 18—13; E. H. Hemenway (scratch) defeated W. A. Baldwin (plus 10 and one hand), 15—11, 15—10; A. S. Locke (plus 6) defeated W. Eliot (plus 10), 18—14, 10—15, 15—10; G. Lowell (plus 6) defeated H. H. Brown (plus 6), 15—7, 15—3.

Second Round—M. J. Strauss (plus 6) defeated H. Talcott (plus 10), 15—10, 6—15, 15—11; J. Elliott (plus 10) defeated C. E. Ames (plus 10), 15—12, 15—11.

YANKEES' CHECK ON WAY.

Players Will Divide World's Series Money for Finishing Third.

A check for $13,277.83, due to the New York Yankees for finishing third in the 1919 pennant race of the American League, is now on its way to Jacksonville for distribution among the players. This sum includes interest on the money which rested in a Cincinnati bank during the litigation growing out of the Carl Mays case. A check for this amount was sent to the New York office from Cincinnati about three weeks ago, but it did not appear and a duplicate, the one now on its way South, was drawn up by August Herrmann.

All other clubs received their prize money last October, but the fight for third place in the American League was not decided by the league until the recent peace agreement was drawn up in Chicago. Each player will receive close to $500.

THREE CHALLENGERS FOR THE DAVIS CUP

U. S., England and South Africa Only Competitors in Tennis with Australia.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 4.—The time limit for challenges for the Davis Cup, the chief lawn tennis trophy of the world, has ended. England, the United States and South Africa will be the only competitors for the cup, which is now held by Australia.

A dispatch from London of Feb. 26 said Holland also had challenged for the Davis Cup. The announcement was made by the British Lawn Tennis Association. The challenge of the United States Lawn Tennis Association for the trophy was accepted Feb. 26 in a cable dispatch received from Thomas H. Hicks of Sydney, Secretary of the Australian Lawn Tennis Association.

The conditions of play for the Davis Cup provide that contenders must have their challenges in the hands of the holders of the cup by the first Monday in March. This year's matches probably will be played in New Zealand between the Australasian champion teams and winners of elimination matches between the British, American and South African contenders. The draw for these preliminaries should come forward from Sydney almost immediately.

KUMAGAE WINNER OF TITLE.

Defeats Biddle in Match for Florida Tennis Championship.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4.—Ichiya Kumagae, the Japanese star, is the new Florida State tennis champion. He won the final today from Craig Biddle of Philadelphia in three straight sets, 6—2, 8—6, 6—3, an honor that carries with it the recording of his name on the Royal Poinciana Bowl.

The Japanese was fast as lightning and placed wherever he wanted to most of the time. At other times, particularly in the second set, he was erratic. His game yesterday against Seiichiro Kashio was all in the back court, but today he came to the net frequently.

The summaries:

Final, Men's Singles—Ichiya Kumagae defeated Craig Biddle, Philadelphia, 6—2, 8—6, 6—3.

Semi-finals, Men's Doubles—Ichiya Kumagae and Seiichro Kashio defeated John Hennessey, Indianapolis, and James Calder, New York, 6—0, 6—0; Craig Biddle and Beals Wright, New York, defeated R. T. and W. H. Shriver, Baltimore, 6—0, 6—0.

Mixed Doubles—Mrs. Boardman, New York, and Gordon Douglas, New York, defeated Mrs. Walter Mitchell, Philadelphia, and E. W. Leonard, New York, 7—5, 7—5; Mrs. I. Schlicter, New York, and Seiichiro Kashio defeated Miss Gertrude Ehret, New York, and Sidney Thayer, Philadelphia, 10—8, 6—3; Miss Phyllis Walsh, Philadelphia, and Beals Wright defeated Miss Virginia Rice, New York, and H. B. Chase, San Francisco, 6—2, 6—2; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brokaw, New York, defeated Miss Priscilla Dawson, Boston, and R. T. Shriver, 8—6, 6—3; Miss Katharine Force, New York, and Fred C. Inman, New York, defeated Miss Muriel Vanderbilt and Mr. Nieman, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Made Mulqueen, New York, and C. A. Major, New York, defeated Miss Peggy Thayer, Philadelphia, and H. C. Morgan, New York, 6—2, 6—1.

Consolation Singles—George Sulzberger, New York, defeated F. D. Gratz, Philadelphia, 6—1, 5—7, 6—4; E. E. Wise, Boston, defeated D. B. McLaury, New York, 6—2, 6—2.

KEELER WINS IN SQUASH.

Lands in Final of Columbia Tourney by Defeat of Bulkley.

Frederick S. Keeler reached the final round in Class A of the squash tennis tournament for the championship of the Columbia University Club yesterday afternoon, when he defeated Kenneth Bulkley in a five-game match scored at 14-18, 15-5, 18-15, 14-18, 15-3. With three of the games going into extra points, it was a terrific struggle all the way, a slight superiority in steadiness and court tactics accounting for the victory of the veteran.

Keeler's service was working exceedingly well throughout the match and he seldom gave Bulkley a chance to kill the ball outright on either side. In general, also, he managed to keep the ball close to the back wall, playing around the court rather than to make his favorite smashing kills from up near the tell-tale.

Jay Gould and J. N. Worcester will play the other semi-final this afternoon and the winner will meet Keeler in the final round tomorrow.

ROOME DEFEATS BRADFORD.

Wins Yale Club Squash Title in Class B in Five-Game Match.

Reginald Roome yesterday won the Class B squash tennis championship of the Yale Club by defeating Lindsey Bradford in a terrific five-game encounter by scores of 15—9, 5—15, 11—15, 15—12, 18—16.

Roome got the jump on his opponent by superior strength and speed, but Bradford's steadiness and court generalship made up for his rival's physical advantages, and after losing the opener he squared the match in one-sided fashion, going into the lead by winning the third game also. Roome tied it up once more when he won the fourth game by a narrow margin. In the deciding session they kept on even terms until the game was set for extra points at 13—all, Bradford coming from behind for the tieing point. The latter also got the jump in the extra hands, and was within two points of the match when he led by 16—14. Roome, however, staged a magnificent pull-up and captured four points in a row for the decision at 18—16.

Heinie Groh Refuses to Sign.

CINCINNATI, March 4.—Heinie Groh, captain and third baseman of the world's champion Cincinnati Reds, is a confirmed holdout, and unless he weakens in his stand on the salary question will not make the trip to the training camp at Miami. Groh insists that he will retire from the game and spend the Summer at his home. Groh had a long conference with Garry Herrmann today and when he left he declared that he would not accompany the Reds to the training camp. Herrmann insists that he will not make another offer to the star infielder.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 4.—Percy Collins of Chicago won his fifth straight game this afternoon in the national amateur Class A 18.2 balkline billiards tournament at the Boston Athletic Association. He defeated Julian Rice of New York, 300 to 215, in forty-eight innings.

Rice started well and had Collins trailing by a fairly good margin up to the tenth inning. From that point, however, Collins steadily forged ahead. The match was devoid of brilliant playing and little enthusiasm was aroused.

The evening match between Percy Trump of Pittsburgh and Robert Lord of the Illinois A. C. was won by Trump, 300 to 210, in seventy-six innings. It smashed the record for the present player was really on his game as the score shows. The game could scarcely be called interesting.

Ray Naughright last night clinched second place in the three-cushion billiard tournament for the metropolitan championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. He defeated Harry Levine by a score of 30 to 19 in forty-three innings. While Naughright and Louis A. Servatius managed to win the same number of games during the tourney, four out of six, the tie was decided by the Olympic system, Naughright getting the place by six points.

Robert Weld of the New York Athletic Club presented the prizes for the N. A. A. B. P. at the Broadway Billiard Academy last night.

Dempsey Will Meet Keller in Four-Round Bout Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 4.—Jack Dempsey will enter the ring here tomorrow night for the first time since he won the heavyweight championship at Toledo on July 4 last, to box a four-round exhibition with Terry Keller of New York. Jack Kearns said Keller several years ago boxed to a draw with Dempsey. Keller also claims to have won a decision over Joe Beckett, English heavyweight, when the latter was fighting under another name.

Dempsey has been training daily for several weeks with Bill Tate, his negro sparring partner.

FRISCH IS WINNER IN CARROM TOURNEY

Defeats Owles, 50 to 39, in National Billiards and Lands in Triple Tie for Lead.

One of the best played and most interesting matches of the American Amateur Billiard Association's national three-cushion championship tournament was staged at Joe Thum's Academy last night. Harry Frisch and F. G. Owles clashed in a game that was replete with excellent carrom playing and eventually was won by the former by 50 to 39. Throughout the eighty-eight innings only one deliberate safety shot was called, and it was made by Frisch.

Frisch's victory boosted him into a tie for first place with Joseph Cosgrove and William Blumenthal, each of whom has won two games and lost none. Frisch achieved his win by playing some great uphill billiards. He got away to a bad start, while Owles was winning along at a lively clip, and it was not until the seventy-fifth frame that Frisch finally succeeded in overhauling his opponent. At the end of that round the players were tied at 33 points apiece.

Up to that inning Owles had led. Frisch failed to count in the first thirteen times he went to the table. In his fourteenth inning he made a run of three points, and Owles was leading at that time by a score of 7 to 3. While Owles continued to hold his lead, he never was able to attain even a comfortable working margin. Frisch was always within three or four points of him.

It was during the last thirteen innings of the game that Frisch played some of the best three-cushion billiards seen in a tournament match in some time. He scored a total of 21 points in three innings. During this display he made two of his three high runs of four points each, and also made two of three points each. Although he appeared to have some difficulty with his stroke during the earlier innings he was steady and accurate during the closing rounds.

While Frisch was engaged in this steady run of good billiards Owles slowed up considerably. While Frisch was getting twenty-one points to thirteen innings, Owles was able to get but ten in the same number of turns at the table.

MAY HOLD TRIALS FOR BOXING HERE

Arrangements for Olympic Tests Depend Upon Legislative Decision.

The amateur boxing tryouts which will determine Uncle Sam's team for the Olympic games at Antwerp this year will be held in this city, if favorable action is taken by the legislators on the measures now before them, which, if adopted, would again legalize the sport in this State. This plan was disclosed yesterday by Frederick W. Rubien, secretary to the American Olympic Committee, of which Gustavus T. Kirby is President. Contingent on favorable legislative action, it is planned to hold the bouts either in Madison Square Garden, if that building can be secured for the occasion, or at one of the metropolitan baseball parks, possibly Ebbets Field, Brooklyn.

The possibility of the National A. A. U. Championship Tournament at Mechanics' Hall, Boston, April 5 and 6, serving as the decisive trials for the world's classic, was dismissed with finality by Mr. Rubien. The local A. A. U. leader said that the greatest argument against such a plan would be that the tournament would precede the team's sailing date by too great an interim to provide for success. Boxers who gained amateur titles at Boston in April might outgrow their classes while awaiting their departure for Belgium; they might be incapacitated through unexpected illness or accident and they might even answer the lure of the professional ring. These were some of the arguments Mr. Rubien advanced against making the National Title Tournament the Olympic trials.

In support of his declaration favoring a delay in adopting definite plans for this sport, Mr. Rubien stressed the advantage to be gained by awaiting the outcome of the legislative deliberations. Not the least of the prospective benefits concerned the financial possibilities of such an important and attractive tournament. The competition would be of the greatest significance, while those who participated would include the cream of the country's amateur boxers.

Lynch Stops Eddie Segal.

BOSTON, Mass., March 4.—Joe Lynch, New York bantamweight, scored a knockout over Eddie Segal of Brooklyn here tonight in the third round of a twelve-round bout. Lynch set the pace from the start and landed almost at will, Segal saving himself from an earlier knockout by clinching. Early in the third round Lynch dropped Segal for the count of four, and in the last minute of the round he sent him to the mat with a right and left to the jaw. Segal was counted out.

Tunney Wins Another Bout.

Gene Tunney, Greenwich Village heavyweight, added another victory to his record last night at the City A. C. of Jersey City when he stopped Soldier McKinley in the fifth round of a scheduled eight-round bout. Tunney was scheduled to meet Dan O'Dowd in the main event, but O'Dowd was ill and McKinley was substituted.

McGoorty Loses London Bout.

LONDON, March 4.—Eddie McGoorty, the American light-heavyweight, was defeated tonight in th ethirteenth round of a bout held in the Holborn Stadium by Frank Goddard, an English heavyweight boxer. McGoorty had been so badly punished that the referee stopped the fight.

Squash at Army and Navy Club.

Play was continued yesterday in the handicap squash tennis tournament of the Army and Navy Club with the following results:

First Round—A. C. Smidt (+3), defeated G. N. Carnochan (+8), 15—6, 17—10; C. H. Ayres (+3), defeated G. Z. Aronstrum (+8 and one hand), 15—8, 15—9; K. McVaugh (+1), defeated R. E. Wigham (—3), 16—12, 15—10.

HERMAN'S DEMAND FOR WILDE MATCH

Bantamweight Champion Asks $25,000 to Meet Welshman in Bout for Title.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—A battle between Jimmy Wilde, ruler of the flyweight brigade, and Pete Herman, bantamweight champion, may take place in London in May or June. C. B. Cochran, the English promoter, is angling for the match, and if he can get Wilde to agree to allow Herman to enter the ring at 118 pounds ringside the contest will probably be held.

Cochran on Wednesday cabled Sam Goldman, Herman's manager, asking the terms for Herman to box the tiny Welshman. Goldman immediately replied: "Will accept contest end of May or early June. Twenty-five thousand dollars, four round-trip tickets, expenses, 25 per cent. of motion pictures. Wilde refusing to meet champion here probable cause of unfair criticism, thereby forcing me to insist on American referee. Easily selected by sporting writers. Must be twenty rounds. Weight England and this country for bantam class, 118 pounds. Herman will weigh in at that figure. Under these conditions match can be closed."

Wilde is holding out for 116 pounds ringside. Herman, however, absolutely refuses to make that figure. Herman wanted to box the little Briton in this country, but Jimmy would not hear of the match staged anywhere outside of England.

RADEBOLD WINS TWO BOUTS

Scores Decisive Victories in Amateur Boxing Tournament.

Silent Radebold, Union Settlement A. C. amateur boxer, added further to his ring conquests last night when he scored a brace of decisive victories in annexing the premier prize in the 128-pound class of the amateur boxing tournament conducted at the Society of Professional Auto Engineers' Club. Radebold, showing remarkable hitting power for a boxer of his weight, disposed of Harry Tarzan, Trinity A. C. of Brooklyn, in the first round of his trial bout. Later, in the final bout, the Union Settlement A. C. lad administered such a drubbing to Joseph Bianchi, unattached, that the bout was stopped in the second round.

I. Levine of the Clark House A. A. carried off the 110-pound prize, disposing of J. Elsner, Pastime A. C., in the second round of his trial bout, and gaining the judges' award over J. Daly, Grace A. C., in the final, after three interesting rounds. In the remaining class, at 145 pounds, Nick Florio of the Paulist A. C. carried off the premier prize without the formality of engaging in a bout. Florio drew a bye in the trials, and took the final by default from J. Martin, Pastime A. C., when the latter could not answer the summons to the ring because of an injured finger.

The summaries:

110-Pound Class—First Bout—I. Levine, Clark House A. A., defeated J. Elsner, Pastime A. C., two rounds, referee's decision. Second Bout—J. Daly, Grace A. C., defeated W. Murphy, East Side A. C., three rounds, judges' decision.

Final Bout—Levine defeated Daly, three rounds, judges' decision.

128-Pound Class—First Bout—Joseph Bianchi, unattached, defeated H. Reed, unattached, two rounds, referee's decision. Second Bout—Silent Radebold, Union Settlement A. C., defeated Harry Tarzan, Trinity Club, one round, referee's decision.

Final Bout—Radebold defeated Bianchi, two rounds, referee's decision.

145-Pound Class—J. Martin, Pastime A. C., defeated William Green, unattached, one round; referee's decision. Nick Florio, Paulist A. C., drew a bye.

Final Bout—Florio won from Martin by default.

110-Pound Class; Special Bout—W. O'Connell, Union Settlement A. C., defeated W. Powell, St. Christopher Club, four rounds; judges' decision.

HONOLULU BOY FURNISHES BIG SURPRISE AT NEW ORLEANS

HONOLULU BOY IS AN EASY WINNER

Shows Startling Reversal in Capturing St. Helene Handicap at New Orleans.

BEATS ODDS-ON FAVORITE

Woodtrap, at 9 to 10, Tires in Stretch Run—Heavy Track Causes Many Scratches.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 4.—Favored with an advantage in the weights and a track condition just suited to him, Honolulu Boy accomplished a rather startling form flipflop at Jefferson Park this afternoon, when he scored an easy victory over Woodtrap and Tailor Maid in winning the St. Helene Handicap, at a mile and three-sixteenths. He had nearly two lengths to spare at the end, while Woodtrap was second, four lengths in front of Tailor Maid, which only last Saturday set a new track record here for a mile and seventy yards.

Because the track was quite heavy, the scratching of entries was the general order of the day, and the fields were decidedly reduced, even in the events for the cheapest of horses. However, the scratches fell heaviest in the feature event, for which seven ha orifinally ben named. Omond, Prospector, Bondage and Piedra were withdrawn, leaving the contest to three.

The last time Honolulu Boy ran he finished seventh to Woodrtap in a field of eight over the mile and a sixteenth route, and was consequently given little consideration today. He was quoted at 5 to 1, while Woodtrap was heavily played and backed down from 6 to 5 to 9 to 10 at post time. Tailor Maid, though she had set a record recently, was as good as 8 to 5.

The fourth race, which was a six-furlong sprint for three-year-olds, brought out some good performers and resulted in one of the best contests of the day. This went to Anticipate, which scored at 8 to 1, but gained the decision over Who Cares by only a nose, while the latter saved the place from The Archer by only a head. Sweet Liberty, which had been sent to the post a favorite, quit to a walk after getting to the front in the first quarter.

R. H. Good's Reveler came to life in the sixth race, at a mile and a sixteenth, and fairly romped home for the first victory in his last seven starts. This was another winner which paid 8 to 1, Orenzo, the favorite, failing to finish in the money. Reveler moved up steadily from a rather slow start and caught the leaders at the turn into the stretch, from which point he moved away with ease, and had four lengths to spare at the finish. Puts and Calls also came from behind and with a strong finish took second, six lengths in front of Rappahannock. Orenzo got a running start, but after setting the pace for half a mile quit badly.

Lucy Kate, which made a very favorable impression in her last race when she was defeated by only a neck by Morning Face, raced herself out of the maiden class in the first event for two-year-old fillies over the three-and-a-half-furlong route. She has been improving with every race, and today had a world of speed and appeared to like the heavy track. She quickly caught Charlotte in the first furlong and then drew away until she had six lengths to spare at the finish. Gladys was second in a driving finish with Miss Pluvious, and had an advantage of only a nose.

W. H. Rowe's Goldcrest Boy, which has been a very consistent performer and is rarely out of the money, gave another good performance today in the final race, and won with ridiculous ease from J. C. Stone and Sky Pilot, among others, at a mile and three-sixteenths. He was a 3-to-5 choice, and his victory was one of the redeeming features of an otherwise bad day for the players. Goldcrest Boy never left the issue much in doubt. He assumed the lead at the start and gradually drew away until he had the race all to himself turning into the stretch, and he romped home six lengths in front. J. C. Stone finished strongly, as did Sky Pilot.

Minimum of $7,500 in Purses Daily at Bowie Spring Meeting

Racing Secretary Joseph McLennan of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association announced here yesterday that a minimum of $7,500 would be distributed daily during the Spring meeting at Bowie in April. None of the overnight events will have a value of less than $1,000 and there will be a handicap each day with a value of at least $1,500.

Horsemen are beginning to ship to Bowie, Mr. McLennan reported, and applications for stable room already exceed the accommodations.

MUTUEL PLAYERS GET $97.80 FOR $2

Mary Fitzhugh's Victory at Havana Gives the Bank Considerable of a Jolt.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 4.—The followers of the mutuels were in their glory after Mary Fitzhugh won the opening event at the Oriental Park today. The recent races of the daughter of Ten Point were not promising, with the result that she was neglected in the mutuels today, and the record price for the present meeting was hung out after she outgamed Virgie Lee in a drive.

The price for a two-dollar ticket straight was $97.80, the place was $60.90 and the show was $15.40. In the books her price was 8 to 1 for first, 3 to 1 for place and 8 to 5 to show.

The results:

TO GRADE HORSES IN RACES.

Special Handicaps Will Be an Innovation at Pimlico.

A series of three graded handicaps which are designed to bring together in each event horses of approximately the same ability and thus afford a better opportunity to horses of the lower classifications to display their merit, will be held at the Spring meeting at Pimlico in May. Details of the plan have been worked out by Frank J. Bryan with the idea of bringing about more satisfactory contests than are possible under the method of straight handicapping regardless of the class of horses.

The idea was suggested because of the numerous occasions when a horse of fair ability failed repeatedly to win against good horses despite advantages in the weights, and chiefly because the imposts were so light that good jockeys could not be had. The new method will permit horses to carry sufficient weight to enable owners to get the experienced riders and at the same time the horses will not be asked to go out of their class.

The handicaps will be arranged in the following manner: Entries, for which there will be no charge, will close at a specified time and the list of horses named will be handed to a committee of three which will give each horse a rating and announce the result of grading. The horses will be divided then into three divisions as nearly equal in numbers as possible, each division to be governed by the ratings. As an example, in the event of thirty horses accepting, the ten with the highest rating will be assigned to Class A, the next ten to Class B, and the remainder to Class C.

The handicappers will then assign the weights for all the horses in each division, 126 pounds being the top weight in each instance. Each division will be handicapped according to the horses entered therein. Therefore, Purchase, Sir Barton and others of the first rank would run in Class A and be assigned weights independently of the other divisions. A horse which ordinarily would get a big pull in the weights from Purchase might easily head the Class B entries with 126 pounds, and so on through the three classes.

By grading the horses into classes it is possible to make the weights such in each class that the more capable riders can be utilized. This will insure an equal chance, not only as regards weights, but also as regards ability of riders. The graded races, implying that the best will compete among themselves, the middle raters together and the lightweight division among horses of their own calibre, have already made a strong appeal to horsement who have considered the plan. It will be watched closely as an experiment.

REACH SEMI-FINALS IN PINEHURST GOLF

Messmore, Graham, Merriman and Newton Are Survivors in Spring Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 4.—The second match round in the annual Spring tournament was disposed of at Pinehurst today and play brought down to the semi-final stage.

The only close match in the first sixteen was played by Carman Messmore of Ardsley and Franklin Gates of Moore County. Messmore won, 1 up. Sam Graham of Greenwich, the medalist, went out in 34 against C. H. Banes of Philadelphia and had the match on ice at the turn. Graham took things easier coming home, but finished with a 73 and won by 8 and 6.

B. P. Merriman of Waterbury, twice Connecticut State champion, played against T. S. Fuller of Ardsley and won by 3 and 2. Merriman had an 80. F. C. Newton of Brookline, Staten Island champion and Captain of the Massachusetts Leslie Cup team, defeated W. W. Whitcomb of Worcester by 4 and 3, and went around in 38—38—76, including a six on the last hole. Newton's best stunt happened at the fourteenth, where he played his third out on a trap to the green and went down in 4, a stroke under par.

The summaries:

First Sixteen.

Second Round—Carman Messmore, Ardsley, defeated Franklin Gates, Moore County, 1 up; Sam Graham, Greenwich, defeated Charles H. Banes, Merion, 8 and 6; B. P. Merriam, Waterbury, defeated T. S. Fuller, Ardsley, 3 and 2; F. C. Newton, Brookline, defeated W. A. Whitcomb, Worcester, 4 and 3.

Second Sixteen.

Second Round—G. S. Proctor, Oakmont, defeated G. M. Howard, Halifax, 1 up (21 holes); C. L. Becker, Philadelphia, defeated W. H. Fuller, Worcester, 2 and 1; J. N. Stearns, Jr., Nassau, defeated Donald Parson, Youngstown, 4 and 2.

MRS. BARLOW'S TOTAL LOW.

Leads in First Round of Silver Foils Golf at Pinehurst.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 4.—The first 18 holes of the Silver Foils annual golf tournament were played here today and the concluding round will be played tomorrow. Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia, who is defending her title, led the field of 44 contestants at the end of today's round with a score of 46—48—94. She was the only player to make a hole under par, getting a 2 on the eleventh.

Mrs. John D. Chapman of Greenwich had a 96, and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Pittsburgh a 98. Mrs. Myra Helmer Pritchard of Midlothian took 52 to go out, but came home in 47 for a 99.

The following finished in 102 or better:

Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, 46, 48—94; Mrs. J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, 49, 47—96; Mrs. J. V. Hurd, Pittsburgh, 50, 48—98; Mrs. J. S. Pritchard, Midlothian, 52, 47—99; Mrs. Spencer Waters, Apawamis, 50, 51—101; Mrs. L. F. F. Wanner, Hempstead, 53, 49—102; Miss Winifred V. Cullen, Canoe Brook, 50, 52—102.

GOV. EDWARDS AS STARTER.

Will Fire Opening Gun in Six-Day Bicycle Race at the Garden.

An invitation to start the six-day race at Madison Square Garden midnight Sunday has been accepted by Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey. The Governor has been a bike fan for years and will send the strongest field away that has ever entered a six-day grind. Fourteen teams have been listed for the race, six of them being made up of the star cyclists of Europe.

Alfred Goullet is out to equal Joe Fogler's record of winning five Garden races, having annexed four of the famous classics already. Goullet is teamed with Jake Magin, who won the 1917 race with him, the combination being one of the popular choices in the coming contest. Egg and Madden make up a team that is to be feared, and the fans will be able to get a fair idea of the present condition and ability of Egg and Goullet when they meet in a mile match and a pursuit race tomorrow night at the sprint meet.

All the riders will have their final workouts on the Garden track tomorrow when they will be instructed regarding the rules that will govern the race. One rule that will be strictly enforced is that a rider will not be allowed to relieve his partner until the latter comes to a complete stop in front of his camp.

GUARDSMEN IN ATHLETICS.

Fourteenth Regiment A. A. Organized in Brooklyn—Baker Coach.

Officers of the Fourteenth Regiment of Brooklyn have organized the Fourteenth Regiment A. A. and yesterday affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union. Colonel Frederick Baldwin has been elected President; Captain L. C. Bellows, Secretary and Chairman of the Athletic Committee, and Lieutenant Frederick Baldwin, Treasurer. Homer Baker, local half-mile champion, has volunteered to coach the regiment members in track and field sport.

Baker is a member of Company B and will wear the regiment's colors in all military athletic activities. More than fifty members of the outfit have shown promise in athletic tests, and, in order to develop these guardsmen, together with others who will be induced to take up competition, Baker plans to hold training sessions three nights each week.

The regiment will conduct a set of games April 21, at which six events for members of the regiment will be contested, together with a similar number of open A. A. U. competitions.

A gymnasium, fully equipped with modern apparatus, has been installed, providing facilities for boxing, wrestling, basket ball and handball. In addition tennis courts are being placed at the disposal of members.

N. Y. AGGIES' FIVE WINS.

Closes Basket Ball Season with 23 to 21 Defeat of State College.

Playing their final game of the season, the New York Aggies gained an impressive victory in basket ball on their home court in Farmingdale last night, defeating the New York State College five in one of the most bitterly contested games of the season. The score was 23 to 21.

The lineup:

N. Y. AGGIES (23).		STATE COL. (21).
Nichols	R. F.	Cassavant
Van Pelt	L. F.	Mason
Tuthill	C.	Springman
Powers	R. G.	Polk
Wenger	L. G.	Lobdell

Goals from floor—Nichols (5), Van Pelt, Tuthill (2), Wenger, Cassavant (3), Mason (2), Springman. Goals from foul—Nichols (5), Springman (9).

Referee—Mr. Carroll. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

Mrs. Worley Wins on Links.

Special to The New York Times.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 4.—Mrs. J. D. Worley of Aurora, Ill., repeated her victory of last season today when she won the annual women's invitation tournament on the Ormond Beach Golf Links in the final round. She met and defeated Miss E. M. Lightner of the Town and Country Club of St. Louis, 4 and 3. In the second eight Mrs. R. A. McCord of Greenwich, Conn., defeated Mrs. W. D. Chapin of Englewood, 2 and 1.

Columbia Poloists Play Tonight.

The Columbia water polo team, now leading the league, will make a bid to put the title beyond danger tonight at Philadelphia against the University of Pennsylvania. A victory for the New Yorkers will prevent Princeton from getting more than a tie for first place and will practically clinch the championship, since Columbia's final game is with C. C. N. Y., the cellar champions.

N. Y. A. C. AWARDED STATE TRAPSHOOT

Championship to be Held at Travers Island May 4-6—Other Dates Announced.

More than 400 applications for registered trapshooting tournaments were acted upon by the sub-committee appointed by the General Committee of the American Trapshooting Association at its second final meeting yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the association in this city. With few exceptions a favorable report was made on all of the applications. The exceptions were where there was a conflict of dates which necessitated the return of the applications, with a view to obtaining additional specifications of other dates to avoid conflicts and the consequent injury in point of attendance at the several tournaments affected.

Of principal importance to the trapshooters in New York State was the awarding of the State championship to the New York Athletic Club. It will be conducted at Travers Island on May 4-6. Although there are forty-eight States, there are only forty-six State association tournaments to be held. Nevada is affiliated with California and New Mexico with Colorado. The District of Columbia is affiliated with the Maryland State Association. So far thirty-seven of the forty-six State associations have been granted registration, and only difficulties of a minor nature stand in the way of taking care of the entire list.

Of additional interest to the shooters in this section of the country are the awarding of the dates for the State championship shoots to be held in nearby States. New Jersey's title will be shot for at Phillipsburg on May 13-15; Pennsylvania, at Harrisburg, June 8-11; Massachusetts, at Quincy, June 17-19; Delaware, at Wilmington, June 4-5; Maryland and District of Columbia, at Baltimore, April 30-May 1.

The dates and places sanctioned for the State championships and the provincial tournaments in Canada follow. Where the dates have been omitted they have not yet been approved:

STATE TOURNAMENTS.

Birmingham, Ala., dates not named; Kingman, Ariz., April 9-11; Little Rock, Ark., dates not named; Visalia, Cal., April 16-18; Greeley, Col., June 18-20; Hartford, Conn., June 11-12; Wilmington, Del., June 4-5; Fort Myers, Fla., April 6-8; Atlanta, Ga., May 3-5; Wallace, Idaho, July 5-6; Chicago, Ill., dates not named; South Bend, Ind., July, 6-8; Des Moines, Iowa, June 7-9; Winfield, Kan., May 10-12; Louisville, Ky., July 30-31; Lake Charles, La., dates not named; Waterville, Me., dates not named; Baltimore, Md., and Dist. of Col., April 30-May 1; Quincy, Mass., June 17-19; Battle Creek, Mich., July 4-5; Fort Snelling, Minn., June 28-30; Clarksdale, Miss., May 11-13; Poplar Bluff, Mo., May 25-27; Kalispell, Mon., July 11-13; Hastings, Neb., May 25-27; Portsmouth, N. H., June 30-July 1; Phillipsburg, N. J., May 13-15; Travers Island, N. Y., May 4-6; Pinehurst, N. C., April 22-23; Minot, N. D., dates not named; Cincinnati, Ohio, June 2-4; McAlester, Okla., dates not named; Portland, Ore., May 22-24; Harrisburg, Pa., June 8-11; Rhode Island, place and dates not named; Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, July 22-23; Columbia, S. C., June 8-9; Mobridge, S. D., June 14-15; Nashville, Tenn., dates not named; Wichita Falls, Texas, May 17-20; Salt Lake City, Utah, May 30-31; Burlington, Vt., June 23-24; Norfolk, Va., July 5-6; Tacoma, Wash., May 1-3; Richwood, W. Va., June 16-18; Milwaukee, Wis., June 19-20; Douglas, Wyo., June 6-8.

CANADIAN PROVINCIAL TOURNAMENTS.

Ottawa, Eastern Canada, June 15-17; Vancouver, B. C., July 1-2; Winnipeg, July 1-2; Manitoba-Saskatchewan, July 1-2.

STRONG REVOLVER TEAM.

Officials, in Conference, Decide to Send 7 or 8 Shooters to Antwerp.

The revolver team which will represent America in the Olympic Games at Antwerp, Belgium, this year will include seven or eight of the country's leading revolver marksmen, according to information disclosed yesterday, following a conference at the Columbia University Club. The conference was attended by Gustavus T. Kirby, President, and Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary, of the American Olympic Committee, and Dr. Reginald H. Sayre of the United States Revolver Association, a former revolver shooting champion, who captained the Olympic team at Stockholm in 1912.

Announcement of the details of the conference was deferred, awaiting further developments. It is understood, however, that a definite policy was discussed and tentative arrangements made for a series of tryouts, similar to the trial program which will govern the selection of the various other teams which will compete at Antwerp. The competitions will be held under the auspices of the United States Revolver Association. This plan will be submitted to the next meeting of the American Olympic Committee at the New York A. C. March 13.

College Golf Matches First on Metropolitan Schedule

Unless some nearby country clubs try to usurp the honor with an early invitation tournament, the Metropolitan golfing season will be ushered in this Spring by college linksmen. The first event in this district will be the meeting of Yale and Columbia over the Greenwich links on May 1. This unusually early date is two weeks in advance of any other golf tourney so far arranged. Altogether six matches between college teams have been scheduled in the Metropolitan district, with one date, May 14, disputed. Both Harvard and Princeton claim to have booked Columbia for that day. The five other events on nearby courses follow:

May 1—Columbia vs. Yale at Greenwich.

May 7—Columbia vs. Williams at Garden City.

May 15—Harvard vs. Princeton at Englewood.

May 22—Princeton vs. Yale at Nassau.

May 28—Princeton vs. Cornell at Greenwich.

ELI CREW POLICY OUTLINED.

Nickalls Will Prepare 150-Pound Eight for American Henley.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 4.—In outlining his policy for the season Head Coach Guy Nickalls of the Yale crew, who reached here yesterday, gave the following statement tonight to The Yale Daily News:

"Yale will again use the modified English stroke this Spring, the stroke which won victories in 1914 and 1915. Every effort will be put forth to make rowing a pleasure and recreation this year.

"Every candidate will be urged to report for the squad whether he has any special talent or not. From the crew material a 150-pound crew will be selected to row at the American Henley. It is unfortunate that conflicting schedules will not allow one of the Yale or Harvard crews to cross the ocean and compete in the English Henley this year.

"It was a great pleasure for me to find on my arrival today that everything had been prepared for the season. The services of George Van Sanford and W. J. Adams have been secured as assistant coaches for the season."

SOPHOMORES NOW LEAD.

Pass Junior Team in Columbia Interclass Track Meet.

In the second day's events of the annual interclass track meet at Columbia yesterday the Sophomores passed the Juniors in the point score by taking first place in two of the three events. D. W. Hudson of the class of 1922 won the two-mile run, and F. F. Fargo, a classmate, heaved the 12-pound shot 43 feet 8 inches, 2 inches better than his nearest opponent.

The point score is now as follows: Sophomores, 26½; Juniors, 22; Seniors, 15½; Freshmen, 13. The meet will end next Thursday, when the last three events will be run off.

In the interfraternity relay race yesterday seven fraternities won in the first heats and moved up to the second round, which will be contested this afternoon. The semi-finals and finals will be held tomorrow. The successful contestants yesterday were: Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta, Zeta Psi, Delta Phi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Kappa Psi, and Sigma Chi.

The summaries:

Two-Mile Run—Won by D. W. Hudson, '22; H. J. Lowenkopf, '21, second; R. Knox, '22, third; A. W. Haskell, '21, fourth. Time—10:13:00.

176-Yard Run—Won by V. Graeb, '23; E. L. Taylor, '20, second; J. M. McIlrath, '20, third; C. M. Withus, '20, and K. C. King, '22, dead heat for fourth. Time—0:19 2-5.

Twelve-Pound Shotput—Won by F. F. Fargo, '22, 43 feet 8 inches; L. W. Zychlinski, '20, 43 feet 6 inches, second; R. R. Armstrong, '21, 42 feet 5 inches, third; E. A. Myers, '23, 42 feet 3 inches, fourth.

DRISCOLL ENTERS GAMES.

Yale Athlete to Compete in 1,000-Yard Run Tomorrow Night.

Billy Queal, assistant trainer of the Yale track and field team, yesterday submitted the entry of E. Driscoll of Yale for the Memorial 1,000-yard special run, which will be one of the principal events at the Post Office Clerks' games at the 69th Regiment Armory tomorrow night. The Yale runner, who has already shown considerable promise at the middle distances, will start against a select field in quest of this prize. Among the other runners entered are Jack Sellers of the New York A. C., Sid Leslie, Millrose A. A., and Allen Swede of Princeton.

Officials of the meet expect greater success than has ever before attended this annual fixture. A total of 1,104 entries have been received, a record number for the present board floor season, and one of the largest ever received for local competition.

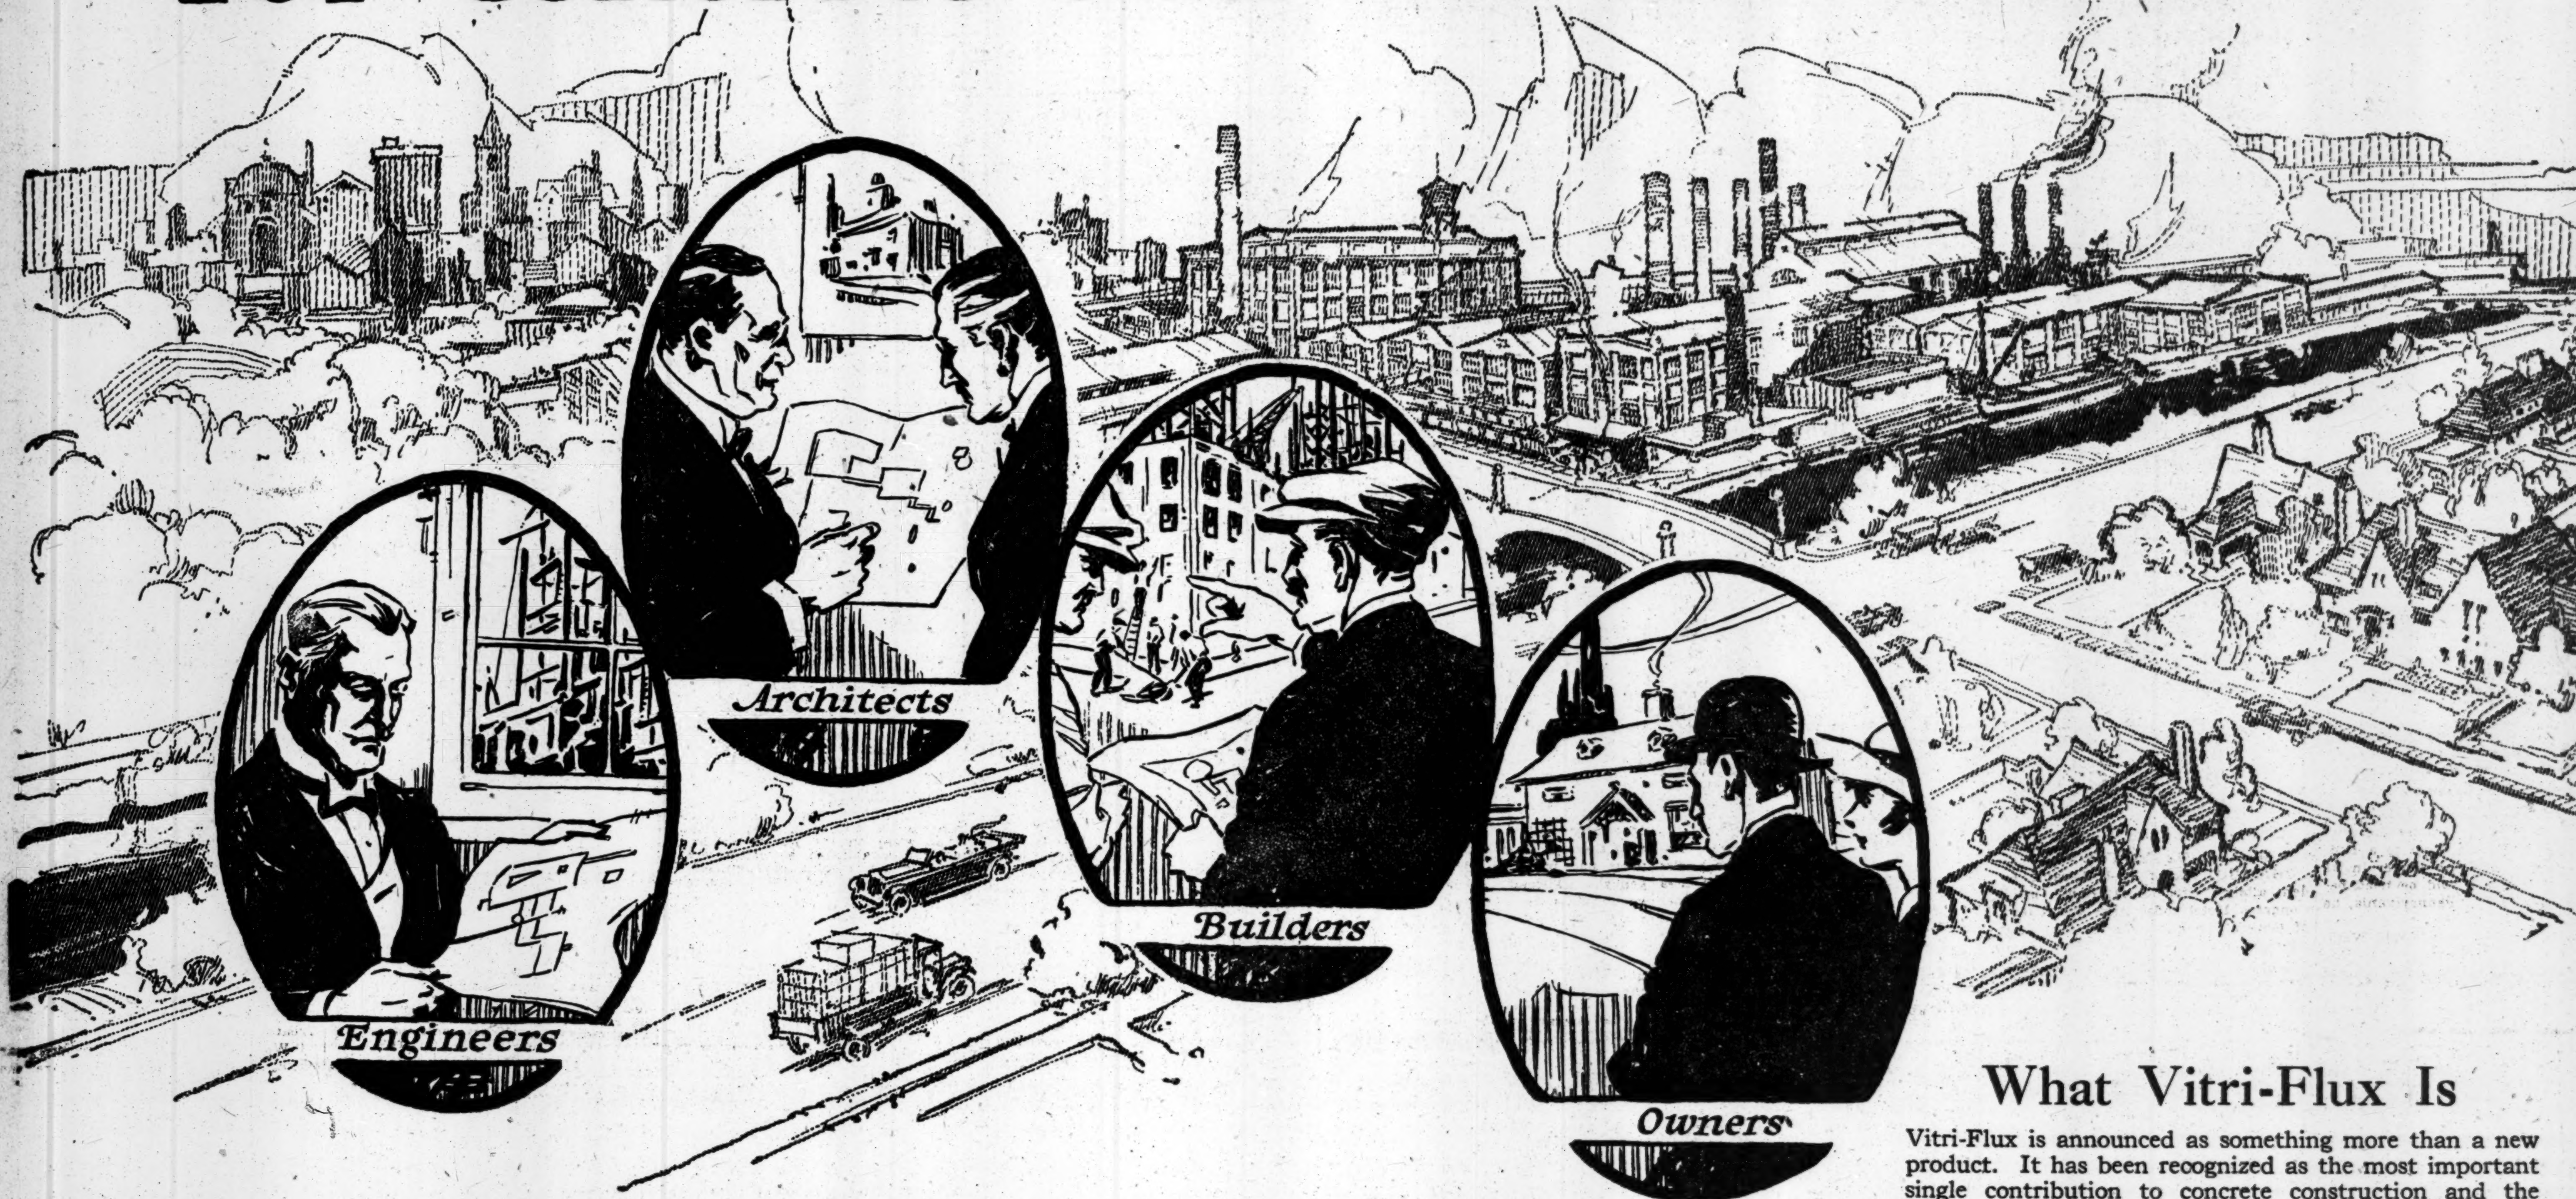
Vitri-Flux

TRADE MARK

For Concrete and Cement Products



"I Have Found It!"

Said the Eminent Engineer

A FORTNIGHT ago a meeting of technical men was held in Chicago. More than four hundred of the leading cement and concrete engineers and architects were gathered in convention.

The discussion turned to hardening concrete—making it denser, tougher and waterproof.

One after another, architects and engineers, arose and told of their personal experiences with the various flush-on and similar solutions used for hardening or waterproofing concrete.

No one reported satisfaction. The consensus of opinion for the entire convention seemed to be that this great need of the concrete world was still to be filled.

Then arose the Eminent Engineer. (Name furnished on request).

"I have found a solution," he said quietly, "for hardening, strengthening and waterproofing concrete. I have tested it under actual working conditions. I have found that it meets our problem of securing a denser, harder and tougher concrete."

The convention hall was quiet. All eyes rested on the Eminent Engineer. Every man there knew the reputation of the speaker—knew that his judgment was unquestionable.

"This solution," continued the Eminent Engineer, "is an integral chemical compound in liquid form, which is added to the water, in the mixer.

"In one series of tests, with 28-day-old concrete, it increased the compressive strength of concrete 58%

"It increased the tensile strength 24%

"It reduced the absorption to practically nothing.

"This product makes concrete work far safer in freezing weather, by materially lowering the freezing point of the mixture. It also materially accelerates setting and makes less troweling necessary."

There was a deep silence for a moment. Every man there knew the importance of this announcement by one of their foremost authorities; knew the new possibilities, the greater service and increased permanence it promised in concrete construction.

"What is it?" they asked—"What does it cost? How does it work?"

The Eminent Engineer hesitated a moment. Then he spoke.

"It is Vitri-Flux," he said.

Then, as the engineers gathered round him, he explained its technical aspects.

"This liquid works in three ways," he said. "It increases hydration by reducing surface tension of the water. It hastens hardening by stimulating the chemical action of the setting process. It toughens the mortar content and increases the density of the product by its lubricating action.

"I find that it 'welds' the aggregate into an almost vitreous, practically impervious mass, of far greater strength than ordinary concrete."

* * * * * * * * *

Vitri-Flux comes in steel drums—at a list price (subject to quantity discounts) of $1.30 per gallon. Its cost, however, is more than met by the saving in construction cost made possible by its use.

What Vitri-Flux Is

Vitri-Flux is announced as something more than a new product. It has been recognized as the most important single contribution to concrete construction and the manufacture of cement products. It is the ONE product which permanently hardens, STRENGTHENS and waterproofs concrete so effectively as to vitally increase its value as a medium.

Wherever cement is used, Vitri-Flux quickens construction and improves and lengthens service.

In construction work its use is particularly demanded where great wear or other difficult conditions are to be met. For roads and floors especially its use is indispensable.

Because of its vitreous, welding effect upon cement, Vitri-Flux is demanded in the manufacture of cement products. Especially is it valuable wherever increased hardness, toughness, waterproofing, density and quick setting are necessary. For example, the country's largest concrete-brick plant, now nearing completion, will manufacture concrete bricks made with Vitri-Flux. These bricks, made without high pressure, will be waterproof, and harder, tougher and stronger than any concrete brick hitherto known.

VITRI-FLUX is an integral flux—a liquid added in the mixer—(one part Vitri-Flux to 10 parts water)—which permanently hardens, strengthens and waterproofs all concrete mixtures. It gives to commercial concrete a hitherto unheard-of density, hardness and toughness, in addition to waterproofing it.

Recognized by Authorities

Vitri-Flux has been exhaustively tested by leading authorities in officially recognized laboratories. It has been investigated and ENDORSED by the Investigating Committee of Architects and Engineers of New York City. It was received with enthusiastic acclaim at the meeting of the Concrete Institute at Chicago two weeks ago.

The Technical staff of the Granitex Company invites inquiries regarding Vitri-Flux, and offers its co-operation on any matters involving concrete. Write for data and specifications—or telephone Vanderbilt 7543.

BERGDOLL COUNSEL FIGHT ARMY TRIAL

Court-Martial Begins Despite Protest, Pending Habeas Corpus Hearing Today.

MOTHER'S TESTIMONY READ

Told Medical Board That Found Son Sane He Was "Easily Frightened."

HAD "FITS" AND "RAN AWAY"

Allowance Large to Accustom Him to Riches—Studied When in Jail for Speeding.

After a stubbornly fought legal battle, in which counsel for the defense were accused of dilatory tactics, the court-martial on Governor's Island of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the wealthy young Philadelphian, charged with desertion after failure to appear when called for military service, was adjourned late yesterday afternoon until the accused is again in the custody of the military authorities of the Department of the East.

Today, in response to a writ of habeas corpus granted by Judge Learned Hand, Lieut. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Commander of the Eastern Department, must produce Bergdoll in the Federal District Court and show cause why the prisoner should be tried by a military rather than a civil court for alleged violation of the Selective Service act. If Judge Hand releases Bergdoll in the General's custody and Harry Weinberger of the prisoner's counsel, is unsuccessful in asking for a stay from the Supreme Court, the trial by general court-martial will continue. Whatever the outcome of the proceedings, it will establish a precedent for the prosecution of 171,000 other young men who failed to obey the call to the colors.

Yesterday morning Bergdoll was taken under guard from Castle Williams to appear at the convening of the court-martial. After he had pleaded not guilty, Captain Robert E. Hannay, Assistant Trial Judge Advocate, read extracts from the Selective Service act relating to those failing to appear in the draft. This brought Weinberger to his feet.

Jurisdiction Questioned.

A court-martial had no jurisdiction in the matter, he argued, because the prisoner, who must be delivered to a Federal court today, was no longer in its custody. His client should be tried before a regular court in Pennsylvania, he said.

"This is a peculiar case," said Weinberger. "This is a rich man pleading for the same rights accorded a poor man, and he is entitled to his day in court."

Weinberger said the defense would show that there never had been any violation of the draft law by Bergdoll. The action of the Philadelphia Local Board in threatening Bergdoll with punishment "scared" his client into running away, and therefore, asserted Weinberger, the local board, not Bergdoll, was responsible for violation of the law.

Lieut. Col. Charles C. Gresson, Trial Judge Advocate, said that so long as Bergdoll was in military custody he was subject to military regulations. Until the prisoner goes before Judge Hand today, he could "drill, stand guard or stand trial as a deserter." The fact, he said, that Bergdoll had been indicted by Pennsylvania courts for violation of the draft law did not place him in jeopardy by trial twice for the same offense.

This motion for adjournment was not sustained by the court of officers, but both Weinberger and Captain Bruce R. Campbell, Bergdoll's military counsel, continued their objections throughout the day. This so irritated Colonel Cresson that he denounced what he termed the defense's "dilatory tactics" which were "gumming the game."

In the afternoon the report of the board of officers detailed to determine Bergdoll's sanity was presented. Under military law once the defense raises the question of a prisoners' mental condition the prosecution must prove the defendant is sane.

Alienists Retained by Mother.

The retention of Drs. Smith Ely Jelliffe and Menas S. Gregory, New York alienists, by Mrs. Bergdoll indicates that the defense may attempt to prove Bergdoll mentally unbalanced.

This was brought out yesterday by the introduction of Mrs. Bergdoll's testimony concerning her son's mental condition in the medical officer's report. The report was introduced after a futile attempt by the defense to prove that the board of medical officers who pronounced Bergdoll sane was illegally appointed.

The defense next insisted upon the reading of the entire testimony taken by the medical officers. This reading was not completed when court adjourned.

The reading of Mrs. Bergdoll's testimony injected the only light touch in the day's proceeding. Until he was 15 Grover was subjected to "fits" and "made faces," his mother said. He was "easily frightened" and when in that state "desired to run away." Her son had fallen from airplanes, crashed into telegraph poles driving racing cars, and had his head nearly severed by a wire while racing on the automobile speedway at the San Francisco World Exhibition.

When Grover was 17 and preparing for his entrance examinations for the University of Pennsylvania, his mother said, he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment following an automobile accident. His tutors visited him in jail, where he continued his studies. Grover learned to chew tobacco while in jail, his mother said.

Mrs. Bergdoll testified that her son had an allowance of $5,000 a year until he came of age in order that he would become accustomed to the handling of money when he inherited $800,000 from his father's estate. He demonstrated his capability of managing his own affairs, his mother thought, despite his sanity having been questioned by his elder brother, Charles A. Bergdoll, who sought to prevent Grover's right to administer his legacy. The court declared Grover sane, whereupon his brother changed his name to Charles A. Brown.

Frightened by Summonses.

Mrs. Bergdoll said her son always acted in a rational manner except when frightened. Frequent summonses to appear in court to answer charges of "speeding" in his racing car "frightened" him and often he ran away. He told his mother that he was being persecuted by the authorities because he had money. Mrs. Bergdoll said that policemen shot at her son when racing over the Ardmore Road, and this made him "nervous."

Bergdoll also had two airplanes, his mother said, and he was working on a new aviation motor which he wanted to turn over to the Government. Once he fell from a plane and landed on his head, but was unhurt.

Mrs. Bergdoll testified that her son was "frightened away" when he heard that he was going to be arrested as a deserter shortly after he failed to appear before his draft board. Last Spring she received postcards from Bergdoll saying he would return soon, because "he could not be punished after peace was signed." When the armistice was signed Mrs. Bergdoll said that her son returned and took her to ride and that they made a stop in front of the Philadelphia City Hall, where they talked for an hour without being molested despite the fact that Federal officials were searching the country for Bergdoll.

After her son was arrested Mrs. Bergdoll noticed more irrational behavior. "He tells me to get counsel, to get good lawyers, and he keeps changing them," she said. "He keeps wanting more lawyers; that looks irrational to me."

This brought a roar of laughter from the court and spectators, and Bergdoll grinned at his civilian counsel, Harry Weinberger of New York and E. C. Gibboney of Philadelphia.

Thomas C. Furrey, who worked with Grover and his brother Erwin, who is still being sought as a draft dodger and who was a celebrated racing automobile driver, testified, the report showed, that Grover Bergdoll had an "unreasonable fear of going to jail" and that he was a man who made the most solemn promises and then failed to keep them."

GENEVA, March 3.—The Congress of Red Cross Societies in session here today authorized the administration department of the International Red Cross League to proceed at once with a world-wide scheme of preparedness for disasters.

The plan contemplates a Red Cross disaster organization in every community, composed of a group of representative men and women. The resources at the disposal of the various committees would be tabulated and everything placed in readiness for instant use in the event of trouble.

Each organization, under the plan suggested, would include physicians, nurses, social workers, canteen workers, motor corps, a number of business men and supplies of cots, blankets, cooking utensils, hospital facilities and food.

Straightforward Language

A thought will speed faster in simple, straightforward language than in a lengthy elaboration. Advertisers in The New York Times, when preparing their announcements, are requested to be concise. Economy of space will aid in relieving pressure on the advertising columns and assist in preventing the frequent omission of advertisements.

Today it is necessary to omit 38 columns of advertising.

LOWDEN MEN ACTIVE.

Will Fight Wood Throughout Illinois—Primary Petitions Close.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 4.—It became evident along "Presidential Row" at the Congress Hotel today that the attempt of General Leonard Wood's local managers to line up the State Congressional delegation in support of his candidacy had induced Lowden supporters to wage their campaign throughout the State.

The campaign will be along definite lines, according to Thomas D. Knight, one of the Lowden lieutenants.

"We intend to place the issue squarely before the voters of Illinois," he said. "We will ask them whether they prefer a military man in the White House or a business man with the administrative record that Governor Lowden has made in Illinois."

Wood headquarters was cheered by reports from Indiana that the General had taken a commanding lead among the party voters.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 4.—Time for candidates to file petitions for the Illinois primaries of April 13 expired tonight, and the field closed with General Wood and Governor Lowden, the only Republican Presidential candidates on the ballot, and Governor Edwards of New Jersey the lone Democrat.

GOETHALS ON JERSEY TUBES

General Advocates Concrete Tunnels in Address Before Commission.

The New York and New Jersey Tunnel Commission held a public hearing yesterday in the City Hall in Newark at which the merits of different types of tubes for connecting New York and Jersey City were discussed. Commissioner T. Albeus Adams, of the New Jersey Commission, presided. After Clifford M. Holland, consulting engineer of the commission, had explained the advantages of twin tubes of cast iron, General George W. Goethals spoke in advocacy of shield driven tunnels of concrete block.

"The statements that have appeared in the press that concrete is not a suitable material for tunnel building is not supported by the facts," he said. "Tunnels have been constructed of this material, and now, after years, they show no deteriation. It is claimed that sewage will affect the concrete, but sewage overlies the concrete and cannot penetrate through the silt."

After discussing durability and strength, General Goethals gave as an additional reason for using concrete instead of iron that the former would mean a saving of $10,000,000.

St. John Clarke, a consulting engineer of New York, spoke in favor of the use of reinforced concrete.

TYPHUS PERIL IN POLAND.

American Jewish Relief Funds Give $100,000 to Help Fight It.

Poland is confronted with "the worst typhus fever epidemic in the history of the world," according to a cable message received yesterday by the American Relief Administration from Colonel Gilchrist, U. S. Army Medical Corps, head of the American anti-typhus expedition.

"Unless blotted out at once," he stated, "the present epidemic will threaten all Europe. The Polish Government is doing its best to meet the emergency, but it is crippled by lack of money and sanitary supplies."

Upon receipt of this information, the joint distribution committee for all-American Jewish relief funds, instructed its representatives in Warsaw to expend $100,000 for coal to be used in starting disinfecting plants in the typhus zone, as requested by Colonel Gilchrist. It was also announced that Dr. Harry Plotz of New York, an authority on typhus, would leave for Poland next week to take charge of the campaign against the disease.

MARRIED SEVENTY YEARS.

Aged New Jersey Couple Are Healthy and Active.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Demarest of Spring Lake Farm, Wyckoff, N. J., celebrated their seventieth wedding anniversary yesterday. Mr. Demarest is 92 years old and his wife is 89. Both are in excellent health. Mrs. Demarest helps her daughter with the household work, and her husband is out of doors most of the time when the weather permits.

The Demarests, who were born in Northern New Jersey, have two children living, six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

PLOT TO HALT VICE RING PROSECUTION

The District Attorney's Office Learns of Threats Made Against Informers.

MAN 'HIGHER UP' IS SOUGHT

Sixteen Policemen and 500 Persons Involved—Two Women Held as Witnesses.

The investigation by the District Attorney's office of allegations concerning the relations between police officers and notorious women broadened in scope yesterday to take in sixteen persons, including detectives in the Third as well as Fourth Inspection Districts. Two women detained as material witnesses were held in $5,000 bail.

Efforts have been made to tamper with witnesses, according to Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, in charge of the investigation. One prospective witness has been threatened with dire punishment if he aided the District Attorney, Mr. Smith said. As soon as he made his disclosures the prosecutor asserted, the machinery was set in motion tending to thwart his investigation.

The new system of graft that has sprung up in recent years, it was said at the District Attorney's office, is much worse than the one that existed in the days of Chief of Police William J. Devery.

Mr. Smith has been greatly handicapped in his investigation of the relation between the underworld and the police since the demotion of Inspector "Honest Dan" Costigan and the dispersal of his expert vice squad.

Apartments Under Investigation.

The investigators believe that 500 apartments in the west side districts are used for unlawful purposes and are certain that not one could remain open twenty-four hours without the connivance of "plain clothes" men. These apartments, it was said, are maintained on Central Park West and Riverside Drive, and extravagant rentals are paid. The patrons are supplied from customers of well-known restaurants and hotels.

"The old system is at work," said one of the investigators yesterday. "Additional indictments are expected early next week. Those under investigation are detectives, bondsmen, a lawyer and one man 'higher up.'

Jenny Carello and "Pretty" Daly, detained early yesterday morning as material witnesses in the case against Detective John J. Gunson, indicted for bribery and extortion, were held in $500 bail by Judge Malone in General Sessions yesterday. They were committed to the House of Detention in lieu of bail.

Mr. Smith said both girls were important witnesses against Gunson. Miss Carello, he stated, was a witness to a robbery where Gunson and his partner scared off a victim. Miss Daly he said, was worth $75,000 and was needed to appear against Gunson and also the man "higher up." Both women denied to reporters that they knew Gunson or anything about him.

Rebecca Melyado, complainant against Gunson, described in further detail yesterday in the District Attorney's office the alleged methods used by detectives and their women companions.

If a girl desired to free herself from a charge, she said, she approached the officer, who directed her to a lawyer. If the officer or patrolman knew her she would have to give her bank book as security. When her case came up in the Magistrate's court the officer would testify so that the case was in her favor. After her discharge, accompanied by the lawyer, she would go to the bank, withdraw $500, or nearly that amount, and would give it to the lawyer. If she were not known to the lawyer and detective she would have to pay cash in advance. Generally the fee was $500. The understanding then was that she would not be arrested for two months. It was estimated by those who preyed on the women that two months was sufficient time in which to accumulate a balance of $500.

Trying to Hamper Officials.

Hardly had the word gone through the underworld that the District Attorney's officers were investigating the vice situation than on last Tuesday three men called at the Great Meadows Prison, representing themselves as having been sent by a New York Judge, and asked to see Nat Seiler. Seiler was sentenced to four years by Judge Nott in 1917 for grand larceny. He was witness in the cases of William Enright and David Foley, policemen accused of extortion, who were discharged. The men told Seiler that it was his duty to send a warning to the underworld that a harsh fate would meet any one who aided the District Attorney in any way on the present investigation. Mr. Smith is looking into the identity of these men.

Mrs. Melyado, who was said to be "Billy" Howard, involved in a case several years ago in which a patrolman and a young girl figured, said that when she returned to this city in June, 1918, after a visit to the West, she met Detective Gunson on the street with his wife. The detective told her, the woman asserted, that Gunson swore she was the only woman he loved and he suggested that they slip out of New York and sail for London. His proposal, according to Mrs. Melyado, was that he would visit a shore resort, deposit his clothes, police badge, club and revolver in a room and then dress in another room. It would be assumed that he had been drowned and the two could go to London. She said she did not look with favor on the idea, because Gunson had no established business. He also wanted her $3,000 diamond ring, and a quarrel followed when she refused to give it to him.

"I can give a perfect description of him," she added. "He wears 16 size shirts and 9 size shoes."

Mrs. Melyado said she left her husband to become the companion of the detective. Just before their quarrel, the young woman declared, Gunson advised her to jump her bail. She did so and thereafter in spite of the fact that he saw her thirty-five times, he did not arrest her until after the quarrel. This time bail was fixed at $2,000. The case is pending.

District Attorney Swann said the Gunson case was an individual one and should not reflect on the police force generally.

"It is a grave injustice to thousands of excellent men in the department to have it suggested that any but a very few are involved in the charges made by these women, and they are men of no importance on the force. I think the department as a whole is doing excellent work. When they are criticised for not apprehending persons for many crimes committed in this city, we should consider that desperate crimes are being committed all over the world, and since the war, crime waves have occurred in all the cities of the world, especially crimes of great boldness and audacity."

May Urge Resuming War Control Over Oil; Bids Fall Far Below Needs of Shipping Board

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Failure of the Shipping Board to obtain bids for even a small proportion of the oil fuel needed for its ships during the year beginning April 1 brought the suggestion tonight that President Wilson might be urged to invoke his war powers to meet the situation. Restoration of full Federal control over the oil industry might be necessary, it was said.

Shipping Board officials said the fuel situation was "very serious." On proposals for 24,000,000 barrels they received today bids on 1,500,000 at prices ranging from 76 to 90 per cent. higher than last year. Existing contracts will expire within the next three weeks, and at no point has the board a reserve supply for more than a few days. Chairman Payne is expected to make a special report to President Wilson.

"Market conditions," was the explanation given by practically every important oil producer. Several companies asserted their production for the year was already covered by contracts, in one case, with shipping firms operating Federal-owned bottoms.

Some producers said the situation could be traced to unsettled conditions in the Tampico fields, the principal sources of supply where recent Mexican decrees restricting operators had forced the companies to exercise extreme caution in contracting for future delivery.

GREAT BLIZZARD REACHES CHICAGO

Storm, Coming On from the Rocky Mountains, Sweeps Over Wide Territory.

BIG DROPS IN TEMPERATURE

Dallas Has 50-Degree Fall in 12 Hours—Many Towns in Mountains Cut Off by Slides.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Driving snow and sleet ushered in at noon to-day the blizzard which has been sweeping the country to the west of Chicago for the past twenty-four hours. Eastward from the Rocky Mountains, the storm has left a trail of blocked railroads and crippled systems of communication.

In this city railroad, street car and vehicle traffic was seriously impeded.

At noon the temperature was 36 above. At 10 o'clock tonight it was 20. The Weather Bureau said a minimum of 5 above might be registered by morning.

North and east-bound trans-continental trains arrived three to eight hours late. Telegraph companies reported service from California, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana badly impaired. Snowslides in mountain regions were blamed.

Weather conditions in the Middle States improved somewhat tonight and the storm at midnight centred over Lake Huron. Relief is expected in the Central States on Friday, with a moderating temperature by Saturday. In the Northwest, however, the cold will not moderate to any great extent for the next two or three days, the weather forecast said.

Silverton, Colo., was reported without train service since Feb. 26, on account of storms, but the telephone messages said there was no suffering, as inhabitants had prepared for such an emergency. Railroad officials put rotary snow plows to work and expected to reach Silverton by Saturday. Trains on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad were reported to be from two to fourteen hours late, on account of the snow in the mountains.

The blizzard which spread over Nebraska last night abated during the day. The snow ceased falling, but low temperatures prevailed over most of the State.

The storm which swept Wichita County, Texas, caused damage to the Burk Burnett oil fields of about $150,000. Fifty oil derricks were blown down and seven persons slightly injured.

Muskegon, Mich., reports that after a heavy rain a terrific blizzard started, with the thermometer dropping from 40 degrees this morning at 10 o'clock to 2 above zero at 6 o'clock. Traffic was about at a standstill this evening.

The State of Wisconsin, particularly the western and northern sections, found itself in the grip of the worst blizzard of the Winter.

The entire district from the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains, and south to Dallas, Texas, felt the effects of the storm. At Dallas the thermometer dropped 50 degrees in twelve hours, falling from 80 at 3 P. M. yesterday to 2 below freezing at an early hour today, and with a further drop still in prospect.

One death directly attributable to the storm was reported from Farmington, Minn., where two freight trains crashed head-on during the blinding storm. The man killed was riding in an immigrant car.

WOMEN TAKE SIDES IN MARBURY RACE

Committee of 1,000 Favors Her as Delegate—Women Democrats for Mrs. Baright.

Opposition to Miss Elizabeth Marbury as one of the two woman delegates at large to the Democratic National Convention is causing differences among the Democratic women's organizations. The Executive Committee of the Democratic Women's National Campaign Committee of One Thousand, of which Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby is Chairman, has indorsed Miss Marbury. The Women Democrats of America, recently organized by Miss Margaret Vale, yesterday indorsed Mrs. Clarice Baright, who has announced her intention of running in the Democratic primaries against Miss Marbury.

Mrs. Crosby stated that the Women's Democratic Club, of which Mrs. George H. Childs is President, would give a dinner to Miss Marbury at the Hotel Commodore on March 21. Following her indorsement by its Executive Committee, Miss Marbury accepted an invitation to address the Committee of One Thousand at its headquarters, 27 West Eighty-eighth Street, Sunday afternoon.

Petitions for Mrs. Baright were said to be in circulation. Her supporters declared that the requisite number of signatures would be obtained and the petitions filed before the expiration of the legal period next Tuesday night. A statement announcing her indorsement by the Women Democrats of America, issued by Mrs. Henry P. Keith, chairman, and Miss Vale, said:

"We indorse the independent candidacy of Mrs. Clarice Baright for delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention. Miss Marbury is not acceptable to the women of New York as their representative.

"Mrs. Baright is a reputable lawyer and her activity in woman suffrage and charitable work qualifies her to represent the womanhood of New York. This will be a fight to a finish in protest against the methods used in Miss Marbury's selection."

Mrs. Crosby stated that the dinner to Miss Marbury was not to be considered as having been arranged as an offset to the dinner to Miss Harriet May Mills, the other woman candidate for the Democratic "Big Four" by the Democratic Women of the Seventeenth Senatorial District.

Vermonters Invite Wood to Speak.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 4.—The Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee, at a meeting here tonight, voted to call the State convention for the selection of delegates to the national convention at Montpelier on May 26. It was announced that Major Gen. Leonard Wood would address the convention.

WOOD AT BUFFALO PLEADS FOR ARMY

Urges Support of the Plan to Combine Military Service and Vocational Training.

DELIVERS SIX ADDRESSES

He Now Goes to New Hampshire, Returning to New York After South Dakota Campaign.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, March 4.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood, candidate for the Republican nomination for President, made his first appeal today to the men and women of Buffalo. In the course of a strenuous day he made six speeches, in which he emphasized the things that he believes should be done for the United States. He was received everywhere with enthusiasm, and his Erie County managers express confidence tonight that he has more than an even chance of winning the support of a large part of the Republican voters of the city and county.

At the Republican Club meeting in the Hotel Statler tonight one of the speakers referred to the fact that General Wood during the day had not once uttered a word of unkind criticism against the Administration at Washington. Neither did he attack any of the three other leading candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination.

"Leonard Wood," said Colonel A. C. Goodyear, one of General Wood's principal supporters in this section of New York, "is standing on his own feet. He is making a clean, manly fight, and if he gets the nomination, as I believe he will, it will have been won without resort to any cheap politics or hitting-below-the-belt tactics."

General Wood's first speech was delivered shortly after his arrival to the women of the Twentieth Century Club. His second speech was on the subject of good citizenship, and his audience was 1,700 Buffalo school boys and girls. Later, he addressed members of the Chamber of Commerce, and then the Rotarians at luncheon. In the afternoon he spoke to business men, and tonight he closed his day as the guest of the Republican Club of Buffalo.

In his talks to the business men and to the members of the Republican Club, General Wood emphasized the necessity of spreading the war burden over a much greater period than is now contemplated. He advocated a policy of the square deal on the part of capital and labor, reiterated his previously expressed views in favor of a thoroughly Americanized League of Nations, and the prompt ratification of the treaty of peace as soon as it is properly amended. He again stated his conviction that some day the country must adopt a sane and rational system of universal service in which vocational training shall play the most important part.

Talking at the Chamber of Commerce General Wood devoted practically all of his time to an appeal to his hearers to back up the War Department in its efforts to combine military training with useful vocational work.

"In order to carry out this policy," General Wood said, "we want your support in filling up the army. The idea in this country, as I understand it, is not to have a large standing army. We do not believe in it. We do not need it. We need one large enough for the needs of the nation. We want it to be as good as we can make it. We want it free from any taint of Prussianism. We want it officered by officers who understand the basic qualities which characterize a really good officer."

General Wood received no heartier welcome than that accorded him by the boys and girls of the Hutchinson High School.

"No matter where you serve or in what capacity that service is rendered," General Wood told them, "always serve to the very best of your ability. At all times be an American. There is room for but one flag and one government in this great country of ours, and the future of America rests with you, for you are the men and women of tomorrow."

On his return from South Dakota a few weeks hence General Wood expects to resume his campaign in New York State. His next speeches will be in his native State of New Hampshire, where the first Presidential primaries will be held next week.

FOR EDWARDS AS PRESIDENT

Osceola Club Applauds Governor's Attack on Prohibition.

Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey was hailed as the next President of the United States, and his wife, who accompanied him, was greeted as the next "first lady of the land" by nearly 200 members of the Osceola Club, 1,036 Park Avenue, the Tammany organization of the 15th Assembly District, which he addressed last night on the subject of "How and Why He Carried New Jersey." Senator John J. Boylan introduced the Governor as the next President.

Governor Edwards said there were some people who would convince every one else that constitutional prohibition is an accmplished fact and that the situation cannot be affected by anything that is done.

"Notwithstanding their views and desires," he asserted, "those persons will soon know that the people will discuss, will consider and will take steps, all within the law, to remedy the situation now prevailing."

Speeches indorsing what Governor Edwards had done and proposed to do were made by Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon and Maurice B. Blumenthal, President of the Osceola Club.

Pennsylvania Campaign for Palmer.

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—The campaign of Attorney General Palmer in Pennsylvania for the Democratic nomination for President was formally launched here tonight when former Representative Bruce F. Sterling of Uniontown issued a statement accepting the State Chairmanship of the Palmer Campaign Committee. Mr. Sterling left for Philadelphia, where he said he expected to announce tomorrow a compaign committee for the Attorney General with a member for every Congressional district in the State.

REPORT POINDEXTER QUITS OREGON FIGHT

Wood Leaders Pleased with Virtual Withdrawal of Senator in Western State.

STAND BY MOSES ESTIMATE

Claim of 300 Votes on First Ballot Repeated—New Hampshire to Welcome General.

Word was received from Chicago yesterday at the local headquarters of Major Gen. Leonard Wood, candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, that Senator Poindexter of the State of Washington had practically given up the fight against General Wood in Oregon and had closed his headquarters in that State. It was announced that General Wood will tour Oregon some time during April. The State has ten delegates and they will be chosen at a primary election on May 21.

The Wood managers expressed gratification at the news of the withdrawal of Senator Poindexter from the Oregon field. They said it served to substantiate the claim of Senator Moses, Wood manager for the Southern States, that General Wood would have 300 delegates on the first ballot in the Republican National convention. Representative Norman J. Gould, Eastern manager of the Wood campaign, said that each day he is in receipt of telegrams showing that Senator Moses's claim will be more than fulfilled.

A statement regarding General Wood's activities for the coming week was issued, which says in part:

"Following his address in Buffalo Wednesday night, General Wood's next speaking engagement in the East is at Manchester, N. H., tomorrow night. The nearer Wood approaches New Hampshire the stronger grow the assurances that the Commonwealth in which he was born will send a solid delegation of eight to Chicago pledged to stick to him through thick and thin at the convention June 8.

"General Wood's appearance in the East follows a most flattering and gratifying tour of a section of Michigan, where he was lionized by gigantic crowds. At Detroit 2,000 persons were unable to gain admittance to the speaking place."

A meeting of women supporters of General Wood was held yesterday at the residence of Miss Alice Hill Chittenden, 121 Madison Avenue. The gathering was addressed by John H. Iselin and Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard, following which questions were asked by the women and a general discussion of General Wood's qualifications for the Presidency ensued. Eleven women present agreed to hold parlor meetings at their homes in the immediate future. At each of these meetings five other women will be asked to hold similar meetings and the program will be continued in a sort of endless chain.

At the headquarters of the campaign for Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, it was stated that Henry B. Sutphen, President of the National Association of Engine and Boiler Manufacturers, had written a letter to Dr. Butler in which he said:

"You were on the job at Columbia when you established so effectively a school for the training of engineers to run the engines of the submarine chasers. The manner in which you gave us efficient engineers won the wonder and admiration of us all.

REPUBLICANS FINISH UP-STATE SLATES

Only One Woman Chosen by the Organization for National Convention Delegate.

The Up-state Republicans have practically completed their selection of candidates for delegates and alternates to the Republican national convention in June. They will be voted on at the primary election on April 6 and as they have the support of the organization it is expected that there will be no change in the slate as made up, with the exception of two districts where independent candidates have appeared to contest the organization selections.

The up-State Republicans have followed the lead of the State Committee and have selected only one woman candidate for delegate. She is Mrs. Florence E. C. Knapp, Syracuse, who was a candidate for delegate at large at the unofficial State convention. A number of women alternates were chosen, however, the up-State leaders believing that to be representation enough for the newly enfranchised voters. The delegates selected in the up-State Congressional Districts so far are:

25th District—William L. Ward, Leslie Sutherland.
26th District—Louis F. Payn, Edmund C. Platt.
27th District—Phillip Eltinge.
28th District—William Barnes, Henry M. Sage.
29th District—James S. Parker, Frederick Kavanaugh.
30th District—John Barnes, John Evans.
31st District—Bertrand H. Snell, Ferris Meigs.
32d District—Elon R. Brown, Perry S. Williams.
33d District—Thomas R. Proctor, Homer P. Snyder.
34th District—Lafayette B. Gleason, Lynn J. Arnold (Independent).
35th District—George N. Champlain, Mrs. Florence E. C. Knapp.
36th District—John D. Taylor, George Hoskins.
37th District—John Dwight, Frank Frost.
38th District—George W. Aldrich, James Hotchkiss.
39th District—Archie D. Sanders, Charles D. Newton.
40th District—Frederick Greiner, Conrad E. Wetlaufer.
41st District—George Whitehead, Edwin H. Butler.
42d District—Herbert Sisson, William F. Waldon, Frederick Piersen (Ind.), Edward Hodson (Ind.).
43d District—A. T. Fancher, Joseph McGinniss.

In the First District, which takes in Suffolk and Nassau Counties, on Long Island, the Republicans have selected Harry Lee and Wilbur Doughty. The only contest scheduled so far is in the Thirty-fourth District, which takes in Delaware, Otsego, Chenango and Broome Counties, where former Judge Lynn J. Arnold intends to make a fight against the candidate the organization has yet to pick, and in the Forty-second District, which includes a part of Erie County, where Frederick Pierson and Edward Hodson are out to defeat the organization selection at the polls on primary day.

DROP WADSWORTH CENSURE

Women's Conference at Rochester Criticise, but Beat Resolution.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 4.—During a conference of officers of the New York State League of Women Voters several of those who attended attacked Senator Wadsworth. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, the Chairman, said:

"Our opposition is not solely because of his work against suffrage, but because we have come to the conclusion that the opinions of his State have absolutely no weight with him. He is impenetrable to new ideas. He trails behind public opinion some years instead of leading or forming it.

"The Democratic Party is hoping that Senator Wadsworth will be the candidate of the Republican Party this year. The old-time Republican Party organization is lulling itself with a false sense of security when it figures that all women will vote as do their husbands."

A resolution censuring Senator Wadsworth aroused the ire of Mrs. Sherman A. Clarke, a member of the Monroe County Committee, and it was finally voted down.

Two Army Airmen Are Killed, One in Spin, Other in Storm

RIVERSIDE, Cal., March 4.—Lieutenant Raymond F. Pearson, an army aviator, was killed today at Marsh Field, near Riverside, when his airplane went into a tail spin too near the ground to recover. He had been flying here six months.

Cadet Milton B. Rouse, who was flying with Lieutenant Pearson, escaped with slight bruises.

Lieutenant Pearson was a son of Dr. C. J. Pearson of Erie, Ill. He was to have married a young woman of Erie next month.

SANDERSON, Texas, March 4.—Lieutenant John E. Greer, 23 years old, an aviator from San Antonio, was instantly killed at Watkins yesterday, when a terrific windstorm sent his machine crashing to earth.

WOMEN WILL HOLD G. O. P. RESPONSIBLE

Statement Says It Controls Four States on Which Suffrage Depends.

CHANCE IN WEST VIRGINIA

Vote of Returning Senator Would Give Victory—Delaware Governor Favorable.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The National Woman's Party issued a statement today declaring that the Republican Party must stand prepared to accept the responsibility in the event that nation wide suffrage was withheld.

"If the West Virginia Legislature fails to ratify the suffrage amendment the Republican Party will be responsible, since the majority of that Legislature is Republican," the statement said.

"If West Virginia defeats ratification three more States must be secured. Washington has called a special session for March 22, which will give the thirty-fourth State. The last two must be secured from States in which both Governors and Legislatures are strongly Republican, Delaware, Vermont and Connecticut.

"So far the Governors of these three Republican States have refused to call special sessions. If they continue to refuse, ratification may be delayed until too late for women to vote in the Fall elections. If women are denied the right to vote for the next President and Congress the Republican Party must bear the full responsibility.

"Thirty-three States have already ratified the suffrage amendment. Thirty-six are necessary for final victory."

Still Have Chance in West Virginia.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 4.—West Virginia may still switch to the pro-suffrage column, despite the fact that the State Senate brought about its defeat by a 14 to 14 vote. This probability was strongly expressed tonight by suffrage leaders and received consideration from leaders of the antis.

Suffrage leaders attribute their defeat in the Senate to the absence of Senator Jesse A. Block of Wheeling, admittedly a suffrage adherent, who has been Wintering in California and who did not receive the official call for the extra session of the Legislature in time to get here for the opening. His presence, suffrage leaders assert, would have made the vote 15 to 14 in favor of ratification, the House of Delegates having ratified.

It was stated here tonight by friends of Senator Block that he, in response to the urgent appeal of suffrage leaders, was now on his way to Charleston, and would arrive here within the next few days.

It was announced definitely tonight that the extra session will not adjourn before the middle of next week, proposed legislation to check profiteering being under consideration now. The fourteen suffrage votes are sufficient to thwart any movement to adjourn. While a Senate rule precludes the Senate from voting again upon the suffrage issue, following failure of reconsideration yesterday, this rule can be amended by a majority vote. If Senator Block arrives and lines up with the suffrage forces they will be in power. As one Senator expressed it tonight, "Senator Block appears to hold the fate of suffrage in West Virginia in the hollow of his hand."

Delaware Governor Favorable.

Special to The New York Times.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 4.—Governor Townsend has so far refused to call a special session of the Legislature to act on the woman suffrage amendment. He has told suffragists that he is in favor of votes for women but is not sure of votes enough in the Legislature to ratify the amendment, and until he is sure will not call a special session. The suffragists are still circulating petitions asking for a special session and have offered to raise money to pay the expense.

Governor Holcomb Obdurate.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, March 4.—Woman suffrage stands no more chance today of aid from the Governor of Connecticut than it did months ago or even last week. Governor Holcomb is still opposed to a special session, and although woman suffragists are redoubling their efforts to persuade him that Connecticut has an opportunity to acquire lasting glory by being the thirty-sixth ratifying State, his repeated refusals to call back the Legislature, which is on record as favoring the amendment, will very likely preclude any action until the regular session in January, 1921.

Vermont Governor Unyielding.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 4.—Despite the announcement that Governor Clement will not call an extra session of the Legislature to pass the suffrage amendment, suffrage leaders say that they will continue the fight on the ground that Governor Clement's stand is untenable.

The Governor maintains that such an amendment is in effect an amendment to the State Constitution, and therefore should be submitted to all the voters. Those who know the Governor best say there is no possibility that he will change his attitude.

BENSON OUT OF LEAGUE.

Former Socialist Resigns from Walling Organization.

Allan L. Benson, Socialist nominee for President in 1916, who quit the Socialist Party during the war, has just resigned from the Social Democratic League, it became known yesterday. Mr. Benson's resignation followed soon after that of John Spargo, who recently accused William English Walling, head of the league, with trying to use the league to support his own personal theories. Unlike Mr. Spargo, Mr. Benson said he was friendly to Mr. Walling and quit the league becuse he no longer had an interest in it.

"The league has frequently given out statements with which I did not agree," he said. "My name was not signed to them, but usually the newspapers which printed them contained a reference to me as one of the organizers of the league. I have no grievance. I resigned because I considered it inadvisable to remain a member of an organization in which I was not active."

PALMER DEPLORES TREATY DELAY

Says in Speech at Washington Failure to Ratify Retards Reconstruction.

PLEADS FOR PEACE AT HOME

Sole Reliance for Redress of Grievances Must Rest on Orderly Processes of Law.

CAPITAL AT LABOR'S FEET

Machinery Needed to Present Claims of Both Sides to Judgment of Public Opinion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Appearing tonight before the National Press Club in the role of a Presidential candidate, Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer backed up the contentions made so frequently by President Wilson that reconstruction problems were being retarded by failure of the Senate to ratify the Peace Treaty.

Mr. Palmer also reviewed the industrial unrest. He supported the action taken by the Government in the recent coal strike but held that it was practicable to bring about a condition where public opinion would force a fair settlement in disputes that were of such proportions as to threaten public welfare. The task, he said, was to create machinery which would make a trial by public opinion possible.

The arrogance of capital, which in the past often was used to grind down labor, the Attorney General said, had been broken down, and during the last year capital had to plead on its knees with labor the right to settle its differences by arbitration.

The address was the first which Attorney General Palmer has made since he formally announced his candidacy and stated that he would enter the primaries in Georgia, Michigan and possibly other States.

Aim of Reconstruction Problems.

"Nearly all our so-called reconstruction problems," said Mr. Palmer, "reflect the searching of men for the proper application of a new standard of justice which the great war, with its far-reaching effects, has made it easier for us to see and comprehend. The first essential prerequisite to the proper treatment of these problems is peace.

"So far as development of industry in the United States is dependent upon our relations with the rest of the world, that development is, of course, retarded by the failure to ratify the Peace Treaty.

"We cannot hope to settle after-war problems in wartimes. They are the problems of peace and we must have peace inside the United States.

"We cannot hope to work out the means by which the desire of men to live by the new standards of justice may be achieved unless we make certain that there shall be none of the resentment and confusion created by disorder, disobedience to law and attempts, open or secret, to change our form of government by physical force or violence.

"While we are working on our problems a condition must be maintained in the country which is in harmony with the intent of the fathers when they drafted the immortal preamble to the Constitution. It was 'common' defense and 'general' welfare which lay close to their hearts. They intended to frame a government in which selfishness and greed should have no part, but in which the rights of all should be equally respected. To make sure of this, the laws must be obeyed and force must be neither used nor threatened. The sole reliance for the redress of grievances and the improvement of conditions for every class must be found in the orderly processes of the law.

Justice to Labor Required.

"There are many in the ranks of labor who have been ground down in un-American fashion by conscienceless employers and whose path upward—which they are entitled by every American precedent to tread—is made rocky and difficult. In many industries labor has not received its proper share of the product of the money and labor which together constitute the capital in every industry, and until means are devised by which that share shall be guaranteed to labor by peaceful and orderly methods unrest, discontent and occasional violence will mark the struggle for exact justice and equal rights.

"The most pressing need of the hour, to stabilize the industrial situation, is to build a machinery which will give to both employer and employe the facts surrounding their relations with each other. There need be no restriction of the rights of men to strike and no compulsory arbitration of difference if provision is made for the great American public to be advised of all the facts in relation to every dispute in the industrial world so large as to affect in its consequences a considerable portion of the public. Public opinion is the only monarch in this country and informed public opinion will always secure justice to both sides in industrial controversies.

"By slow but decisive process the arrogance of capital in this country has been broken. But now we see in many lines labor grown strong, so powerful that it sometimes threatens to become arrogant, and during the past year capital has had to plead upon its knees to labor for a chance to be heard and the right to have its difficulties with labor arbitrated. I think the shame of it all is that in all these years of progress along all lines in America we have not yet reached the point where neither capital nor labor can or dare become autocratic or deny each other a hearing.

"It is a shame that labor was ever forced to the necessity of taking the strong stand which it has been compelled to take for its own advancement. Labor conditions in the United States are better than in any other nation of the earth, and it is due to labor that this is true. It has been the unremiting demand of organized labor for higher wages and better living conditions that has brought the workingman to his high estate in America.

"And now that both capital and labor understand each other, recognize each other's power, and grant each others right to be and to be heard, which after all is exactly what the Government tried to impress upon both sides in the coal strike, the thing to do in the public interest is build the machnery which will make it possible for both sides to have their claims presented to the public."

Sharp Rise of Foreign Exchange Stimulates Stocks and Commodities.

Without showing preliminary indications, the foreign exchange, stock, cotton and grain markets suddenly advanced yesterday afternoon and maintained their strength to the close of business. The pivot of the swing forward was sterling exchange which, at the maximum quotation, recorded a rise of 14 cents to the pound, as compared with the final quotation the day before. Clearly, so extensive an improvement in a single session of dealings indicated the presence of new influences in the exchange market. Bankers in position to know intimately the financial plans of British and French leaders were noncommittal in discussing underlying factors at work in the exchanges, but the Street was convinced that a movement of gold from Europe to the United States was, at least, under contemplation. It was likely that speculators in exchange sensed the drift of quotations soon after they began to move upward and purchases for the sake of profit had a part in afternoon dealings. Offerings of bills were light, as they had been for a week previously, and this tended to impart a volatile quality to the market. Franc rates climbed and other exchanges reflected in positive fashion the unusual movement of London prices.

Industrial stocks of the groups which appeal particularly to traders scored net gains amounting to 2 and in some instances to 3 and 4 points. While these were advancing, however, the rails disclosed a decided lack of interest and the comment of brokerage offices emphasized the uncertain situation of sentiment in respect to them. This attitude merely denoted that speculators and investors alike are chary of acting in the railway stocks before particular sections of the Railroad law are interpreted by authority or put into practical operation. Doubtless, much of the stimulus within the oil, steel, automobile and other active issues came from the covering of short stock and the share which this influence took in the afternoon dealings was attributed to the call money rate as well as to the foreign exchanges. Standing demand loans were renewed at 9 per cent. instead of the 10 per cent. quotation of other days of the week, and subsequently funds were in supply sufficient to maintain the renewal rate all the way along. The slight easing of call money was explained in several ways, all to the satisfaction of the eager trader. From one point of view, deposits were being built up at New York by corporations making ready for their income tax payments, and as this money would not be paid out until around March 15 it would tend in the meantime to expand call loan supplies and bring rates down. From another, large tax payments already made were being distributed among the banks by the Treasury and this process would increase call money offerings. Time money rates stood stiffly at 8 and 9 per cent.

It may be that later considerations of yesterday's business in the markets will show that speculative operations, centred chiefly in short covering purchases, had more to do with price movements than the urge of a real economic force. At the same time that possible gold imports were being discussed the outward flow of the metal from New York was expanded through the shipment of more than $16,000,000 to South America and the expectation that around $10,000,000 would probably go next week. If England and France send gold it is expected to come in relatively small lots, having as its primary purpose the preparation for the Anglo-French bond maturity in the Autumn. What is believed in well-informed circles to be of much importance in directing financial sentiment is the recent dissipation of pessimism over the general European situation, a development aided not a little by the constructive ideas in respect to industrial needs of Central Europe which have come from the Supreme Council dealing with matters of the Peace Treaty.

Sterling sight drafts closed at 3.55¾, compared with a maximum quotation of 3.60. Francs were 39 points higher when business ended than the day before, after showing a greater gain earlier in the afternoon. A reaction was not surprising after so violent a rise.

Declare Common Stock Dividend.

The Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation has declared an initial quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock, payable April 15, to stock of record of April 5. A statement made yesterday by the company said: "The improvements in the physical property of the corporation and the accumulation of working capital since the organization of the corporation in April, 1916, have now proceeded to an extent to warrant the declaration of an initial quarterly dividend on the common stock."

SEES POUND PITTED AGAINST DOLLAR

Paris Temps Thus Interprets Economic Program of Supreme Council.

LONDON AS CREDIT CENTRE

Success of Lloyd George's Plan, It Says, Would Restore Old-Time Supremacy.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 4.—In its leading article tonight The Temps, which generally speaks for the French Foreign Office, discusses the European economic program as drafted in London, principally by Premier Lloyd George, as representing a battle for supremacy between the dollar and the pound sterling—the economic fight between America on the one side and England, with the other European nations marshalled behind her, on the other.

The article is obviously an attempt to play off America against England. It is the first time in the many months of diplomatic negotiations that any such attempt has been made in Paris.

It is well known that the European economic program calling for aid to Germany and to Russia was carried through by England, with Italy's help. France will probably accept it because she does not know what else to do. It is then very significant that The Temps should point out that the success of the London program would be to restore London as the world's credit centre. It compares the coming fight between the dollar and the pound sterling to the coming rivalry between the American and British fleets, and expresses the hope that both rivalries may remain friendly.

"The economic reconstruction of Germany and the re-establishment of European prosperity, tasks which the Supreme Council considers rightly as inseparable, are before all questions of credit," says The Temps, "and all great questions of credit are dominated by the competition of the dollar and the pound sterling, just as all great political questions of the world are dominated by the prospect of naval rivalry between Great Britain and the United States.

"France ardently desires that this competition and this rivalry may never cease to be friendly. The 'Atlantic Alliance' remains our ideal. The French Government has even concluded, in order to protect herself against eventual German aggression, agreements which presuppose permanent accord between England and America. That is why we must not seek to say anything against anybody in the statement we set forth today. That is solely intended to clear up the situation, so that one can arrive more certainly at the end which is sought.

"According to the manner in which European credit is restored, the pound sterling will have a greater or less chance of returning to par rapidly, and London will take her place more or less quickly, which she held before the war, as regulator of world exchange.

"The Americans have proposed to send certain raw materials to Europe on credit on condition that a sort of privilege over the articles manufactured from these materials be given them. Germany is ready to conclude such engagements, unless we are mistaken.

"If this American program is realized on a large scale what will be the result? American producers will directly provide the manufacturers of European countries, where, thanks to the rate of exchange, labor remains much cheaper than in America. They will make Europe work for them at a cheap rate. That would be a great advantage for the country of the dollar.

"Things would have a very different appearance if the European nations, victorious and conquered, belligerent and neutral, should group themselves under the leadership of England to reconstitute their economic life among themselves. Credits would be asked of neutrals, who would find profitable employment for their gold. There would always be the security of the labor of the indebted countries, but this security would no longer be security for American creditors. Further, foodstuffs and raw materials would be sought in Russia. Is Russia capable of providing them? That is another matter. But the exchange market might anticipate realities. At the mere news that Europe was organizing herself to do without the United States the dollar would fall.

"American credit and the financial organization of Europe are not really incompatible remedies. It is even natural to consider them concurrently. Only, it is also natural that the meeting held in London should see the situation from London's point of view. When the Supreme Council deliberated on the economic reconstruction of Germany it did not conceive this operation in the attitude with which Great Britain regards the economic future of Europe.

"We believe that it would be wise to suggest these principles:

"1—Germany can recover only if she discharges her reparations debt, and, reciprocally, Germany [France?] ought to help the economic rehabilitation of Germany if she proves she is ready to behave with good faith and good-will.

"2—Europe cannot recover her prosperity if any monopoly either of trade or transportation lays tribute on the indebted countries. One of the principal cares of the International Financial Conference, when it is convoked by the League of Nations, ought to be to assure to each country independent means of provision and of transport which correspond to its legitimate needs."

STEEL SPRING EARNINGS.

Annual Report Shows Surplus of $3,194,353.

The annual report of the Railway Steel Spring Co. shows a surplus, after all charges and Federal taxes, of $3,194,353. This is equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $16.16 a share on the common stock. In the preceding year the earnings available for dividends were $3,428,099, or the equal, after preferred requirements, of $18.37 a share on the common. The present report makes no mention of gross earnings, expenses, depreciation and the like. The appropriation for Federal taxes is $1,200,000, as compared with $4,500,000 in the preceding year. After dividends there was a surplus of $1,169,353, which added to previous surplus brings the total surplus up to $11,532,004.

In speaking of operations during 1919, F. F. Fitzgerald, the President, says:

"Taking into consideration the period of adjustment from a war to a peace time basis, the results from operations during the year were satisfactory. During the early part of the year 1919 the production of the company was large, due mainly to orders for material for export received during the latter part of the previous year. There was a falling off in new business during this period, which was reflected in a reduced production for the last half of the year. Before the end of the year 1919 there was a marked improvement in domestic and some improvement in foreign business, which still continues. Furthermore, there is every indication that large orders for locomotives, passenger cars and freight cars will be placed during the present year, in which business your company will participate. With the substantial orders now on our books and the favorable outlook, it would appear that the results from operations for 1920 will be very good."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Gold Imports.

The stock market was quick to reflect yesterday the report that England and France were about to begin sending gold here to help to meet the Anglo-French bonds maturing next October. Talk in the financial district in recent weeks has had to do almost entirely with the subject of gold exports and it was a bit refreshing to find that there was a possibility that gold might be coming into rather than going out of the country. To a stock market that has been suffering from reiteration of the fact that there is a tense credit situation the news was a tonic, and without awaiting confirmation there was a hurry of shorts to cover, with prices moving up rapidly in the last hour. In addition to the drawing in of short commitments there was some buying for long account on the part of those who have been waiting for several days for the market to give some evidence of a turn from the downward trend that has prevailed before taking a position on the long side. It was natural that the rumors should find their greatest reflection in the industrial shares since it is among these stocks that the greatest pressure of short selling has been applied.

Steel Common Gains.

The junior shares of the United States Steel Corporation were in better demand yesterday than for a number of days. The net gain amounted to 2¼ points, an advance of substantial proportions compared with the upturns during rallies which have come now and then in recent markets. The stock closed at 97¼, which was the high for the day. The weakness in Steel common has been one of the puzzling features of the market. Usually the shares are strong even when pronounced weakness develops elsewhere in the list. The strong asset position of the stock is so well known that under anything like normal conditions there is a good demand for the shares on all recessions. The weakness that prevailed up to yesterday was therefore surprising, especially as the steel industry is booming and the menace of a car shortage is being alleviated.

Baldwin Shorts Cover.

The strength of the Baldwin locomotive shares was shown in yesterday's market by an advance of more than three points. Considering the weakness of the industrial group as a whole in recent trading, the strength of Baldwin has been an outstanding feature. With the first bit of favorable news, the stock moved up quickly. There is a difference of opinion as to the extent of the short interest in Baldwin. There is no question that it was large at one time, but whether it has withdrawn is the moot question. The upturn of yesterday would appear to indicate on the surface that there were still a large number of shorts. The possibility of a stock dividend decision by the Supreme Court has again come forward as a strengthening influence for the Baldwin shares.

General Motors.

General Motors led the automobile shares yesterday with a gain of 4½ points. The E. I. du Pont report shows that this company increased its holdings of General Motors during 1919. At the end of 1918 the du Pont interests controlled 27.6 per cent. of the stock, and on Dec. 31, 1919, the holdings were 30.29 per cent. The du Pont holdings now total about 450,000 shares. It was asserted in the du Pont annual report that General Motors will show earnings of about $37 a share in 1919.

Money and Reserves.

Money rates eased slightly yesterday, holding at 9 per cent., against the 10 per cent. level of the last few days, but close observers failed to extract any great comfort from the performance. Announcement that something more than $16,000,000 had been engaged for shipment to South America either the latter part of this or the early part of next week was the disquieting factor, for this gold, it is expected, will come out of the Reserve Bank's stocks of the metal, and to that extent will lower the amount available to be counted as reserve in the week-end statement of condition. As the bank was rather hard put to make its reserve requirements last week, this was considered as unfavorable. However, it is possible that the reserves will make a better showing than is generally expected. The bank still has great possibilities for rediscounting some of its paper with other Federal Reserve Banks.

The Supreme Court on Rate-Making.

In local railroad quarters attention was drawn yesterday to the opinion of the Supreme Court in 1897 in the case of Smyth against Ames as the first establishment of a basis for rate-making. In the decision handed down at that time there was the following: "What the company is entitled to ask is a fair return on the value of that which it employs for public convenience." The new law reads that it is the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to initiate, modify, establish or adjust such rates "so as to produce the results of a fair return on the aggregate value of the properties contained in each rate group."

Interborough Earnings Improve.

January earnings of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company compared with the same month a year ago show marked improvement, according to the company's official income statement which has just been issued. This shows that gross operating revenue increased some $630,480, while the increase in the operating revenue increased $414,448, allowing for an increase in net operating income of $216,042. Gross income for the month is shown to have been $1,423,857, compared with $1,198,662 in January, 1919, which, after interest, rents and other charges, including the Manhattan guarantee amounting to $1,676,596, resulted in a deficit for the month of $252,789, compared with a January, 1919, deficit of $341,957. Operating expenses increased to 64.24 per cent., while 82,094,063 passengers were carried, compared with 71,479,979 in the corresponding month last year.

State and Municipal Bonds.

The output of permanent State and municipal bonds for the month of February showed a marked falling off compared with January, the figures being $39,368,465 and $86,694,726, respectively. However, according to the figures compiled by The Daily Bond Buyer, the month was the most prolific of any February since that of 1915, and, with that exception, the largest of the decade. Speaking of conditions in the market the publication says: "Municipal bonds at the close of the month were selling at the lowest prices on record (there has been a further fall since then) the issues of the larger cities offering a tax exempt return on the investment so large as to compel attention." One reason for the falling off in offerings, it is stated, is the fact that in many cases the law requires that bonds be sold for not less than par, and in order to secure this price many new authorizations at higher rates than originally contemplated were found necessary, with consequent delay in making the formal offerings.

Rails Move Forward Again.

The low priced rails were not entirely alone in their forward movement yesterday after the reaction on Wednesday. It was the opinion in some quarters that lower prices were brought about by profit-taking sales, and the professionals and those who took profits were back in the market again yesterday after having decided that the reaction had been healthy. Among the higher priced issues which gained ground yesterday along with the so-called junior rails were Southern and Union Pacific, Reading and Louisville & Nashville.

A Suitable Reward for Consistent Thrift

Those who have accumulated funds by saving systematically are justified in considering good mortgage bonds at current prices, as these bonds will produce a larger fixed income than the present generation has been accustomed to obtain from securities of this character.

FIND DEALERS SHORT OF GERMAN BONDS

Many Small Operators Have Contracted to Deliver More Securities Than Exist.

MARK SPECULATION CAUSE

Exchange Fluctuation as Wealth-Gaining Medium Allured Thousands of Americans.

Many small bond dealers throughout the country who have been doing a big business in selling German internal bonds, particularly those of the leading German cities, on the argument that the present depleted value of the German mark offers great promise of gain, are finding themselves in an exceedingly embarrassing position for the reason that they have contracted to deliver to their clients considerably more of the bonds than there are in existence. These dealers, technically speaking, are "short" of the bonds, and most of them are unable to "cover" because the bonds simply are not to be had. The investors who have bought them have thus cornered the market and the dealers are wondering how they are going to extricate themselves from their predicament.

The demand for the German internal bond has been enormous, measured in marks, and large even when measured in dollars. The fall in the exchange rate on Germany, widely advertised as the medium through which untold wealth was to be had, attracted a great many buyers in all parts of the United States and in Great Britain, where the speculation has been quite as heavy as it has been here. When the trading started last Fall German marks were quoted at about 5 cents each, so that for $100 an American could buy 2,000 marks with which to purchase the high grade bonds of the big German cities.

The security looked good to many, and the chance for speculative profit in a rise in exchange was so alluring that thousands of Americans purchased the bonds offered here by clever and quick-witted salesmen. Then, as marks continued to fall, the speculation became greater, and with the added impetus given to it by widespread advertising campaigns, many new buyers came into the market.

Unfortunately for some of the salesmen, their enthusiasm seems to have run away with their business judgment. In a good many cases the business came so fast that they stopped accepting orders on a contingency basis, which is to say that they ceased taking in orders and actually buying the bonds before they closed their contracts with their customers, but began making what bond men call "firm offers"; in other words, agreed to deliver the bonds before they had them in their possession.

The reason for this was that the game looked too good to be passed over. Marks were falling fast and sales made on one day showed the dealers nice profits the very next. Apparently, it did not occur to them to examine the source of supply. There was an unending stream of marks to be had at ridiculously low prices, and the dealers calmly assumed that the supply of bonds was as abundant.

The big and responsible bond houses protected themselves. When they got orders for a certain number of German bonds of a given description they cabled the order to Germany, or to one of the neutral countries, where many of the bonds were, and upon notification that the purchase had been made by their agents they in turn notified their clients. They have nothing to worry over now.

However, the little dealers, or many of them, went merrily ahead making sales. Recently some of them have been trying to get the bonds to turn over to their customers. And the bonds are not to be had. One issue of City of Frankfort 5 per cents., of which there are outstanding 10,000,000 marks, well distributed through Holland and other neutral countries, has attracted purchases in this country alone estimated at something like 30,000,000 marks. In American money at present rates of exchange this issue is worth only about $104,000 at par, but the bonds are offered, nominally, at 200 per cent. of par in Germany, and only a few scattered pieces are to be had, and these usually at great advances above the nominal quotation.

In Germany, as a result of this corner, municipal bonds are selling at unheard-of prices, when they are offered for sale at all. Many of the emissions of the German cities have disappeared entirely from the boerses, and there is said to be a notable scarcity of all high-grade securities, due to the heavy investments of Americans and Englishmen. Local bond dealers say that members of the American Army of Occupation who have come home have gone in for this kind of investment on a large scale. Incidentally, many of their friends and relatives, who have been "tipped off" to the good things by their soldiers, are among those who now want the American dealers who have sold them to make delivery.

Woman Candidate in Westchester.

DOBBS FERRY, N. Y., March 4.—For the second time in the history of Westchester County a woman has been nominated for the office of Tax Collector. Mrs. Agnes Carpenter of Dobbs Ferry today was announced as the candidate of the Democratic and Independent Citizens' tickets. Mrs. Carpenter was active in war work and it was said her nomination was directly due to her record in that service.

INQUIRY ON HAMILTON TRIP.

French Line Will Not Admit Sailing of Bridal Couple.

The reported secret sailing on the steamship Lafayette of the French Line on Thursday a week ago of Laurens Morgan Hamilton, grandson of the late J. P. Morgan, and his bride, the former Mrs. Gertrude Warren, will probably be made the subject of an inquiry by Collector of the Port Newton. The French Line would not admit that the couple had sailed for France.

Ever since the United States passport offices at 2 Rector Street were closed and its business moved to the Custom House it has not been required that passengers should have their passports viséd. Instead, the lines were required to furnish complete lists of their passengers, and these lists were carefully checked up by the Government. The passenger list of the Lafayette, as filed with the Government, does not contain the name of either Mr. Hamilton or his wife, it was said. This fact has aroused the interest of officials at the Custom House.

WHY no investor has ever lost a dollar of principal or interest on any security bought of S.W. Straus & Co.

VII.

Priority of Payment

IN the present era of economic change and uncertainty, truly prudent investors will not lose sight of the fundamental facts presented in the table below. Every investment is either a loan by the investor or a share in a business venture. Under the law a corporation makes payment to its investors according to priority of claim, in the following order:

1. First mortgage bonds—
2. Junior lien obligations—
3. Unsecured debts—
4. Preferred stock—
5. Common stock—

Any security below class one must take its chances in the order named. Any security falling below class three has back of it not even a legal obligation to pay.

For these reasons, we limit our underwritings to first mortgage bonds, which must be paid ahead of all other obligations. Every bond, safeguarded under the Straus Plan, is a direct first mortgage on the property securing it, as well as a first lien on the property's earnings.

We are now offering a well diversified list of first mortgage bonds, netting 6%, with 4% Federal Income Tax paid, in $1,000 or $500 amounts. Call or write to-day and specify

TRADE CERTIFICATES FOR LIBERTY BONDS

Holders of Temporary Vouchers Soon to Receive Government's Permanent Securities.

RESERVE BANK GIVES NOTICE

Holders May Arrange to Make Exchange Through Their Own Banking Institutions.

The Federal Reserve Bank has made arrangements to exchange permanent bonds of the several Liberty and Victory issues for the temporary certificates which were given to subscribers at the time of the flotations. So that there may be no confusion or misunderstanding as to the dates on which these exchanges will be made, the Reserve Bank yesterday issued the following statement:

"Holders of more than $1,000,000,000 in Third Liberty Loan bonds will begin on March 15 the exchange of their present temporary bonds into permanent bonds containing all the coupons to maturity. The exchange in this Federal Reserve district will be under the direction of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, but in most cases the various banking institutions will arrange with the Federal Reserve Bank to secure the permanent bonds in sufficient quantities to make the exchange for their customers.

"Inasmuch as there were more than three million original subscribers to the Third Loan in this district, and a large quantity of bonds issued in the other districts will undoubtedly be exchanged through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the task of issuing the bonds will be large. Holders of $50 and $100 bonds may make their exchanges at the office of the Liberty Loan Association, 19 West Forty-fourth Street, New York, while the great volume of exchanges will be greatly simplified for other bondholders, since they will be able to secure the new bonds through their own bank or trust company without going to the Federal Reserve Bank.

"It is expected that bonds of the first and second loans, both 4 per cent. and 4¼ per cent. issues, will be exchanged for permanent bonds after April 1. In the cases where these bonds will have coupons attached, holders should detach the coupons and hold them until maturity, when they can be cashed in the usual manner. Holders of the 4 per cent. bonds will receive in return 4¼ per cent. bonds of the same loan, with all coupons attached, unless in making the exchange they specifically ask for 4 per cent. bonds in return.

"Holders of the temporary bonds who avail themselves of the assistance of their own banks in effecting the exchanges will present and surrender their present bonds to these institutions with coupons detached. The banks will in turn make the necessary exchanges of 4¼ per cent. bonds for permanent bonds, and will receive the temporary 4 per cent. bonds for conversion and exchange into the permanent 4¼ per cent. bonds. This service will be undertaken by the various banking institutions for their customers without charge.

"The First Liberty Loan 3½ per cent. bonds and the Victory Liberty Loan 3¾ and 4¾ per cent. bonds were issued by the Government in permanent form, as were the registered bonds of all the Government war loans, and therefore none of these bonds need be offered for exchange. The date for conversion of the temporary bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan, on which the last coupon will not mature until Oct. 15, 1920, has not yet been announced. Bondholders offering temporary coupon bonds for exchange may receive, if they desire, permanent bonds in registered form.

"In order to effect exchanges as conveniently and as efficiently as possible, the Federal Reserve Bank will issue a circular, addressed to all incorporated banks and trust companies in the district, urging them to use the forms which have been prescribed by the Treasury for effecting the exchanges."

Tax Return Extension.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Corporations will be allowed until May 15 to file their complete returns with the Internal Revenue Bureau, it was announced today. Tentative returns must be made before March 15, accompanied by one-quarter of the estimated tax, but the extension is allowed for completion of returns.

LONDON LIVERPOOL PARIS HAVRE BRUSSELS

Republic of France

Progress in the recovery of France from the World War has already given fresh evidence of the characteristic vitality of the French people.

We are receiving subscriptions for account of the French Government to

The New French Internal 5% Loan of 1920

Redeemable within 60 years by semi-annual drawings beginning September 16th, 1920, at 150% which is equivalent to 1500 francs for each 1000-franc bond

Subscriptions are payable in dollars at the rate of exchange fixed each day by the French Financial Agency in the United States, which is based on the closing rate of exchange for the previous day. This price will be announced daily in these advertisements.

Price Today $72.20 per 1000-Franc Bond

At the normal rate of exchange the cost of this bond to the American investor would be $193

Our interim receipts calling for temporary bonds of the French Government will be issued against payment in full in dollars.

BROWN BROTHERS & CO.

Income of $78 on $1,000

May be obtained by purchasing a block of carefully protected preferred stocks of five separate industrial companies engaged in supplying clothing, food, coal, gasoline engines and automobiles—basic needs of this country.

These five companies have demonstrated their earning powers and their efficient management.

The diversity offered by this investment is an additional element of safety.

COTTON RISE BASED ON BRITISH CABLES

Sterling's Advance, Higher Liverpool Prices and Proposed London Loan's Response Aid.

MARKET IN LATE REACTION

Closing Gains Recorded Only in Distant Months, with March and May Down.

The sensational rise in sterling exchange, which advanced about 13 cents at the high for the day, to slightly better than $3.60 to the pound; higher Liverpool prices than were due to meet our market levels, and a somewhat belated response to the suggestion from London that a great international loan be floated to allow Germany to purchase the raw materials she will need for the rehabilitation of her industries all combined to send cotton prices up in yesterday's trading. Late in the day, after a considerable bull interest had been built up, the market reacted, so that at the close gains were recorded only in the distant months, with March closing off 7 points and May down 27 points, but while the advance was in progress prices rose 28 and 36 points for the near months and 50 to 69 points for the far months.

The strength in sterling was due, in part, to the circulation of rumors that England and France are about to begin shipments of a large amount of gold, reported variously at $50,000,000 to $250,000,000, to be used in liquidating the Anglo-French $500,000,000 loan, which matures in October. However, the mere fact that gold is supposed to be coming had a pronouncedly beneficial effect on sentiment, and the cotton market, like that for stocks, rose briskly on the reports. It was reasoned that if the two great allied countries could handle such an operation, they must be far from bankrupt, and, if so, the cotton trade could see no reason for any interruption in their purchases of the staple, especially as its conversion into goods is one of the big factors in their export trade.

The better tone at Liverpool was interpreted to mean that the trouble at Alexandria was pretty well in hand, and, while some private advices continued to speak of the situation there with some show of apprehension, it was generally agreed that the crisis had been safely passed. Certainly the Liverpool market did not show any signs of the resales which had characterized it the previous day. At the close both spots and futures were up, the former 37 points and the latter 41 to 61 points.

There were no exports reported yesterday, and as the total for the week, with only one day remaining, is only 105,353 bales, it looks as if the full total for the week would be considerably below recent standards. However, it would be entirely possible for today's exports to lift the total above last week's figure of 147,667 bales.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
March..	39.00	39.25	38.88	38.90	38.97
May....	35.97	36.25	35.00	35.62@35.65	35.89

THE SPIRIT OF ITALY

The Italian people maintained their traditions as Roman citizens throughout the centuries when the rest of Europe was being torn asunder by wars.

Even while the Italian Peninsula was held successively by the Normans, Aragons, Hapsburgs and Bourbons, the spirit of the Italians as a distinct people was maintained until Italian Unity was completed in 1918.

In the dark ages the Italian Republics of Amalfi, Pisa, Venice, Genoa, Florence and Milan were the trade centres of the civilized world, and centres of European art, science and literature. They produce such men as Dante, Ariosto, Raphael, Titian and Leonardo da Vinci.

The Italian spirit of enterprise was responsible for the voyages of Marco Polo, Columbus, Verrazzano, Cabot and Vespucci. Italian genius is responsible for the scientific discoveries of Galvani, Volta, Galileo and Marconi.

Before Italy went into the war, the two brothers Perrone manufactured in the Ansaldo Plants, at their own initiative and expense, enough cannon to help Russia in her drive against Austria and France in her defense at the Marne.

A nation which can produce such men will forge ahead, will take its place as a leader in the industrial and commercial world and will pay its just debts when due.

Luigi Criscuolo

Subscriptions to the Italian Government, five-year 6½% bonds, due 1925, at 97½ and interest, will be received by Luigi Criscuolo, Rooms 3133-3143, 120 Broadway, New York.

VERMONT CENTRAL BONDS.

Holders Called Upon to Deposit Holdings Due on May 1.

The committee of which Henry Cooper is Chairman sent out a call yesterday to holders of the Central Vermont Railway Company 4 per cent. first mortgage bonds which mature May 1 to deposit their holdings with the Equitable Trust Company in New York and the American Trust Company, in Boston, and announced that it would serve in the interests of the holders under the depositary agreement. Other members of the committee are S. E. Kilner, Hunter S. Marston, E. C. Smith, Philip Stockton and Albert Tuttle. Lloyd Church, 24 Broad Street, is Secretary.

Some weeks ago dispatches from Vermont stated that a new $15,000,000 bond issue had been approved, interest and principal of which would be guaranteed by the Big Four Railroad.

Woolsey Quits State Department.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Lester H. Woolsey, Solicitor of the State Department, resigned today, his resignation to take effect on April 1 or earlier. Mr. Woolsey was a close friend of ex-Secretary Lansing, but it was said that the retirement of Mr. Lansing had nothing to do with his resignation, but that he was leaving for financial reasons.

in all its completeness and entirety as one unit the going business and new manufacturing plant—an exceptional plant, in one building 300 x 150 ft., on one floor, under one fifteen section saw-tooth roof—of the Fulton Motor Truck Company at Farmingdale, Long Island; on the main line (double track) of the Long Island Railroad of the Pennsylvania Railroad System—thirty-two miles by railroad or concrete paved highway to the very heart of New York City, and thirty miles by railroad or concrete paved highway to the very heart of Brooklyn, and of Long Island City. Unusually low overhead charges; unusual labor conditions; yearly labor turn-over is very small; unusually low cost of living; unusual organization; a good stock-in-trade; in the midst of a rapidly growing population with a wide diversity of industries. The Fulton Truck has successfully met all competition. A thorough and painstaking examination of this plant as a manufacturing property must convince the most skeptical of the genuine possibilities of success here. The property and business are set forth in great detail in an illustrated and descriptive catalogue—by picture and plan and word—which may be had upon application from the office of the Auctioneers, where all inquiries must be made. The business was originated and the buildings completed and the equipment installed and put in operation between September 1916 and November 1918—and nineteen hundred and seventy-seven Fulton trucks are in actual use and doing good service today. The sale, which is an uncommonly attractive offering, will take place upon the premises herein named regardless of any condition of the weather on Thursday the 11th day of March 1920 beginning promptly at half past twelve o'clock noon.

John S. Sheppard, as Receiver.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

INTERNATIONAL PETROLEUM COMPANY, LIMITED

To the Shareholders of International Petroleum Company, Limited.

NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of Directors of the Company have resolved to issue 1,353,401 shares of £1 each (par value $5.00) of the Common Capital Stock of the Company, at the price of $5.00 (Five Dollars) per share payable in New York funds at par.

The above issue of new stock will be made on the basis of share for share of the Preference and Common Capital Stock issued and fully paid up as at the close of business on the 5th day of March, 1920, and each Shareholder is entitled to subscribe and pay for one new Common Share in respect of each share held by him.

Holders of Bearer Share Warrants who present their Warrants at the Office of the Company at 56, Church Street, Toronto, Canada, or at the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, 16-22 William Street, New York City, U. S. A., on or before the 15th day of March, 1920, are entitled to subscribe and pay for new shares on the terms mentioned above.

All Bearer Share Warrants presented as aforesaid must be accompanied by certified check (that is check duly certified or accepted by a Bank) or Bank draft made out to the order of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, for a/c of International Petroleum Company, Limited, and payable at par at a Bank in New York City, U. S. A., for the full amount due of $5.00 per share on each new share subscribed for. The Bearer Share Warrants presented as aforesaid will be stamped "Ex Rights 1920" and returned to the parties presenting them together with the share warrants for the new shares subscribed and paid for.

Failure to exercise the rights to subscribe for new shares within the time and in the manner aforesaid will subject these rights to forfeiture.

The Books of the Company will be closed from the 6th day of March, 1920, to the 20th day of March, 1920, inclusive, and no Bearer Share Warrants will be "split" during that period.

No warrants for "rights" will be issued and shareholders who desire to split warrants in order to sell part of their holding to enable them to pay for the new shares must do so on or before the 5th of March, 1920.

Holders of Bearer Share Warrants are recommended to send warrants, together with their remittance, by Registered Mail, insured, as the Company is not responsible for Share Warrants lost in transit, and duplicate Share Warrants cannot be issued.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD,

J. R. CLARKE, Secretary.

56, Church Street, Toronto, Canada, 23rd of February, 1920.

SUE WESTERN UNION FOR $2,778,823

A. D. T. Minority Stockholders Allege Interests Have Not Been Protected.

FOUR CLAIMS ARE FILED

Complaint Says Extra Dividends Have Depleted Treasury—Want Funds Restored.

Minority stockholders of the American District Telegraph Company filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against the Western Union Telegraph Company, which organized the A. D. T. and owns more than 80 per cent. of the stock, for $2,778,823, which the minority stockholders contend belongs in the treasury of the A. D. T., but which the Western Union will not pay because the officers of the Western Union are also officers of the A. D. T.

The complaint alleges the interests of the minority stockholders of the A. D. T. have not been protected by the Western Union officers of the corporation, and adds:

"The payment of extra dividends was a reckless and wrongful waste of funds of the District Company, and was improvident, negligent, in violation of the Western Union's duty to exercise care and diligence in the management of the District Company's affairs, and was a wrongful diversion of moneys to the treasury of the Western Union Telegraph Company."

The plaintiffs say the Western Union agreed to devote 76.6 per cent. of the receipts from the business to operating expenses and pay the balance of 23.4 per cent. to the A. D. T. If the net sum due was more than $500,000, the two corporations were to divide the excess equally.

By this arrangement $527,000 was paid in 1911 and $555,000 in 1912, the complaint says, but in 1914 it was agreed that the sum to be paid the A. D. T. as a fixed rental for its property would be $387,500 a year for the five-year period ending Dec. 31, 1917. The corporation could then renew the arrangement for the next five years or fix a new rate sufficient to afford reasonable compensation.

Paid for First Half Year.

For the first half of 1918 the officers decided to pay the rate of $387,500 and $165,000 was paid on account, but in September of that year the Western Union notified the A. D. T. that since 1914 the operation of the messenger service had showed a large deficit and the Western Union had decided that no rental should be paid during the period ending Dec. 31, 1922.

The complaint says the Western Union has since operated the A. D. T. for its own benefit, has taken back the $105,000 payment it made for 1918, and all compensation has been cut off except $20,280 a year paid as 6 per cent. on the amount fixed as the value of the plant, after the minority stockholders, including the plaintiffs, had protested. The complaint accordingly asks that the court determine that $387,500 a year for five years is payable, making a total of $1,937,500, instead of the $20,280 fixed by the Western Union.

For a second claim the plaintiffs ask that the Western Union refund $134,400 collected for rentals from the A. D. T., which is alleged to have been received without consideration. A third claim for $400,000 alleges that $80,000 a year for five years was charged against the A. D. T. out of the receipts for depreciation, but that this sum should have been paid to the A. D. T. to form a depreciation reserve for use in extending the business and equipment.

$298,923 Extra Dividends.

A fourth claim of $298,923 is for extra dividends of 1 per cent. declared on the A. D. T. stock for three years when there was no net income to provide for the dividends. The complaint alleges that between 1914 and 1918 the A. D. T. signal business was constantly expanding and ordinary prudence should have required the conversion of cash resources for this purpose, but that in 1913, when the net earnings were less than $90,000 an extra dividend of $90,641 was paid, and the same amount the next year, when there was a deficit of $139,000 in the messenger service. In 1917 the A. D. T. had to borrow $95,000 to pay the extra dividend, and in 1918 it had to borrow $165,000 for the dividend and other purposes and $230,000 additional for various corporate purposes.

MRS. SPANG'S WILL IS VOID.

Jury Finds She Was of Unsound Mind When It Was Made.

The jury that has been hearing for a month before Surrogate Cohalan the contest by Mrs. Mabel Spang Ancker of the $2,000,000 will of her mother, Mrs. Rosa E. Spang, who died last June at the Waldorf-Astoria, returned a verdict at 3:15 o'clock yesterday morning finding that Mrs. Spang was not of sound mind when she made the will. The document was executed the day before Mrs. Spang died and gave $10,000 income to the daughter and the remainder of the estate to George W. Wickersham, Col. Michael Friedsam and Dr. Henry D. Chapin to found a home for poor babies and children.

The jury considered the case for twelve hours, in course of which they returned to the courtroom for instructions twice concerning certain evidence. The charge by the Surrogate related chiefly to the law regarding mental capacity to make a will. During the deliberations Edward Ashbee, one of the jurors, was taken ill and a physician was called to attend him. For that reason the Surrogate was compelled to go to the jury room to give the instructions.

By the terms of a previous will, which Edgar T. Brackett, counsel for the contestant, will now seek to have probated, Mrs. Ancker gets an annuity of $100,000 and the bulk of the estate. The bulk of the property left by Mrs. Spang represented half the estate of her late husband, Charles Spang, Pittsburgh steel manufacturer, who died a few months before her. By his will the daughter got $20,000 income.

Henry W. Taft, counsel for the trustees under the will now declared void by the jury, contended that both Mr. and Mrs. Spang were embittered toward their daughter because of trouble she had caused for them in her youth and that in leaving the bulk of the estate to charity Mrs. Spang merely followed the plan her husband had in mind.

The trustees will carry the case to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

Clothing Labor Prices.

Before making their prices on Fall clothing, the manufacturers would like to know just what they are going to pay labor during that season, but no inkling has been given them. It is natural for the clothiers to look forward to an increase, and yet there is to be considered the decision of the retailers to pay no more advances which may be traced to increased labor charges. The labor chiefs are not giving the slightest intimation of what the rates after July 1 will be, and attempts to get even an approximate idea of their intention so far have failed. Among the manufacturers the expedient of using "open prices" has very few advocates, and the sentiment is growing to have the union cooperate to the extent of announcing its future plans.

Dies of Sleeping Sickness.

Miss Annie H. Hewins, 26 years old, of Mansfield, Mass., died of sleeping sickness yesterday in Swedish Hospital, Brooklyn. She was taken ill with influenza early last month while visiting in Brooklyn and was removed to the hospital on Feb. 16. Except for intervals of an hour or two, she remained in a coma until her death. Dr. Walter Price of 135 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, said the germ of influenza had penetrated to the brain and induced the sleeping sickness.

The quotations are for six months' paper.

After Woolen Exports.

The very favorable terms on which the large woolen manufacturers are willing to accept business from Canada is regarded by buyers in the local market as a clear sign of how anxious the domestic mills are to preserve and increase their export trade. As buyers see it, while the mills are able to ship goods freely out of the country, they are possessed of a lever by which prices to domestic customers can be kept "jacked up." Once the looms on goods for export are diverted to the needs of the home trade, supply, it is said, will soon outdistance demand, with consequent reductions in price.

Gray Goods Sales Larger.

Somewhat more snap to the demand for printcloths featured trading in the local gray goods market yesterday, although the business done was somewhat restricted in the constructions traded in and the deliveries for which the goods were sold. Large sales of 38½-inch 64-60s were reported for March-April delivery at 22 and 21½ cents, the lower figure being for shipment in the latter month. A similar condition applied to 39-inch 68-72s, which sold at 23 and 22¼ cents, respectively. March deliveries of 39-inch 72-76s were sold at 26 cents. Near-by business on 550-yard sheetings was put through at 16 cents. Trading in other styles was limited and without special feature.

English Clothing Prospects.

Although English clothing manufacturers have shown themselves eargerly desirous of doing all the trade they can with customers in this country, it is held doubtful that their efforts will carry them very far during the present year. According to reports from the foreign manufacturing centres, the amount of production that can be turned to making goods for this market is decidedly limited. Just at present the agencies for English goods are engaged in getting as wide a distribution for the imported lines as possible, with the view of being better able to supply merchandise in quantity next year. One line, for instance, will not be able to meet one-quarter of the requirements of customers this year.

Cutlers Want Recognition.

Satisfied that the results they obtained during the period of the war were sufficient to warrant recognition of their abilities by the American public, manufacturing cutlers in this country have set out to get it. A movement has been started with the object of showing that the American cutlery is as good as that of England or Germany, whether it be knives that are in question or razors or scissors, and an attempt will be made to get articles of this kind into the hands of every person who has need of them. It is asserted that the best clothing-cutting shears in the world are known among foreign tailors to be of American make, and the suggestion is made that American tailors ought generally to acquaint themselves with that fact.

Ostrich Pieces Coming Back.

A revival of the vogue for ostrich boas and similar articles of wear is at hand, according to reports that are heard in the local trade these days. Not only are the retailers said to be placing large orders for boas for Spring and Summer use, but cutters-up of the better class are said to be buying large ostrich capes freely for use on high priced evening wraps. So good is the fashion outlook for ostrich trimmings and articles of one kind or another, that plans are afoot here for the holding of a National Ostrich Week some time later in the year. It is understood that these plans will be worked out in detail at meetings which are soon to be held, and that a considerable sum of money is being raised to further them.

Against "Bearish" Reports.

In a statment concerning conditions in the women's ready-to-wear industry, the Merchants' Ladies Garment Association takes exception to "bearish" reports circulated by resident buyers to the effect that the New York market is suffering from a lack of buying and, with a plentiful supply of merchandise carried by wholesalers, that prices are due for a break. The organization declares that the buying season this year opened much earlier than usual, and the early Easter holidays have pushed operations a month ahead, so that business usually placed in February was put in during December and January, which were record months. "The truth is" the statement declares, "that the unusually severe Winter is the real reason why retailers have found their business somewhat delayed."

Signs of Crumbling Prices.

Taking up the criticism launched at resident buyers for advising their clients that garment prices were due for a drop, one of their number stated yesterday that there are many signs of crumbling prices. He quoted georgette offered to him at $1.55 a yard, that six weeks ago brought $2.20. The mill price of a silk poplin he was also offered is today $1.50. The price quoted to him by a jobber was $1.25, and it was apparent, he said, that he could get the seller to take as low as $1.17. "One jobber I know," he said, "has a stock of over $300,000. In money he is worth $100,000, but if a decline of 30 per cent. came along he would be wiped out. The whole garment line is shaky, and behind the lack of interest on the part of buyers is just one fact. The garment department, owing to the losses on mark-downs, has become less profitable than either hosiery or underwear."

Raw Silk Prices Quiet.

The Yokohama raw silk market is dull and lifeless, but prices show some resistance to decline around the basis of 3,550 yen for Sinshiu No. 1. Quotations on the Japanese silk exchange have improved again, according to cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city, late information showing advances there on Sinshiu No. 1 for delivery during the rest of this month and in July. Stocks on hand at Yokohama are now estimated at 10,000 bales, compared with 27,000 bales at this time last year. Canton is quiet but steady, and Shanghai continues unchanged at prices which are above the parities for other kinds of silk. Business there is practically at a standstill. The supply of silk available for export up to October is placed at not over 5,000 bales. Milan is quieter, due to the easier price situation at Yokohama. The local market is very quiet, with the irregularity of prices accentuated by reselling by some of the smaller manufacturers.

Will Hit the "Expansionists."

The attempts of the smaller jobbers of silks and woolens to "get from under" before it is too late, by disposing of their surplus holdings at prices quite a little under the levels at which they recently held them, is taken in certain quarters here to spell danger for another class of business men who let the desire for continued wartime profits get the better of their business judgment. These are best described as "expansionists," and include a great many of the smaller manufacturers, particularly of millinery and other lines of women's wearing apparel, who have unduly increased their production facilities in order to cope with the abnormal demand for goods that was so long a feature. Now that the demand has slackened, these manufacturers are finding themselves with more machinery or factory space on hand than they can make use of. Those who face the prospect of re-leasing their business quarters at the new scale of rents are in an especially ticklish position from all accounts.

BUSINESS RECORDS

SHIPPING BOARD TO KEEP UP RATES

Private Operators Not to Have Free Rein Under New Order, Says Official.

PROFIT CUTTING BARRED

Emergency Fleet Corporation to Look After Government's Interest in Vessels.

Free rein in handling Government vessels is not to be given private operators under the new rules announced by the Shipping Board in Washington Tuesday, officials of the board in this city said yesterday. They will still be under the control of the board. The new arrangement, also, will not result in any decided lowering of rates.

The interpretation placed on the new order by the Shipping Board representatives here is contrary to the impression created when the order was published. Private operators had been jubilant when they heard of the order, asserting that it would enable them to lower their rates and compete openly with foreign ships which, the American operators say, have taken much of the business because of the lower rates fixed by foreign ship agents.

The order declared that, beginning March 1, "all Shipping Board tariffs, including current supplements thereto, are hereby canceled, in so far as the public is concerned. Rates hereafter may be obtained direct from managing agents of shipping vessels."

When inquiry was made at the Shipping Board offices, 45 Broadway, about the probable effect of the order, attention was called to the words "in so far as the public is concerned," a term which, it was said, did not include the operators.

"The order says that in the future rates may be obtained from managing agents of shipping vessels," an official said. "This does not mean, however, that the agents may charge any rates they see fit. On the contrary, the Shipping Board will not allow any decided lowering of rates. The Emergency Fleet Corporation still reserves the right to terminate the agency at any time.

"The matter of rates must be kept within bounds. To a certain extent this would be done by the steamship agents themselves, for, if any agent tried to lower rates to such an extent that they would be unprofitable, the others would probably influence him to change his decision.

"The Shipping Board has its own interests to protect in the matter of rates. Many of the vessels are operated on a profit-sharing plan, under which the operators retain a certain share of the net profits. Any marked cutting of rates would reduce considerably, if not wipe out entirely, such profits."

George W. Sterling, assistant director in this city of the Shipping Board, was not at his office yesterday because of illness. In his absence no official statement could be obtained, setting forth in detail the new conditions brought about by the order. It was said such a statement might be expected within a few days.

Letters to operators telling them, in effect, that no changes in tariffs had been allowed, were being prepared yesterday at the Shipping Board offices. It was said these letters probably would be made public later, with Mr. Sterling's permission.

BUYING IN THE INSURANCE DISTRICT

Syndicate of Tenants Acquires Wilson Building at 73-79 Fulton Street.

PURCHASERS WILL OCCUPY

Similar Deals Involve Nearby Holdings at 50 Pine Street and 23 Platt Street.

Deals in the insurance district were featured in an active market yesterday, tenants continuing to acquire large properties for their own use. A syndicate of insurance men, headed by Alfred M. Best and William Otis Badger, has purchased from the Broadway-John Street Corporation, Elias A. Cohen, the Wilson Building, a six-story structure at 73 to 79 Fulton Street and 54 Gold Street, at the northeast corner of these thoroughfares, with a frontage of 81.7 feet on Fulton Street and 59.4 on Gold Street. Plans have been made for the remodeling of the property into an office building at an estimated cost of $150,000. The space will be occupied entirely by insurance companies and brokers.

Several blocks to the south, the Charles F. Noyes Company sold the Caledonian Insurance Company's building at 50 Pine Street, twelve stories high and covering a lot 40 by 100. The property was purchased by Alberti Baird & Carleton, Inc., a tenant and one of the most prominent insurance brokerage firms in the district. The building will be renamed the Alberti Building. It adjoins the Harris Forbes & Co. building at the corner of William and Pine Streets. The rent roll will be approximately $100,000 and the building is valued at nearly $1,000,000. The Caledonian Insurance Company will remain in the building.

The Charles F. Noyes Company, in conjunction with Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., resold for J. Early Wood 21 Platt Street, a four-story and basement building covering a plot 28 by 80 and located just south of Gold Street. The buyer is the Underwriters and Credit Bureau. After extensive improvements have been made the entire building will be occupied by the purchaser for office purposes. The sale is of added interest because this is the first insurance company to have actually purchased for occupancy property east of Gold Street. The Noyes Company recently sold the block front on Gold Street from John to Platt Street to Harry Aronson, the operator, who expects to resell for insurance occupancy.

WILL ADD TO SITE.

Fifth Avenue Retailers Negotiating for More Property.

I. Miller & Sons, retailers of women's shoes, who yesterday leased the Thorley and Larimore buildings at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street from E. E. Smithers are negotiating for the lease of the adjoining property at 3 West Forty-sixth Street, a four-story dwelling owned and occupied for many years by Harry F. Morse. The lease is being negotiated on a basis that will return $15,000 a year to the owner for twenty-one years, with renewal privileges. Figuring on a 6 per cent. net income basis the obtaining of this rental would place the valuation of this inside plot at $250,000, or $10,000 a front foot. This figure may establish a new high mark for front foot values in the Times Square and Grand Central Terminal sections.

The parcel will be incorporated in the building site which the lessees have assembled for the purpose of erecting a twelve-story store and office building. I. Miller & Son will pay $80,000 a year for the corner. The closing of the deal for 3 West Forty-sixth Street at $15,000 a year will bring the rental to $95,000. During the first twenty-one years the firm will pay in rent alone to the two owners a total of $1,995,000. The cost of the new building will probably be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. The Brett & Goode Company, which negotiated the corner lease, is understood to be the broker in the new lease.

BUYS CAPTAIN'S ISLAND.

Syndicate Reported to be Planning Club Colony.

A syndicate of New York business men, represented by George R. Chester, has purchased a two-thirds interest from Mrs. Josiah N. Wilcox, Gilbert Wilcox and Mrs. Ida Hume in Great Captain's Island in Long Island Sound. The other third is owned by Mrs. George A. Slater, wife of Surrogate Slater of Westchester County; William Souron and Miss Almira Lyon, who are reported to have declined to sell at the price offered by the syndicate. It is understood that the buyers intend to establish an exclusive club colony on the island and erect a clubhouse and cottages.

Great Captain's Island lies off Port Chester and Rye and contains twenty acres, on two of which is a Government lighthouse. Descendants of Captain Gilbert Lyon, first settler of Rye, owned the island for 100 years.

Title Company Buys in Brooklyn.

The American Trust Company and the New York Title and Mortgage Company yesterday purchased the site at 205-13 Montague Street, Brooklyn, near Court Street, to accommodate the growing business of the two institutions. The new purchase is a building of an attractive Doric type with pillared front, easily adaptable for banking purposes, and with the improvements and present equipment of the bank and title company will furnish the American Trust Company and the New York Title and Mortgage Company one of the best banking sites in the financial centre of Brooklyn. President Harry A. Kahler, at the New York office, Broadway and Cedar Street, announced yesterday that immediate possession would be taken of a part of the building and the remainder will be occupied as soon as existing leases expire. This will give the American Trust Company and the New York Title and Mortgage Company a frontage of 100 feet on Montague Street and across through to Pierrepont Street.

Long Island Sale.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for T. J. McBride the northwest corner of Central Avenue and Fulton Street, Lawrence, L. I., consisting of ten lots, to Benjamin Meyers. This property adjoins the Ullman homestead, recently purchased through the same brokers.

Plans Partola Building.

John H. Scheier, architect, has completed plans for the alteration of the one-time O'Neill-Adams department store, occupying the block front on the west side of Sixth Avenue, from Twentieth to Twenty-first Street, extending west in Twentieth Street, 272 feet, and in Twenty-first Street, to the easterly line of the old Jewish Cemetery, seventy-five feet. The property is owned by the United States Realty and Improvement Corporation, and was leased recently, in its entirety, to the Partola Realty Corporation. Alterations, it is estimated, will cost about $400,000. A number of stores, show and sales rooms, lofts and offices are to be installed, together with additional elevators, fireproof stairways, sprinklers, &c. The Partola Manufacturing Company will occupy a large portion of the premises, which will be known as the Partola Building.

TRADING IN APARTMENTS.

Frederick Brown Resells the Woodmere, Held at $625,000.

Frederick Brown, operator, resold the Woodmere, at 3,462-3,468 Broadway, northeast corner of 141st Street, an eight-story fireproof apartment house, on a plot 100 by 100; also 3,470 Broadway, adjoining, an altered four-story dwelling, 20 by 70. The buyer is Milton M. Silverman. The property was held at $625,000 and was purchased by Mr. Brown from Harry Mack last month. It contains eight stores and six suites on a floor of four, five and six rooms. Byrne & Bowman negotiated the sale.

The Admiral Realty Company sold to an investing client of Sharp & Co. the modern twelve-story apartment house at 494 to 498 West End Avenue, southeast corner of Eighty-fourth Street. The structure occupies a plot fronting 92 feet in West End Avenue, and 83.4 feet on the street, and had been held at $800,000. It was acquired by the seller last October from Thomas McCanus & Son, who erected the building in 1911.

Charles S. Kohler, Inc., sold for the Canavan Investing Company the six-story elevator building, 101 by 138, known as the Palmetto, 100 Morningside Drive, northwest corner of 120th Street, to the Lousam Realty Company, Inc., Louis Livingston, President. The property rents for $40,000 and was held at $350,000.

W. J. Huston & Son sold for Cecilia R. Gannon 604 and 606 West 191st Street, two five-story apartments, 100 by 100, containing forty-two apartments, with a rental of $22,000 and held at $160,000. Mrs. Gannon purchased the property through the same brokers last year and realizes a large profit on the resale.

The Manhattan Avenue Holding Company sold the two six-story apartments at the northeast corner of Lenox Avenue and 143d Street, 74.11 by 96.2, to a client of S. A. Singerman.

Vogel & Marion purchased for a client 1,431 Fifth Avenue, a five-story twenty-two-family apartment with two stores. The purchaser will immediately make extensive improvements in the building.

Max N. Natanson sold to Harry Guttman 2,407 and 2,405 Eighth Avenue, two five-story tenements, with stores, on the southwest corner of 129th Street and Eighth Avenue. William S. Sussman was the broker in the transaction.

The Meister Builders, Inc., sold to the Hoffman Homes Corporation 358 and 360 West Fifty-eighth Street, two seven-story elevator apartments, on a plot 75 by 100. These houses have a rent roll of $24,000 and were held at $150,000.

BUYERS FOR DWELLINGS.

Structures to be Remodeled by New Owners.

C. Royce Hubert sold for Edward Davis the four-story dwelling at 112 West Seventy-sixth Street, on lot 20 by 102.2, to a purchaser who will occupy. The property was held at $35,000.

The Merit Realty Company, Marcus L. Osk, President, has purchased the four-story dwelling from the Clark estate at 3 West 124th Street, adjoining the corner of Fifth Avenue, on a lot 19.6 by 81.5. The broker in the sale was the Brown Wheelock Company.

Pepe & Brother have sold for the Basch estate the premises 11, 13 and 15 West Eighth Street, near Fifth Avenue, three four-story and basement brick dwellings, on lots 25 by 95 each. The property has been purchased by a builder who will rebuild into modern apartments.

Douglas Gibbons & Co. sold for Mary A. Reilly 134 East Forty-seventh Street, a four-story dwelling, 20 by 100, to a prominent New Yorker who will alter it into an American basement dwelling for occupancy.

Nail & Parker sold for the Equitable Life Assurance Society 266-68 West 139th Street, two three-story dwellings, with garages in the rear, on lots 17 by 99.11; also for same seller 2,374 Seventh Avenue, a four-story and basement building on a lot 16 by 76, between 138th and 139th Streets.

The Belle Levi estate sold to Kathryn Dugan, the tenant, the four-story dwelling at 29 West Seventy-first Street, on lot 19 by 103.

FEBRUARY PLANS.

Superintendent Miller Reports Big Increase in Filings.

The report of building operations in the Borough of Manhattan for February, as compiled by Building Superintendent Rudolph P. Miller, shows a decided increase over the same month last year, plans having been filed for twenty-eight new buildings costing a total of $9,933,500, as against sixteen, costing $3,978,200, the same month last year. Although the increase in February is not two months combined shows that nearly five times as much money is to be expended for new buildings for the first two months this year as compared with the first two months of last year. Plans were filed for seventy-three new buildings, costing a total of $23,977,500, the first two months of this year as against thirty-two new buildings, costing $5,120,250, the same period last year.

The report as to alterations to buildings shows an outlay of $3,415,715, to 309 buildings, during last month as against $954,480, on 223 buildings, the same month last year. The report shows alterations to 105 dwellings, forty-four tenement houses, eleven hotels, sixty-one store and loft buildings, thirty-one office buildings, forty factories, two school houses, one church, one municipal building, six places of amusement and seven stables and garages.

Tenant Buys Building.

Thomas J. O'Reilly sold for the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank the four-story business building at 1,447 Third Avenue, on a lot 20 by 70, to Isadore Block, the tenant of the store. The property, which was taken at foreclosure some time ago, was held at $20,000.

Will Alter Downtown Dwelling.

Charles W. Knight has purchased from Mrs. John T. Faure of Washington, D. C., the three-story dwelling with an extension at 238 West Eleventh Street, on a lot 20 by 95, adjoining the North Baptist Church. The Duross Company negotiated the deal. The buyer will alter the building into studio apartments.

Diamond Match Company Buys.

The Harrison S. Colburn Company and M. B. Howard sold to the Diamond Match Company a tract of land in the central part of Springfield, Mass., comprising forty acres on the Highland Division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The purchaser will immediately proceed to erect a large plant, the first unit of which will consist of steel and concrete buildings with over 300,000 square feet of floor space. The plant will not be used for the manufacture of matches but of machinery and supplies for other plants of the company at various points throughout the United States.

RESULTS AT AUCTION.

OPERATORS BUSY DOWNTOWN

Hospital Sells $250,000 Building to Max Marx.

The Gibbs Building, a modern six-story office structure at 65 Murray Street and 62 to 70 West Broadway was purchased yesterday by Max Marx, operator, through the Charles F. Noyes Company. The property was held at $250,000. This is the most important of the thirty-two purchases recently made by Mr. Marx through the Noyes Company.

The building has frontages of 25 feet on Murray Street and 125 feet on West Broadway, and contains two passenger elevators. St. Luke's Hospital, represented by Miller, King, Lane & Trafford, attorneys, was the seller. A portion of the building is available May 1, 1920, and all the space runs out in 1921 and 1922.

William D. Kilpatrick, operator, resold to the Standard Rice Company the three-story stable at 17 Leonard Street, between Hudson Street and West Broadway. The buyer is the owner of 19-21 Leonard Street adjoining, formerly the old Leonard Street Police Station, which it also purchased two years ago from Mr. Kilpatrick.

The Broadway-Kohn Street Corporation, Elias A. Cohen, President, sold the five-story building at 55 Washington Street, 28 by 65, held at $60,000, to Maloof Brothers, importers and exporters, for occupancy. They were at 32 Washington Street for twenty years.

William Cruikshank's Sons sold for the Franklin Trust Company, to the Washington Art Realty Company, Alfred M. Rau, President, the six-story loft at 533 West Broadway, on a lot 25 by 100, adjoining the northeast corner of Bleecker Street.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd have sold for the Markham Realty Company, Clarence W. Eckardt, President, 52-4 Cliff Street, the southeast corner of Beekman Street, two four-story buildings, 56 by 75 feet.

Deals in the Bronx.

Isaac Haft, operator and builder, purchased 1,049 and 1,053 Simpson Street, on a plot 87.6 by 100, two five-story apartments. The property was held at $140,000.

The Boro Associates, Inc., purchased through D. A. Trotta 1,416 Parker Street, a two-story two-family dwelling, on a lot 25 by 100; also 626 Crescent Avenue, a two-story two-family dwelling, on a plot 29 by 89 by irregular.

The Amer Realty Company, Inc., J. E. Mautner, President, sold 675 Jackson Avenue, a six-story modern apartment house, on a plot 41 by 107 feet, renting for $7,000 and held at $48,000. The purchaser is an investor.

Storminger & Junker sold for Josephine Strasser the four-story flat at 3,416 Park Avenue to an investor.

Kurz & Uren sold for the Barnes Realty Company to the Stebbins Realty and Construction Company, J. Malino, President, 263 and 269 East 194th Street, between Bainbridge and Briggs Avenues, two five-story new-law tenements, built on a lot 50 by 100. Also 432 East 156th Street, between Melrose and Elton Avenues, a five-story and basement new-law apartment, built on a plot 45 by 100; also 997 and 999 Morris Avenue between 164th and 165th Street; a five-story and basement new-law tenement, on a plot 44 by 105.6.

Harry Cahn purchased from Samuel Keeler of Fairfield, Conn., two four-story new-law houses at 3,049 and 3,053 Hull Avenue, 54.93 by 110. Charles Kuntze and George McGregor were the brokers.

Julius Trattner sold for Louise Schlicht to Henry Cordes 727 East 156th Street, a six-story new-law apartment house, 44.6 by 100.

S. J. Taylor sold for Fanny E. Downs the three-story brick residence and lot 16 by 100 on the northerly side of West 184th Street, 112 feet west of Grand Avenue; also sold for Bernard Lynch 2,454 Devoe Terrace, a two-family house and lot 25 by 90, to P. Kiernan for occupancy.

Other Manhattan Sales.

The Duross Company sold for Mrs. Louis V. Sone and Margaret A. Gaston to the Erie Transfer Company the four-story building 44 West Fifteenth Street, on a plot 28.6 by 100.

The Charlsid Realty Company, David Levy Treasurer, has purchased 410 and 412 West Nineteenth Street, 50 by 92. Otto Samuels represented the buyer.

Joseph P. Day sold for the Weeks estate, represented by Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks, the plot comprising a land area of 5,000 square feet, known as 38 Bowery, through to 8 Elizabeth Street, and covered with three old buildings. Douglas Eskell represented the Day office in the negotiations. The purchaser was H. J. Hemmens.

Louis Schrag sold for Oestreicher Brothers the four-story store and dwelling 259 Seventh Avenue, on a lot 20 by 60 to a furrier, who will remodel the building for his own occupancy.

Duross Company sold for the estate of Catherine Haffner to Pietra Fresca 3 Thompson Street, a four-story tenement on lot 22 by 77. This is the first transfer on this property since 1872.

Brooklyn Transactions.

Prince & Ripley, Inc., sold for Francis Hopkins his residence, 44 Barker Avenue, White Plains, to Jacob C. Skiff of New York City.

BRONX RENT RAISES.

Areco Building Tenants Face 200 Per Cent. Advances.

Tenants in the Areco Building at Third Avenue and 149th Street, the principal business centre in the Bronx, have been asked by Vincent Astor to pay increases of between 100 and 200 per cent. in their rent. A number of the leases expire May 1 and their holders, who number principally lawyers, physicians, insurance and real estate brokers, are faced with one of the biggest rental demands in the borough.

The largest increase in the building is sought from Bird's Business Institute, now paying $7,000 a year. It is understood that the original demand for this space after May 1 was $21,000, an increase of 200 per cent., but it is likely that this figure will be reduced. Goldner & Goldberg, architects, have been raised from $500 to $1,200; Robert S. Muller and J. Wilson Bryant, lawyers, from $600 to $1,200; E. L. Bord, broker, from $372 to $800, and Harry Zousner, dentist, from $75 to $125 a month.

DO YOU WANT A STEADY INCOME
and ABSOLUTE SAFETY With Increase In Future and Chance For Profit?

This can be had by buying a lot leased with Astor leasehold.
The policy followed by this family for 125 years.

The first opportunity the public ever had to buy land with an Astor leasehold.

For instance if you can buy one of these lots, west of 9th Ave.
for $7000, leased net per annum for $450
You can pay 30% cash, or $2100.
$4900 can remain on mortgage at 5% per annum (interest) 245
Net return... $205

OR ABOUT 10% ON YOUR INVESTMENT OF $2100

Tenants pay all taxes and expenses. As leases expire and rent increases your return will be even greater.

Besides you have the opportunity of selling at a profit.

This Sale therefore should be of interest to investors in Bonds and Stocks and depositors in Savings Banks

The Astor Leasehold lots have always increased in value made the best kind of investments and have made the Astor family wealthy.

There are about 63 parcels leased in this way

In addition to other properties, there are to be sold about 40 three-story, high-stoop, brownstone private houses on the residential block, 46th St., between 8th and 9th Aves.
on most of which leases expire May 1st, and which you can buy at your own price.

This will enable you to live in your own house at less rent than you are now paying in apartment houses, to say nothing of the profit which you will obtain as land increases in value.

Instruction.

SHALL I STAY? SHALL I GO?
Before making a change, find out if you are on the right track. To know what your lifework should be is a start in the right direction. The trained analyst will know from a study of your face the vocation for you. This study is based on known scientific laws. No psychological tests; no trade tests. Ask us all about it. Booklet "K" on request. Merton Institute, Inc., 96 Fifth Ave. (at 15th St.), N. Y. Tel. Chelsea 4054.

MAKE MORE MONEY.

Men with a knowledge of exporting and importing are in great demand; 60,000 manufacturers and export firms want competent help in this department of their business; we train you in actual export and import practice (no theory) and qualify you for ready, waiting openings paying $2,500 to $10,000. Write, call for particulars, or attend free lesson any evening, 5, 6, 7 P. M., Export-Import Institute, World Building.

GOOD ENGLISH PAYS.
Good English, spoken or written, is a basic requirement for business success; most men and women need training in English—sentence building, vocabulary enlargement, report and letter writing. Do you? Write or telephone (Cortlandt 1465) for informative booklet 73, "Your English." Ask also for details of special evening class in business English, now forming. Pace & Pace, 30 Church St., New York.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.
Men who can talk effectively to others, singly or in groups, are needed in business. Write or telephone (Cortlandt 1465) for informative booklet No. 10, "Talking to Others." Ask also for details of special Saturday afternoon class in public speaking now forming. Pace & Pace, 30 Church St., New York.

SPANISH! FRENCH! SPANISH! FRENCH!—I missed a $5,000 job as export manager because I did not know Spanish; then I learned it by a quick, practical method and would not part with the knowledge for a round sum of money; write me for a free book, explaining an easy method to learn all modern languages. Box 707, 12 East 46th St.

MEN—Good paying proposition; operate moving picture machines in theatres; experience unnecessary; we teach you; call day or evening. American Theatre Building, entrance 644 8th Av., 42d St. Phone Bryant 1519.

WHAT IS THE BEST USE

TO BE MADE OF

THE NEXT SIX MONTHS?

It is not difficult to answer this question for the office man—the bookkeeper, clerk, cashier, auditor, treasurer, credit man—any man who has the right slant to be shaped into an expert accountant, because he is in line for rapid advancement under proper direction.

THE FIELD.

The expert accountant is absolutely essential to sound business management and is in growing demand. Cost, executive or public accounting work now ranks with the leading professions. Experts whose training combines a knowledge of Auditing, Cost Accounting, Income Tax Procedure, Business Law, Organization, Management and Finance are in big demand at salaries of $2,500 to $6,000 a year and up.

TRAIN UNDER EXPERTS.

It is not necessary for you to have a knowledge of bookkeeping. We prepare you from the ground up.

THE LA SALLE PROBLEM METHOD

enables you to acquire this training in a few months' time. Thousands of ambitious men and women have doubled their income long before graduation thru this short assured problem method of instruction.

LA SALLE PLACEMENT SERVICE.

La Salle students and graduates are to be found employed in the executive departments of practically every large business organization. At each of the La Salle Placement Bureaus, located in the leading cities, there are many unfilled positions on file at salaries in excess of $3,000 a year.

LEARN WHAT THE LA SALLE PROBLEM METHOD CAN DO FOR YOU.

LA SALLE EXTENSION UNIVERSITY,
112 West 42d St.
Telephone Bryant 8920.
Evening appointments arranged.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, March 5—The Western disturbance of the last two days has developed into a pronounced and more general storm, and except in New England pressure is low tonight east of the Mississippi River with distinct centres of depression over Georgian Bay, northeast Tennessee, and central Georgia. In the Plains States and the Northwest pressure is quite high, while in the extreme West and Southwest it is moderately high, but again falling rapidly.

General and substantial snows and rains fell throughout the central valleys, the upper lake and west lower lake regions, the East Gulf States and the greater portion of the South Atlantic district, with snow falling tonight as far south as central Tennessee. There were also light local snows in the Northwest and rains over north districts west of the Rocky Mountains.

Temperatures remain very low for the season in the Plains States and the Northwest, and the cold weather has extended eastward through the Missouri, Mississippi and Lower Ohio Valleys and the Gulf States, the line of freezing temperature extending tonight into Southeast Mississippi. In the lower lake region, the Atlantic States and the Far West it is somewhat warmer.

There will be snow Friday in the lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley and rains in the Atlantic States, followed by clearing weather Saturday, except in New England and the interior of Eastern New York, where there will be local snows.

FORECAST.

Eastern New York—Rain Friday; Saturday, local snows, except fair in extreme south; much colder.

Southern New England—Rain Friday; Saturday, local snows; much colder.

Northern New England—Snow or rain in interior, rain near coast Friday; Saturday, local snows and much colder.

New Jersey and Delaware—Rain Friday, colder at night; Saturday, fair; much colder.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Rain Friday, colder in west, much colder at night; Saturday, fair, colder in east.

Western Pennsylvania—Rain Friday, turning to snow, much colder; Saturday fair.

Western New York—Rain Friday, turning to snow in west and by night in east, colder, much colder at night; Saturday, fair, except snow flurries in northeast.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1920.	1919.		1920.	1919.
3 A. M.	35	40	4 P. M.	42	58

CANADA INSISTENT ON FREIGHT CARS

Renews Demand for Return of 16,000, Chiefly in New England States.

RAILWAYMEN BLAME STORMS

Say Steady Return Movement Will Be Resumed with Coming of Good Weather.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Canada is renewing insistently her demand that 16,000 freight cars, owned by her railways and now in the United States, be returned, and bringing pressure to bear on the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association. It has even been said here that Canada will not permit more cars to cross the border until those in this country are sent back, although no such ultimatum has been received by the Car Service Division.

"The greatest relief we could have from the situation is ten days of good weather in the New England States, so we could get the cars into that territory and through to Canada," said an official this afternoon. He said the car movement to Eastern Canada was chiefly through Maine and New Hampshire, which were now ice-locked and snow-bound.

"Canadian cars have been crowding into this country since the Winter of 1918-18," he continued. "The weather, however, last Winter, as every one knows, was mild, and the car movement was not hampered by weather conditions.

"The largest number of Canadian freight cars in this country during 1919 was 45,070 on May 1. This number steadily decreased until on Nov. 15 there were 17,533. The cars were being returned right along and the number lessening until the last heavy storms. Since that time there has been a slight increase. This increase has been due to complete or part paralysis of railroad operation. When good weather comes the steady movement will be resumed.

"I do not consider 17,000 excess Canadian cars in this country a large number, or anything unusual. Canada is a producing country, and it is well known that a railroad which originates traffic can never expect to keep all of its cars on its own rails. We try to return cars to Canada right along, but I do not believe that she will ever get back all of her cars."

According to this official, instructions have been given to all railroads to return cars to Canada as soon as unloaded and not to use them in the meantime for other routings. Requests from freight-congested territory for Canadian cars for a few weeks have been refused.

"We want to get the cars back to Canada," added the railway man. "You know there is a demurrage charge of 90 cents per day on each car kept in this country, so you can see there is no reason not to return them as soon as possible. They cannot be used here to make up for shortage of cars belonging to American systems, so there is no reason in retaining them beyond the necessary time.

"The whole thing is the bad weather. One system could not move a single car on one of its New England lines week before last on account of snow. Some railway men have the idea that the Canadian lines are making these demands because they are themselves hard pressed by shippers and that when they find themselves unable to move cars in their own territory they complain that their cars are being held in the United States."

It is understood here that the complaints from Canada arise from the Railway Commission of the Dominion and from the Minister of Railways.

REPORT RAIL MEN RESTIVE.

Maintenance Union Decision on Wage Law Deferred Until Monday.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Whether 400,000 maintenance of way employes of the railroads will accept the agreement reached by other rail unions and give the new rail bill a trial will not be settled before Monday, J. J. Farnan, Vice President of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Men announced today.

Grand Lodge officials of the union held a preliminary meeting here this morning, and will continue in session until Monday. Some asserted it was becoming increasingly difficult to hold the men in check.

CANADA HAS RAIL DEFICIT.

Government Estimates $30,000,000 Loss for the Year.

OTTAWA, March 4.—Government railways of Canada, including the recently acquired Grand Trunk lines, will be operated at an estimated loss of $30,000,000 during the coming year, according to reports current here today.

This loss is said to be provided for in the railway estimates about to be presented to Parliament.

SENATOR WEEPS AT CHARGES

Stanley of Kentucky Examined as to Acts When Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 4.—Choking with indignation at what he construed as an insinuation that he had peddled pardons during his term of office as Governor at $100 a pardon, and with tears trickling down his cheeks, Senator A. O. Stanley declared dramatically before the legislative investigating committee today:

"No man ever dared come to my office with a dirty dollar in his pocket."

It was the climax of an hour's examination of Kentucky's United States Senator by the committee, made up mostly of Republicans, not only into pardons, but his alleged receipt of butter, pups, shoats and various items from the State Reformatory, either as gifts or at small cost. The scope of the examination also included the disappearance of several cases of whisky from the reformatory hospital.

"Regarding the whisky I am suspected of having purloined," he declared, "I never received one drop of it, and never received one drop while in the mansion. When I went to Washington some of my friends sent several cases of liquor." He could not purchase whisky and pay for it, he said, for the dealers refused to accept his money. He denied all the charges.

BOYS WANT WHEAT TO STAY.

High School Pupils Protest Against Removal of Principal.

It doesn't often happen that the entire student body of a school, plus the whole teaching staff, loves their Principal to such an extent that they shed tears at the thought of his leaving, but this is the case in the George Washington High School, at Broadway and Academy Street, according to a committee of four students who came to THE TIMES office yesterday. The Principal in question, who will have to give up his position on account of the action a few weeks ago by the Board of Superintendents, which has recommended another to hold the job, is Frank M. Wheat.

The boys said that Mr. Wheat was appointed to take charge of the school three and a half years ago, when it was opened as an annex of Morris High School of the Bronx. He has been popular ever since among the 1,500 pupils, due, the committee said, to his personality.

Petitions have been signed by thousands of parents and merchants demanding Mr. Wheat's retention, the boys said, and protest meetings have been held. Fearing that all these efforts might prove unavailing, this committee, consisting of Vincent Henry, Willard Kerlinger, Jack Javits and Norman Secord, was chosen to do anything else which might prevent the board from removing Mr. Wheat.

RAIL CONFERENCES START NEXT WEEK

Employes Select Heads of Unions as Delegates to Discuss Wage Problems.

PUBLIC MAY BE CALLED IN

Appeal Will Go to Special High Court Unless Early Agreement Is Reached, Workers Say.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Wage demands of 2,000,000 railroad workers will be taken up anew early next week when representatives of the Brotherhoods meet officials of the corporations in the first conference on the wage problems.

The date had not been definitely determined tonight by Director General Hines, in whose hands were left arrangements for the conference. It probably will be decided by Tuesday or Wednesday.

The employes will be represented in the preliminary sessions by the heads of the fifteen unions who have fought the wage battle together since last August. Their selection has been communicated to Mr. Hines. It was understood, however, that changes would be made in the personnel of the Labor Committee when the tedious task of working out new wage scales begins.

Representatives of the rail executives will be selected probably tomorrow, when the Association of Railway Executives is scheduled to meet in New York. The date of the initial session will be announced by Mr. Hines as soon as he receives the names of the corporations' committee.

Sessions of the Bipartisan Committee will be largely informal for several days, as it will require time to agree on procedure. The number of members to sit permanently in the bipartisan conferences also will be determined in the informal meetings.

Brotherhood leaders probably will insist that negotiations begin where they left off when the roads were returned to private control. Union spokesmen expected the Rail Executives Committee to object to taking in as part of the record the hearings held by the Railroad Administration's wage adjustment boards. These are very lengthy, and almost every angle of the union grievances were gone into. Despite protests entered by the unions against Presidential approval of the Railway bill, the brotherhood committee is prepared to hold its provisions over the rail officials when deadlocks are in prospect on wage questions.

The High Court, on which the public will have representation, will not have to wait long before it will be asked to hear wage problems unless there are early signs of agreement between the two committees, say the workers' representatives.

Factory Trucks—Warehouse Trucks—Freight-house Trucks

In Lubrication Alone!

Ordinary trucks have to be greased daily—Better Trucks have Hyatt Roller Bearings that run four months on one greasing. A few months of these savings will pay the total cost of your Better Trucks.

This saving is important—you've seen your own truckers wasting time greasing their trucks daily or waiting patiently (at your expense) to have them greased.

You can eliminate this constant waste of lubricant and time by giving every man in your gangs a Better Truck—easy running, durable, capable.

Keep Your Latch-String Out

When you hear that one of our young men—there's a flock of them in the city—is in your reception room, send for him at once. He's a Hyatt Better Truck Engineer.

He knows what carefully designed, strongly built trucks can do to speed up the work of your trucking gangs. Speed up the work with less manual labor and give you real, bankable savings in time, lubrication and maintenance.

He can tell you how other organizations have profited by using Better Trucks. His short but pithy story will be of interest to you and may prove of value.
